Johnson, Kosygin Hold Historic Meeting

Debate Goes on In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Breaking sharply with the Soviet Union, Communist Romania called today for peace negotiations between Israel and its Arab neighbors and promised to assist in bringing about a Middle East settlement based on peaceful coexistence.

Romanian Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer told the emergency session of the General Assembly that "negotiations and agreements" are the way to a peaceful, reasonable and lasting settlement.

He spoke as President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin met at Glassboro, N.J., to discuss the Middle East and other problems.

The assembly earlier had heard Swedish Ambassador Sverker Astrom urge a big power commitment to respect the independence and integrity of all Middle East countries, and to pledge themselves to seek no military advantage or to make any contribution to a Middle East arms race. Astrom noted that the Big Two meeting was in progress as he talked.

Both Maurer and Astrom asserted the withdrawal of Israeli troops from recently occupied Arab territory was an essential condition for a lasting settlement, but neither favored the Soviet-sponsored demand for a condemnation of Israel.

Maurer also called for the "elimination of all foreign interference in the affairs of the countries of the area."

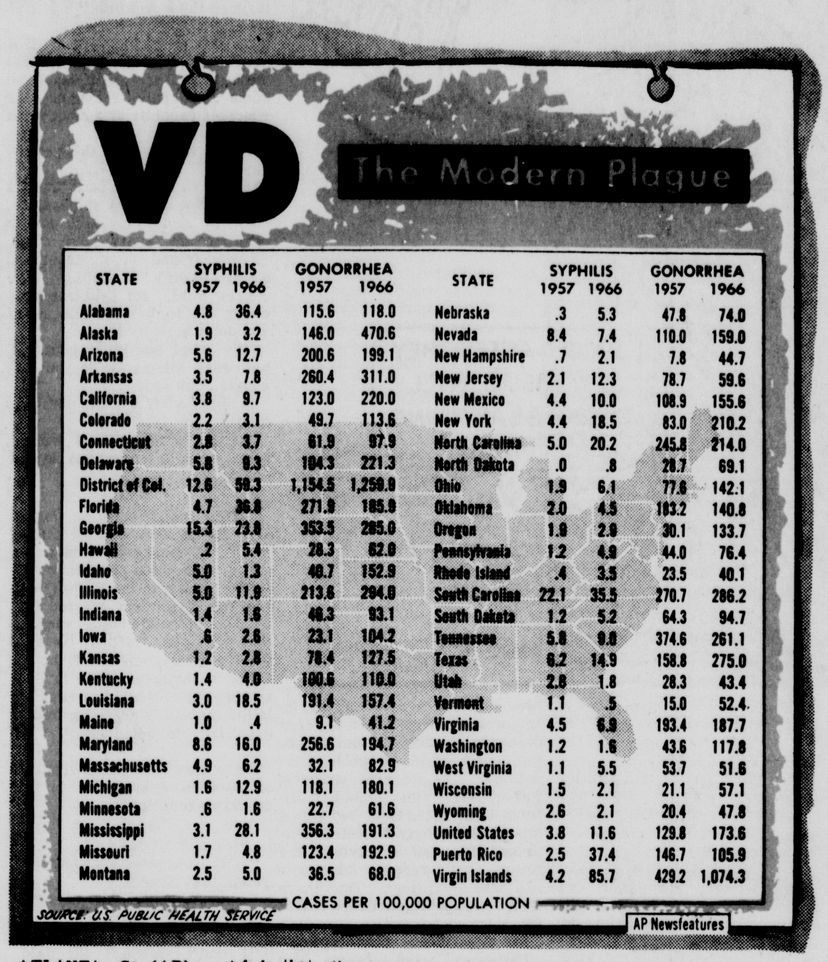

Astrom told the 122-nation assembly that a stable peace can be brought to the Middle East only by patience and through the cooperation of the great powers.

Astrom spoke after Afghanistan Prime Minister Mohammad Hashim Maiwandwal and Byelorussia's Premier Tikhon T. Kiselev had urged condemnation of Israel.

While the debate proceeded, delegates were engaged in intense private talks on possible compromise proposals which might offer a way out of the tangled situation.

Behind the scenes consultations at the United Nations were considered still in an embryonic stage. Most delegates predicted a long period of hard bargaining before the emergency session of the assembly receives a resolution that could command the two-thirds majority necessary for adoption.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) -- A federal health expert says venereal disease, which has been on the rise in recent years, is even now more serious than the great plagues which once ravished Europe.

William F. Schwartz, and educational consultant with the U.S. Communicable Disease Center, said in an interview that syphilis already has claimed 100 million lives in this century The plagues "never killed more than 25 million persons, and the greatest threat was in the 16th Century," he said.

He said more than 630,000 persons with syphilis are now walking the streets in the United States and 1.5 million new gonorrhea infections are occurring in the country each year.

Venereal disease problems are not brought on by sexual promiscuity alone, Schwartz said, and public attitudes are preventing eradication of the disease.

"Everybody associates VD with something dirty, with sexual promiscuity, sin or prostitution," he said. "But I can't believe that the hundreds of pregnant women who give birth to crippled or blind or even dead children have been sexually promiscuous."

While it is possible to contract venereal disease without being promiscuous, officials emphasize that one need have little fear of catching syphilis or gonorrhea except through intimate physical contact, usually related to sexual activity.

"The germs which cause these diseases simply cannot live for more than a few minutes outside of the human body," said Dr. Eugene J. Gillespie, also of CDC. "And so they must be passed from one person to another direct skin - to - skin contact, or, in the case of syphilis, from mother to unborn child though the blood stream."

Schwartz said public attitudes compound the eradication problem. Voluntary funds to educate the public on VD always have been small, he said, and federal and state funds are cut drastically each time progress is made in lowering the infection rate.

"In the middle of the 1950s," he said, "the federal budget to fight syphilis was cut from $17 million to $3 million. The following year the infection rate went back up, and we have been fighting 10 years to bring it down."

Schwartz said the federal government is currently spending $10.5 million on education and treatment of new syphilis cases, and "it is spending $50 million to keep up hospitals for the syphilitic insane."

The health educator said that once persons with advanced cases of syphilis are treated, their life span can be increased by 10 or 15 years, even though their minds are destroyed.

Early treatment of syphilis can cure the disease, he said, but the damage to the body cannot be repaired in advanced stages.

"It's like pulling a nail out of a board," Schwartz said. "The nail's gone, but the hole's still there."

Gunshot Wound Fatal

EAST PRAIRIE -- Charles A. "Poss" Abner, 47, died at the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston Thursday at 5 p.m., from a self inflicted gunshot wound.

Coroner Elgin McMikle said Abner had been despondent and had told friends that he was going to commit suicide.

Abner was found about 10:30 a.m. Thursday four miles east of East Prairie by Jack Adkisson, one of the persons Abner had told about the planned suicide, McMikle said.

Abner shot himself near the heart with a .16 gauge shotgun. He died during emergency surgery.

Abner was the brother of Jake Abner, chief of police.

Senate Censures Dodd

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Senate voted today to censure Sen. Thomas J. Dodd for converting to his personal benefit funds obtained "from the public through political testimonials and a politican campaign."

This was one of two counts on which the Senate ethics committee recommended that the Connecticut Democrat be censured for conduct that tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute.

He was only the sixth senator in the nation's history to have his conduct censured or condemned by his peers.

Still to be voted was a second count charging Dodd requested and accepted reimbursement for travel expenses from both the Senate and private organizations.

Before the roll was called, Dodd told his colleagues that "I am satisfied that history will justify me. But only time will tell."

"My future is in your hands," he told his fellow senators. "Let your conscience be your guide."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the ethics committee, said he believed the Senate fully understood the case and he would not try to sum up the evidence on which censure was recommended.

Then Dodd make his closing plea.

"Of course it is my hope you will exonerate me," he said.

Labor Day Festival at New Madrid Sept.2-3

NEW MADRID - A Sept. 2-3 festival for the Labor Day weekend is being planned.

A short reinactment of the battle that was fought on the Island No. 10 will be performed by members of the National Guard and the New Madrid Jaycees.

And 'Ole South costume ball will be held Saturday night under a tent over the tennis court near the junior high school.

A museum will be set up in the health center to display civil war relics and other collections.

Leaders Discuss World Problems

By LEWIS GULICK

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin shook hands today and went into a historic summit meeting to examine major tensions threatening world peace.

Johnson arrived at the 118-year-old home of President Thomas E. Robinson of Glassboro State College at 9:45 a.m. After flying from Washington to Philadelphia and then coming here by helicopter. Kosygin arrived in his motorcade from New York shortly after 10:15 a.m.

The two smiled broadly as they shook hands and exchanged greetings.

"You have chosen a nice place," Kosygin commented on the meeting site as he and the President surveyed the grassy lawn with its shelter of elms, oaks and linden trees.

The President had to wait 35 minutes at the doorway of Dr. Robinson's stately home before the Soviet party, with Kosygin's black limousine in the vanguard, pulled to a stop. It had been preceded by a squadron of police cars flashing red lights.

While he waited, the President chatted with Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, who had, with Mrs. Hughes, greeted him on his arrival by helicopter from Philadelphia. As he talked, the President's expression was solemn.

All along the routes of both the President and the Soviet leader, police were on the alert. Kosygin had traveled the two-lane Route 322, guarded all the way by state police. Along the way, householders, even with little notice, had found time to hang out American flags.

When Kosygin finally arrived, President Johnson stepped quickly to the side of his limousine. With the President was Secretary of State Dean Rusk. There were handshakes and smiles exchanged all around between the American and Russian contingents.

Both men were aware of the implications of their historic meeting, brought about only by the most delicate of negotiations.

Premier Kosygin had to worry about Chinese Communist propaganda which would surely accuse him of collaborating with the United States and "imperialism."

President Johnson had to consider the impact of the meeting on U.S. commitments in the Middle and Far East. Surely Vietnam as well as the Middle East were on the agenda.

Glassboro decked itself out in American flags to mark its sudden burst into the pages of world history. Students of Glassboro State College early in the day paraded with signs saying "GSC (Glassboro State College) loves America."

When President Johnson arrived from Philadelphia to be greeted by Gov. and Mrs. Hughes, he leaned over and kissed the governor's wife, remarking, "It's good to see you, Betty." Then he shook hands warmly with Dr. Robinson, the college president suddenly thrust into a world limelight.

There were introductions all around — Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and other presidential aides.

Johnson shook hands first with Kosygin and then with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko when the Soviet party first arrived in the mansion.

When Johnson's helicopter landed, Kosygin's motorcade was 10 miles away, in the vicinity of Camden, N.J. It had been proceeding slowly down the turnpike, apparently in an effort to time the arrival to that of the President. The calculations were a bit off, however.

In the President's party, in addition to the secretaries of state and defense, were Walt W. Rostow, presidential assistant for national security affairs; Llewellyn E. Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Moscow; McGeorge Bundy, on leave of absence as president of the Ford Foundation; press secretary George Christian and Marvin Watson, a presidential assistant.

For the most part, the welcome to Kosygin in the quiet little college town was courteous and warm, although one dissenter did cry out "No welcome, Kosygin."

As he waited for Kosygin, the President went into Hollybush and looked over the meeting site.

Charged With Intoxication

Lester Weidemann, 502 East Gladys St., was charged with driving while intoxicated on South Main St. and released on $106 bond.

Police arrested him after his car collided with one driven by Robert H. Lasters, Canalou, when Weidemann drove into South Main from the Elks lodge entrance Wednesday night.

Other police arrests:

U.S. Fliers Stage 3 Raids

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. pilots today reported successful attacks on two trains northeast of Hanoi, a missile site northwest of the Red capital and the Nam Dinh power plant southeast of Hanoi.

U.S. military headquarters said there was no significant action in 20 previously announced American and allied ground actions, but Saigon announcements often lag far behind operations in the field.

The 125 missions flown against North Vietnam Thursday cost another American plane, a Navy A4 Skyhawk downed by ground fire west of Haiphong. The pilot is missing.

U.S. headquarters said it was the 589th American combat plane lost over the North, including one other not previously announced.

North Vietnam claimed three American planes were shot down and "a number of pilots" captured.

A civilian cargo plane and a U.S. Air Force jet collided over the outskirts of Saigon Thursday, killing all seven American crewmen aboard the cargo plane. The two fliers in the Air Force RF4C Phantom reconnaissance plane parachuted and suffered only minor injuries.

F105 Thunderchiefs from bases in Thailand pounced on the two trains on the Phu Xuyen railroad siding 31 miles northeast of Hanoi. Pilots on the first flight reported their bombs were on target. A second flight of pilots said they observed 10 boxcars destroyed on one train and 25 on the other.

It was not known what the boxcars were carrying, if anything. Military spokesmen said they had no reports of secondary explosions.

Navy pilots hammered the electric power plant 46 miles southeast of Hanoi with 1,000— and 2,000-pound bombs and reported setting off a large explosion and fire at the 7,500-kilowatt facility that serves the Nam Dinh area.

The last raids in the Nam Dinh area were May 22 and May 24, when American warplanes attacked the railroad yards.

The strike Thursday was the first against the power plant in more than a year. It was reported knocked out in the previous raid but apparently was rebuilt.

Air Force F105 pilots also reported hitting a surface-to-air missile— SAM— site 64 miles northwest of Hanoi. Pilots said black smoke rose 500 feet from a secondary explosion.

Tow guns, a fan, two leather cases, and two radios were taken.

Woodward and Entrekin Elected

WARRENSBURG -- Kenneth Woodward, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Woodward, 408 Clayton, Sikeston, was elected state representative of Linn County Tuesday at the 28th annual session of Missouri Boys State now in progress at Central Missouri State College.

David Entrekin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Entrekin, 415 Dorothy, Sikeston, was elected state representative of Scott County.

Woodward, sponsored by the Bank of Sikeston, is active in National Honor Society, sports and student council.

Bear Killed Near Ellington

ELLINGTON , Mo. (AP)— A large black bear was shot to death by a farmer Thursday evening, the Highway Patrol said.

Bill Scott, who lives in Reynolds County about six miles south of Ellington, told officers he heard a commotion in his hog pen, got his rifle and went to investigate.

Scott said the bear had killed several hogs and when he approached, the bear turned and charged him. The farmer killed the bear with one shot.

Scott turned the animal over to the Missouri Conservation Commission. He said it weighed more than 300 pounds and was six feet, four inches tall.

Cape Airline Route Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board's Bureau of Operating Rights recommended Thursday that Central airlines linear route system be realigned substantially as the company requested.

Bureau counsel George N. Kenyon Jr. said this should improve service in several markets.

Kenyon said, however, that Central's request for area authority should not be accepted. He said this would allow Central to change basic schedule patterns without any requirement for showing of subsidy savings.

The CAB will reach its own decision after considering the bureau's statement, the views of all parties, and the examiner's findings.

Among the bureau's recommendations:

Deny authority for Central or Ozark Airlines to operate a route between Kansas City, Springfield, Mo., and Little Rock and require Delta to continue serving Springfield.

Deny Ozark's request for a St. Louis - Cape Girardeau - Little Rock route and for nonstop authority between Little Rock and St. Louis.

Pope Renews Celibacy Rule

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today renewed the Roman Catholic Church's ancient rule of celibacy for its priests despite growing pressure for relaxation of the ban on marriage.

In an encylical letter of more than 13,000 words — the sixth of his four-year reign — the Pope said in the opening words: "Priestly celibacy has been guarded by the Church for centuries as a brilliant jewel and retains its value undiminished even in our time when mentality and structures have undergone such profound changes."

Senate Tosses Back Remap Bill

The Senate refused to accept the House version Thursday and asked the House to recede from its proposal. The House, in recess today, cannot act until Sunday night or Monday.

Senate leaders hope to keep the bill from going to a conference committee. The governor has said if the legislature fails to act he will call a special session on the issue.

The House, in a generous mood, passed more than a dozen pay increase and retirement expansion bills Thursday.

It also sent back to the Senate with clarifying language a bill to extend state aid to kindergartens at an estimated cost of about $5 million a year.

Also returned to the Senate was a bill to let local governments set up retirement systems. Jefferson County was put back into the bill with the approval of Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, who had taken it out in the Senate.

Republicans were unsuccessful in halting the pay raise bills or reducing the amounts.

Sent to the governor were bills to boost the pay of:

Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter from $15,000 to $19,000.

The director of employment security, Herman Julien, from $14,500 to $18,000.

The director of the personnel division, Norris Steenberger, from $10,500 a year to $15,000.

Adjutant General L. B. Adams Jr. from $11,000 a year to $15,000.

The staff of the workmen's compensation division and that of the director of the division, Spencer Givens, from $12,000 to $16,000.

The director of industrial inspection, George Elexsenhar, from $10,200 a year to $12,700.

The St. Louis city prosecuting attorney from $14,000 a year to $22,500.

Also back to the Senate went a bill increasing the salaries of the state director of revenue, his collector of revenue and the state comptroller and budget director.

It would raise the director of revenue from $15,000 to $22,500 a year, the collector from $10,000 to $12,000 and the comptroller from $15,000 to $20,000.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
THE ELEVENTH COMMANDMENT

All 25 Republican state governors have indicated that, barring emergency, they will attend a two-day conference at Jackson Hole, Wyo. opening on Thursday (June 29).

Political scribes and prophets will be watching the Republican Governors Conference to see just how well the Eleventh Commandment is observed. This new political article of faith is a by-product of the 1966 campaign in California. It says, in effect, that Republicans should not criticize each other but criticize only Democrats.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California suggested at the close of the GOP governors conference last December that the same commandment should obtain in the national Republican party, even in Presidential primaries. Gov. Robert E. Smylie, who attended the December meeting despite his previous defeat in the Idaho primary, said that actually the rule had been enlarged to provide that "Republican governors don't speak ill of any Republican governors."

The Republican governors have every reason to maintain an atmosphere of sweetness and light at their gathering at Jackson Hole. The elections last year gave Republicans eight new governorships for a total of 25. Republican governors preside over 57.5 per cent of the U.S. population. The party gained substantially in state legislatures and sent to Washington a delegation of young senators and representatives.

But pitted against the reasonable admonition of the Eleventh Commandment will be man's ambition. Probably the only foreseeable Republican Presidential nominee who will not be present at the Wyoming grouping - if you eliminate such admittedly "only-if" candidates as Sen. Thruston B. Morton (Ky.) and Sen. Charles Percy (Ill.) - is Richard M. Nixon, whose six-month "sabbatical" from politics seems to be stretching out.

At the moment, Nixon appears to be the front-runner with the people who manage the party, the state and county leaders, while Gov. George Romney (Mich.) - if the public opinion polls can be believed - leads with the rank-and-file.

Romney at the December governors conference is supposed to have been designated as "the acknowledged leading Presidential candidate" by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Rockefeller has released two of his top political aides, Tom Stephens and Carl Spad, to the Romney forces.

So far Romney has shown an understandable reluctance to declare his open candidacy, despite the urgency of such as Rockefeller and retired Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania. But of late a ripple of interest in the supposedly rejected candidacy of Rockefeller himself has been shown.

Rockefeller has been in public life almost 40 years. Fortune magazine asserts of his service as governor of New York: "Those who have studied his eight years and five months in office - friend or foe (and there are plenty of foes) - have to admit that there has never been a period of accomplishment quite like this in the history of state administrations."

Rockefeller himself says: "I no longer want to go to the Presidency . . .I have gotten to the point where I want to live a quiet, peaceful life. You get to that point, you know."

But, as Fortune suggests, this is precisely what Rockefeller should be saying if he did want the nomination. And the Romney tent is crowded with Rockefeller people - all of them, for the time being at least, observing the Eleventh Commandment.

A good requirement for all public officials would be the following as outlined by J. Edgar Hoover for FBI personnel: "Selection of personnel is a primary key to effective operation in any organization. We feel that our personnel do not work for the FBI, but rather we consider that they are the FBI. Our recruitment and selection program is, therefore, calculated to enlist employees of fine quality - men and women who have a capacity for growth. The Agent applicant in particular must meet rigid physical and education requirements; he must have a real interest in a career of service, and his private life must withstand the closest scrutiny."

NO MATTER WHAT HAPPENS . . .THERE IS ALWAYS SOMEONE WHO KNEW IT WOULD.

WHEN TO ADVERTISE

A successful retailer once told a group of merchants that the time to advertise "is all the time." To a degree he was right. Hit and miss advertising is mostly miss.

There are certain seasons when sales for certain items are best. That is the time to advertise that certain item. When people are in the market to buy, sales are made easily and at full markup.

Every store has its own sales pattern. This pattern should be charted for the guidance of the advertising manager. Stocks should be peaked, and advertising should peak just ahead of the heaviest selling season for any item of merchandise.

Certain days of the week may be found to be better selling days. The advertising should reflect that fact. Certain weeks of the month may be better than other weeks. Paydays may make a difference in daily sales. All factors that increase sales should be reflected in the store's advertising program.

So in a sense, the time to advertise is all the time because there is always something in the store that sells better at certain imes.

Said Maurice Stans at the 71st Congress of American Industry, "We don't have to reverse or reconsider our federal programs on a wholesale scale, we merely have to hold them back a bit. We don't have to set the clock back to 1896, we simply have to slow it down while we close the three year lead that spending has gained over revenues. We don't have to veto progress, we merely have to abandon the 'crash' psychology that we can solve all human ills by massive doses of instant money."

"Glance identification" of exit and entrance ramps may soon become a standard feature on the nation's highways if color coding tests being conducted in several states prove successful.

Color coding - or the use of different colors to identify exit and entrance ramps on high-speed highways - is being tested in New York, Minnesota, Michigan, Oregon and Ohio with some surprising results.

Michigan, Oregon and Ohio are using yellow edge-striping for entrance ramps and blue for exit ramps on Interstate-type highway interchanges. In Michigan, color coding produced these results, according to Frank DeRose, Jr., acting engineer of traffic research for the state highway department:

1. Erratic maneuvers - or changing lanes before reaching the exit ramp - were reduced by more than 38 percent at one Michigan test site, and by more than 33 percent at another.

2. More than 92 percent of the drivers interviewed said the reflective, colored edge-striping was a definite benefit. The blue and yellow edge-striping reflects headlights and outlines ramps, especially helpful at night. Drivers traveling at high speed said they noticed the colored ramps sooner. This reduced confusion and mistakes that may have led to accidents.

Encouraged by these results, another, more exhaustive, test of color coding is now being conducted on US-23 in Michigan, DeRose said.

As an advance warning, New York's department of public works has installed red pavement in front of stop signs near Albany and Buffalo. Orange pavement is used to identify merging lanes.

FISCAL TIME BOMBS

One of the questions that has never been satisfactorily answered is, how is the theory of controlling economic cycles by judicious government spending to be enforced, when spending goes only one way -- up. A good example of the mortal conflict between the new economics and political reality lies in what one noted economist calls ". . . reckless disregard of prudent expenditure planning . . ." by Congress. He goes on to point out: "Prudent expenditure planning requires that the full long-range cost of every multiple-year Federal program, its effect on available Federal resources, and its importance in relation to other demands on these resources, be estimated and made public at inception. The Federal budget is full of fiscal time bombs in the form of projects launched with a small, seemingly harmless appropriation, but involving total future costs running into many millions or billions. Thus there is a 'built-in' threat that deficit financing and inflation may continue regardless of tax policy."

Throughout the length and breadth of this big country, political candidates strive to bring home the bacon in the form of an initial appropriation from Congress for the supposed benefit of constituents. Their efforts can make hash of the new economics.

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR LIFE

1. Learn one new thing every day.

2. Try to make as many friends and as few enemies as possible.

3. Do something each day to beautify and adorn your mind.

Every friend is an asset and every enemy a liability, Dr. Pierce said. He said take time every day to do a few things that you don't have to do.

"It's what you do to yourself, not what others do to you that counts," he said.

He topped off his talk with this one:

"If you want a short winter, have a note come due in the Spring."

NOT FIT COMPANY

"Will you have a drink?" the young man asked.

"I don't drink," his date replied.

"May I offer you a cigarette?"

"I don't smoke," she said.

"Would you be interested in going up to my apartment, putting a little mood music on the phonograph and . . ." she answered by slapping his face.

"I don't suppose you eat hay either," he said, nursing his jaw.

"Well, hardly," she said icily.

Doc. Duncan Says

Officeholders, lawmakers and big biz are making a fatal mistake when they persuade themselves they can drive the cross-bred, hi-bred American people by surrounding them with punative laws, rules and regulations, leaving them only one unsatisfactory avenue of escape while they themselves honor and obey no laws, rules or regulations of either God or man!

The present generation of teen-agers are wise beyond their years and most of them are keeping up with the goings-on in our Government, from dog-catcher to president, and are showing unmistakable signs nation-wide of doing something about it in the near future.

H. L. Hunt Says

EDUCATION IN FREEDOM

Another Independence Day will soon be here, and the occasion offers a fine opportunity for Americans to give thoughts to ways and means of preserving freedom in our nation. The threat to freedom is immediate and real, but it can be overcome if we, the people, are determined and active.

The informed patriot is the hope of our country. And education is his first responsibility - education of his fellow-Americans in the truth about freedom and its foes.

The advances made by these foes are based on the destruction of moral values and the concealment of truth. If liberty is to survive and advance, a new dedication to deep-rooted values and a continued revelation of truth are required. These are the highest functions of education and they can come only through education.

The individual who is determined to become an educator in the cause of freedom has many avenues open to him, including letters to the editor, the delivery of freedom speeches and the distribution of patriotic publications. The educational effort of liberty - loving Americans must take advantage of all means of communication. The effort must be directed at every community group, at all the different elements of the population.

Freedom has all the promise in the world to offer every individual and every group not trying to get power to rule over other Americans. Any person not utterly committed to a slave ideology may be considered susceptible to the appeal of the freedom story.

Political action is important and necessary, but education in public affairs can do more for freedom's cause. HLH.

EXIT WHEELUS

On May 27, Drew Pearson reported that Arab governments, even though previously critical of Nasser, would be stampeded by anti-Israel sentiment into retaliation against the United States, and that Libya would cancel the Wheelus air force base lease in Tripoli.

On June 9, the Libyan government notified the United States of the cancellation of the Wheelus lease.

WASHINGTON -- The pellmell victory of the Israeli army has confounded the U.N. diplomats, but it may have set one important pattern for peace.

The Israelis have indicated that they would be willing to make the city of Jerusalem, so sacred to the Christian, Jewish and Moslem worlds, an open city. Already the Israeli minister of religion has put a committee of Moslems in charge of the Great Rock, sacred to the Moslem faith, and a committee of christians in charge of the Holy Sepulcher, where Christ was buried.

If, in cooperation with the Vatican, the protestant churches and the Moslem faith, and under the eye of the United Nations, Jerusalem is now made an open city, it would serve as a precedent for peace throughout the world.

The next move would be to make other great and historic capitals open cities.

Athens, the capital of Greece, is the cradle of Democracy. Its great monuments must be preserved.

Rome, the capital of Italy, is also the sacred capital of the Roman Catholic world, and the cradle of the Republican form of government. It was an open city in World War II and must be made so in perpetuity.

Paris was also an open city in World War II. Its art, its architecture are among the great treasurers of the world.

London was not an open city during World War II, but was subject to relentless bombing by Hitler. It must be protected in the future.

Likewise Moscow, with the great art treasurers of the Kremlin museums and the palaces of the Czars, must be an open city.

Similarly, Washington should be declared immune from attack, as well as the capitals of Canada and Latin America.

If these cities are declared safe from attack, the world will have taken a long step toward the prevention of war. Ironically this will have happened through an act of war by the Israeli army. But it will also have sprung from the place where lived and preached the Man who tried to bring peace on earth, good will to men.

BLUEPRINT FOR PEACE

One trouble with the boiling Near East is that the United States has never shaped up an overall plan for peace. It has used fire brigade diplomacy. The state department has rushed in to put out the fires, but has never rebuilt to clean out the fire hazards.

Here is a newspaperman's plan for peace in the Near East, which may seem idealistic. But something like this will have to be constructed if even more dangerous war is to be prevented.

1. Make the Suez Canal an international waterway and simultaneously adopt the Truman principle of internationalizing other vital waterways, including the Panama Canal, the Bosporus, the Kiel Canal, the Danube and the Rhine.

2. Rebuild the old irrigation systems -- the Tigris, the Euphrates and the Jordan Rivers which once made the Near East the breadbasket of that part of the world.

3. Dig a canal from the Mediterranean to the Dead Sea. The Dead Sea is about 1,296 feet below sea level, and the fall of water from the Mediterranean into the Dead Sea would generate enough power to industrialize southern Israel and neighboring Jordan.

4. Give Jordan a corridor to the Mediterranean. In 1948, after Israeli first became a state, Mrs. Golda Meir held secret talks with King Abdullah of Jordan, grandfather of King Hussein. They planned to give Israel most of the Jordanian territory up to the west bank of the Jordan River, and in return Israel would give Jordan a corridor to the sea across the Negev Desert.

The plan was abandoned after King Abdullah was killed by an Arab fanatic while kneeling in the Great Mosque of Jerusalem, because he had talked to Mrs. Meir.

Jordan today is almost prostrate. It needs Israeli help to get back on its feet, and King Hussein, Hitherto, has been open minded about Israel.

FESTERING REFUGEE SORE

5. Solve the question of refugees. Ever since the independence of Israel, these refugee camps have been allowed to fester and grow into one of the chief detriments to good will in the Near East. Approximately one million idle people plotting the day when they will return to Israel by force of arms do not make for peace. It will take money from the west to solve the refugee problem, but the west has been putting up millions of dollars for refugee food every year, and it would be cheaper to solve the problem than continue the feeding.

6. Israel will have to change its attitude toward Israeli Arabs. There are more than a quarter of a million Arabs already living in Israel, and in recent years they have had the status of second class citizens. If Israel gave the benefits of its citizenship to the Arabs living within its own boundaries, it would help soothe the rest of the Arab world.

The basic fact is that the Arabs need Israeli technical knowhow and the Israelis need the agricultural and oil resources of the Arab world. A Sand Curtain of hate and suspicion now separates them. It will take time but the curtain can be lifted. It will take all the resourcefulness of western leaders and all the patience of Near East leaders. But the lifting of this curtain is the only solution for peace in the embattled and bloody Near East.

Inside Labor

REUTHER'S NEXT WAR

Detroiter Will Disclose New Strategy for Coming Assaults on All Industry at Special Parley

Washington, D.C.: -- This will be the summer of Walter Reuther's discontent. Having abided the wintertime by hurling lightning at his comrades in labor, the redhead now is about to mark his Thirty Years War with the nation's businessmen by challenging massive industry -- all of it -- not merely the makers of automobiles.

In this capital on the morning of June 28, Reuther will keynote a meeting of labor leaders including some who were with him when he was America's first angry young man leading his first be-in, then called a sit-in.

There will be newcomers. But, in fact, those around him in the Statler - Hilton will be of the old CIO.

What Reuther will say only Reuther knows. He writes his own speeches and chases his own commas. But the theme of the two - day conference called by the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Dept., created by its president Walter Reuther in the image of the CIO, will be "co-ordinated bargaining."

This is a theme and a jargon worth knowing for it is the computerized wave of the future on the labor front. It is a bargaining and strike technique which already has forced President Johnson to call out such odd labor experts as Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary of Defense McNamara, Secretary of Transportation Boyd and sundry Secretary of Defense McNamara, Secretaries of Commerce in addition to Willard Wirtz. The technique has cost one national corporation some $20 million during a seven months strike. And it is threatening to force Mr. Johnson to deploy his cabinet again this July when much of America's copper supply most likely will be hit by a coordinated strike.

"Coordinated bargaining" is the strategem of creating a high command of leaders of different unions which deal with one company. Sometimes that company is diversified, as is Armour which produces locomotives as well as frankfurters.

Sometimes the new laborite-type general staff deals with just one company such as Anaconda Copper, which will insist on dealing separately with each union at each of its plants and sites (except for one western installation).

To converge on Anaconda, Reuther's Industrial Union Dept. has created a central command of 16 unions. Twice they've met in Denver to plan action against the big copper corporations in general and Anaconda in particular. Some 100 copper and other nonferrous metal company contracts expire at the end of the month.

Among the 16 unions are bricklayers, steelworkers, mine, mill and smelter workers, carpenters, operating engineers, auto workers, electrical workers and, of course, Roy Siemiller's Machinists.

In Denver they coordinated their activities -- set up a central communications system, agreed to act jointly only, made a pact not to deviate from similar and joint demands, and to take direction from the new "Anaconda Coordinating Committee."

It will be a clamorous clash and the White House expects a long strike unless the courts or Congress move in.

But this is only the beginning. There are 70 to 80 such central labor commands waiting to take on heavy industry as contracts expire.

These central command units are mechanized. They coordinate by computer. They feed their statistics and experience into the memory box and get back information to feed all their people across the country. The nature of the struggle can be sensed in the words of the man who will follow Reuther to the platform that morning. He is Jack Conway, IUD Executive Director, one of labor's intellectuals, an activist in the Americans for Democratic Action. He will discuss the changes in corporate structure -- diversification -- and therefore the need for new tactical developments in collective bargaining.

If a businessman owns a bus company, a newspaper, an airline and real estate, then this change in structure, says the IUD, should be matched with a central bargaining command made up of the Transport Workers, the Newspaper Guild and the Airline Pilots, etc. -- all working together to hit the central "mother" company at the same time.

For two days Reuther will be meeting with his people, discussing computer data centers, and case studies of the sieges at General Electric and Union Carbide. Undoubtedly the redhead will be planning his second Thirty Years War.

Paris Collections' Hemlines Coming Down For Fall, Winter

PARIS (AP) — Hemlines are coming down in the new Paris collections for fall and winter. About an inch below the knee seems to be the consensus.

"Mine will be longer," says Carven. "Why freeze in winter?"

Coco Chanel, who once got herself in trouble with the young swingers with a blast at miniskirts, says: "I'm against ugliness. I always think of the onceover a man gives a woman. "Elegance is a harmony."

The collections will be shown next month. The Paris houses that went a couple of inches above the knee seem determined to reverse the trend. Dior made a tentative move in this direction last year by lengthening coats.

Guy Laroche thinks "the time has come to search for better proportions." He feels, however, "calf length is incompatible with contemporary living."

Jen Pomarede, designer for Jacques Heim, will show two lengths. For daytime, he skims the knee cap. From cocktail time on he has a "surprise calf length."

Gerard Pipart, designer for Nina Ricci, spreads his lengths around the block. For sports, he follows a traditional British look, below the knees. For afternoon they swing short, and for evening they are often irregular.

But nothing has changed for Ted Lapidus, the most offbeat of all Paris couturiers. He sticks to his guns and claims "both mothers and daughters will show kneecaps in a variety of minilengths."

Other than the hemlines, the prospect for the new season is a veering away from the Twiggy look and the masculine silhouette and back to the feminine girls. Clothes will be cut to show the figure. Waists will be cinched and always belted, necklines flattering and sleeves everywhere.

SAILING IN THE SUN

Sailboats in high and dry Arizona? Yes, indeed. Planners of Litchfield Park, a brand new town now under construction on 12,000 acres of farmland near Phoenix, have included a large man-made lake with sailboats in their layouts for the city. A survey of Arizona residents revealed that 60 per cent would like to live near a lake.

The city is expected to have a population of over 75,000 when completed in about 20 years. Each of the 12 villages around the central core will be centered around a different recreational facility - the lake, a golf course, or some other suitable community play area.

With evidence that spring is tops

Mrs. Larry Dean White

Carol Whitmore June Bride of Larry Dean White

DEXTER - Glowing pink cathedral tapers that marked the bridal aisle and the altar setting cast a soft gleam in the sanctuary of the First Methodist church June 10, as Miss Carol Whitmore exchanged marriage vows with Larry Dean White.

The Rev. Robert McCoy, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony at 8 p.m. before an altar arrangemnt of ferns, tree and branch candelabra holding pink wedding tapers and a large basket filled with pink roses and mums.

Mrs. C. C. Manlove, organist, offered a pre-nuptial medley of wedding selections and accompanied the soloist, Miss Pam Cooper of Kennett as she sang "Because", "Whither Thou Goest" and "O Perfect Love". The couple knelt at a brass prie dieu for the nuptial blessing.

Miss Whitmore is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Whitmore, 133 South Mulberry, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl White, route three.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of white crepe fashioned with a scooped neckline, long fitted sleeves that extended to lily points over her hands and an empire waist marked with wide chantilly lace. Tiny self-fabric buttons cascaded down the back and also fastened at the wrists. A bow at the back waistline marked the beginning of a long flowing train enhanced with matching chantilly lace. Her bouffant, four tier veil of illusion was secured with a flowerlet cap of lace, seed pearls and crystal. She wore a single strand of pearls and matching earrings. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses, lily of the valley and was centered with a detachable rose corsage.

Miss Kay Hart was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Janet Roderman, St. Louis, and Miss Beverly Corbin. Miss Mary Jane Whitmore, sister, of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

The bridal attendants were gowned in ensembles of floor-length mint green bonded crepe dresses fashioned with empire waistlines, short sleeves and accents of deep green velvet ribbon that formed bows in the back and ended in streamers. Matching fabric caplets held their green tulle veils and they complimented their costumes with white stretch lace gloves. Each of the bridal attendants carried long stem pink roses.

Flower girls were little Miss Deena White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Linville White, and little Miss Robin White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don White. Bernie. Both flower girls are nieces of the bridgesgroom. They wore mint green dresses styled with short sleeves and scooped necklines. They carried white baskets trimmed in lace and pink bows and scattered pink rose petals along the bridal aisle.

Candlelighters were Miss Barbara Haveman, Muscatine, Iowa and Miss Jo Dean Menke, St. Louis. Matching green dresses, street length, were complimented with pink rose wrist corsages to complete their attire.

Attending the groom as best man was Gary Bean, Cape Girardeau and groomsmen were Don White, Linville White, and junior groomsman was Mike White, all brothers of the groom. Ushers were Ray Fulkerson, Cape Girardeau and Bob Dodd. The men in the wedding party wore black suits and ties and pink rose boutonnieres with the exception of the groom who wore a white rose boutonniere.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Whitmore chose a pink silk and cotton dress with a jacket of eyelet embroidery styled with long sleeves and she wore a pink hat and matching shoes, and gloves. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. White was attired in a printed silk dress of aqua and green with aqua accessories and a pink rose corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in fellowship hall. The bride's table was laid with a white satin cloth and featured a three-tiered wedding cake topped with two love birds, silver punch bowl and silver compotes of nuts and mints accented the table.

Presiding at the punch bowl were Miss Pam Buckner, Desloge and Miss Diane Hathaway, St. Genevieve, with Miss Jean Brown, and Miss Megan Kempf, Florissant, serving the cake. Miss Carole Ringer had charge of the guest book and Miss Peggy McClain, St. Louis was at the gift table.

Following the reception, the couple left immediately for Victorville, Calif., and George air force base, where the groom is stationed. For traveling the new Mrs. White selected a pink bonded two piece crepe dress, styled with a straight skirt and a rounding neckline with bell sleeves. She wore the corsage from her bridal bouquet and matching pink shoes and handbag.

The former Miss Whitmore was graduated from Dexter high school in 1964 and has completed her junior year at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau. The groom, a Bernie high school graduate of 1962, completed three years at SEMO State before entering the air force.

A rehearsal dinner was given June 9 at the Whitmore home by Mr. and Mrs. Earl White, Mrs. Bob Dodd, Mrs. Linville White and Mrs. Don White. A centerpeice of pink roses, wedding rings and a miniature bride and groom flanked with pink candles adorned the table and cake and coffee were served from a second table. The large sheet cake was inscribed with best wishes to the young couple.

In our parish the priest was instructing a Confirmation class. "Be certain, girls, that your hair style leaves the forehead open so the bishop can mark it with holy chrism."

Then as an afterthought, he added: "I guess that goes for the boys, too." Mrs. Dean Pierce

CARDS' Road Trip Ends 8-2

LA Series in Bag

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals may not want to come home. The way they have been winning on the road, they might prefer to keep traveling.

St. Louis pounded the Dodgers 7-2 Thursday night and boosted its National League lead to two games over the idle Cincinnati Reds. The Cards won eight games during their 10-game road trip.

Ed Spiezio celebrated his first start in right field with a two-run single as the Cards broke through to take the lead against loser Claude Osteen with three runs in the sixth inning. Dal Maxvill singled home the other run in the inning.

The Cardinals also scored twice in the eighth and ninth.

Los Angeles got two runs off winner Steve Carlton in the fourth on singles by Ron Fairly and Wes Parker. But Carlton shut the door and finished with a six-hitter for his fifth victory against four losses.

It's a good thing Hank Aaron isn't mad at San Francisco. There's no telling what kind of damage he'd do to the Giants then.

Aaron, who was involved in a squabble with teammate Rico Carty as Atlanta flew west Sunday night, continues to take it out on the rest of the league.

He walloped a two-run homer in the eighth inning lifting the Braves to a 6-4 victory in the second game and a doubleheader sweep against the Giants Thursday. He doubled home Atlanta's first run in the 2-1 first game triumph.

New York's game at Philadelphia was postponed by rain, and the other teams were not scheduled in the National League.

In the American Legue, Detroit whipped Minnesota 5-2 and California bounced Cleveland 7-0. Kansas City at Baltimore and Boston at New York were rained out. Washington and Chicago had a day off.

Aaron's 18th home run, which won the second game for the Braves, gave the Atlanta slugger the National League homer lead.

He drove in three runs in the doubleheader with three hits in seven trips and raised his batting average to .322.

In the first game, Aaron doubled home winning pitcher Phil Niekro in the third inning. An inning later, Woody Woodward's double drove in Denis Menke with Atlanta's second run.

That was enough to beat Gaylord Perry, who struck out 10 but lost his eighth game. Niekro, sprung from the bullpen, hurled a six-hitter and won his third game.

Aaron broke open the nightcap in the eighth against Frank Linzy with Tito Francona on base. Mack Jones also had a two-run shot for the Braves.

Willie Mays' 10th home run of the season and 552nd career shot accounted for the Giants' only run in the opener. Claude Raymond, who got credit for the second game victory, got Mays pinch hitting, to smack into a rally-ending double play in the nightcap.

All-Stars, Aces Annouced

David Newberry, Dan Cartwright, Buddy Vaughn, Eddie Throop, Chalres Dye, Ronnie Senciboy, Les Schatzley, Leroy McCauley, Jerry Ogles, Jimmy Denbow, Stan Sorells, Ricky St. Cin, David Dollar, Don Miller and Grady Jones.

The boys will represent Sikeston in league tournaments this year.

There will be a district, state, regional and world series as the league all stars vie for the title.

Aubrey Davis will manage the All-Stars and will be assisted by Coaches Roy Weichand and Rev. Bob Jones.

Willard Sexton will manage the Babe Ruth Aces this season and will be assisted by Jim Sexton, Jim Musick and J.D. Schaffer.

Members of the Aces are Linn Corn, David Hackney, Teddie Watkins, Chuck Leible, Jerry Taylor, Mike Mitchell, Gene Spitzmiller, Derek Wilson, Ken Beal, John Scarbrough, Keith Craig, David Hampton, Curt Dacus, Girard Hunt and Gary Vaught.

The ALL-STARS and ACES will see action tomorrow night at VFW stadium when the Scott City All-Stars meet the All Stars at 8:30 p.m. The Aces play the Cairo All Stars in a 6:30 p.m. game.

Archie Moore

Moore To Speak At Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF - Archie Moore, former heavyweight champion of the world and a native of St. Louis, will be a guest of honor and featured speaker on the program of the second anniversary celebration July 12, at the Poplar Bluff Job Corps Youth Conservation Center.

His appearance here will be a return engagement for Moore who first came to Poplar Bluff as a corpsman in the old Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s. He had served in the CCC Camp located on the present site of the Job Corps Center, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

Moore's introduction to the squared circle came while he served here, when he engaged in camp matches and community boxing events. In 1937 he went to St. Louis as an enrollee to compete in the Golden Gloves tournament there.

Moore has identified himself as a juvenile delinquent in St. Louis who found himself in the CCC. In discussing his career with West Coast sports writers, he said, "I made up my mind at seven that I would be a boxing champion."

"One night, many years ago," Moore continued, "I put on the gloves with a well-known amateur boxer who had won two Golden Gloves tournaments. None of the other kids had enough nerve to box him, so I did."

A knockout in the first round sent him on his way to the world championship he went on to win 20 years later. Poplar Bluff area boxing fans may remember these early matches.

Moore, who retired after 30 years of competition and a technical knockout at the hands of Cassius Clay, has dedicated himself to helping youngsters of the country. He comes to Poplar Bluff in the capacity of youth development consultant with the Office of Economic Opportunity.

After his retirement from professional boxing, Moore conceived a system of youth guidance identified as his "ABC" (Any Boy Can) program to combat juvenile delinquency.

Moore received the John F. Kennedy award for outstanding service to youth at a father and son banquet for baseball writers and coaches in Sacramento, California, last year.

Larry Henson, Director of the Poplar Bluff Job Corps Center who announced plans for Moore's appearance this week, said the ex-champion of the ring and reigning champion of youth development will be at the Center for a two-hour period on Tuesday, July 11, to meet with the corpsman.

In the Wednesday program, scheduled to start at 10:30 a.m., he will share the speaking responsibilities with Governor Warren E. Hearnes and a number of other honored guests.

The program is open to the public. Everyone attending will have an opportunity to tour the Center. Administered by the U.S. Forest Service, the Job Corps Center is located in the Clark National Forest on the west side of U.S. highway 67, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

Manley Fires Second No-Hitter

Dexter, Sikeston Sweep Doubleheaders in CM Play

By RON JAYNES

Rudy Manley, hard firing right hander pitched his second no hitter in the Black River Connie Mack baseball league in as many starts last night. He teamed with Wayne Limbaugh to lead the Sikeston Potlatch Forest team to a twin victory.

Limbaugh opened the night's action with a one-hit 4-3 victory over the visiting Puxico nine. Manley checked the visitors, 10-0.

Manley was one walk away from pitching his first perfect game as he issued a base on balls in the first inning to the second batter after firing three pitches past the leadoff hitter.

In the other league twin bill, Dexter swept a pair at Poplar Bluff, 8-0 and 5-3.

Ken Walker and Rick Mooney teamed to pitch Dexter to its twin victory and into second place in the league standings, moving ahead of Puxico.

Manley collected 16 strikeouts in seven innings of no - hit pitching. He accumulated eight in a row as he put down the side in the second and third innings with strikeouts. He opened the season with a no - hit victory over Fisk and was followed in the next outing by Bruce Farris' no hitter.

Limbaugh, in his first game on the mound for the Foresters this season started out rough, allowing three runs in the first inning after walking the first two batters and then giving away to Jim King, who pounded out the first and only hit off the Forester pitching staff this season.

Eight strikeouts and five walks were issued by the right hander.

Limbaugh helped his own cause in his first game. He led a five-hit Sikeston attack with two safeties as his teammates scored one run in the first inning and added two in the third and one in the fifth inning for the victory.

Sikeston hitters pounded the Puxico hurler for 12 hits in the second game with Richard Montgomery, Limbaugh, Mike Garner and Manley collecting two safeties each.

Montgomery had a double in the first game and added another in the second along with a triple in leading the team in extra base hits. Limbaugh pounded out a double in the second game as he raised his batting average with a four for seven night.

Dexter pushed across four runs in the first inning and four in the fifth as they sailed to an 8-0 shut out victory on the right arm of Walker.

The winners collected only four safeties off loser Searcy but added the extra runs on base on balls and errors.

Matthews of Dexter pushed across two runs with a two bagger while Rains doubled for Poplar Bluff.

Walker had three hits in the second game. He paced a nine-hit attack that scored five runs and swept the second game.

Jordan Big Loser of Mideast War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is quietly considering what it can do to help Jordan, which appears to be the big loser in the Arab-Israeli war.

There are three key reasons for special U.S. attention to the plight of Jordan, officials explain.

— Jordan's loss of relatively more territory than Egypt or Syria, and of important sources of revenue, including income from tourism with such tourist attractions as Jerusalem and Bethlehem now in Israeli hands.

— The problem of refugees who left their homes west of the Jordan River in panic when the Israelis advanced.

— The belief that despite his participation in the war against Israel, King Hussein, Jordan's ruler, is still the best friend the United States has in the Arab world. Hussein, with Saudi Arabia's King Feisal, can again represent moderation against the leaders in Damascus and Cairo, U.S. officials hope.

Hussein, officials recalled, departed from the Arab propaganda line when he admitted at a June 19 news conference he had no proof of U.S. or British air support for the Israeli side.

Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser used charges of such air support as one excuse for the Arab defeat. The Johnson administration hopes this charge eventually will be discredited in the Arab world.

Hussein, it is believed in Washington, virtually became Nasser's prisoner when the Egyptians took control of the Gulf of Aqaba after withdrawal of the U.N. peacekeeping force. Jordan's only outlet to the sea, the Port of Aqaba, is in the Gulf and Hussein seemingly had no choice but to fall in line with Nasser.

Jordan's military hardware is believed to have been almost destroyed during the war with Israel. It consisted exclusively of British and American equipment, including about 300 modern tanks and about 50 planes.

What the United States will do to help Jordan is not clear. There is no hurry in rearming Hussein, though sources say eventually this must be done — with a proper ceiling — to prevent the Soviets from becoming exclusive arms supplier of the Arab world.

Some economic assistance, however, must come soon, officials acknowledged.

Officially, aid to Jordan is under review. Before the war broke out Jordan was expected to receive $30 million in "supporting assistance" from the United States for the next fiscal year.

A House Foreign Affairs subcommittee is reported drafting a call for review of U.S. aid policies toward Middle East countries which cut diplomatic relations with the United States during the war. Jordan did not sever relations.

In an announcement Wednesday, the State Department left Jordan as one of nine Arab countries where Americans can travel only under special restrictions.

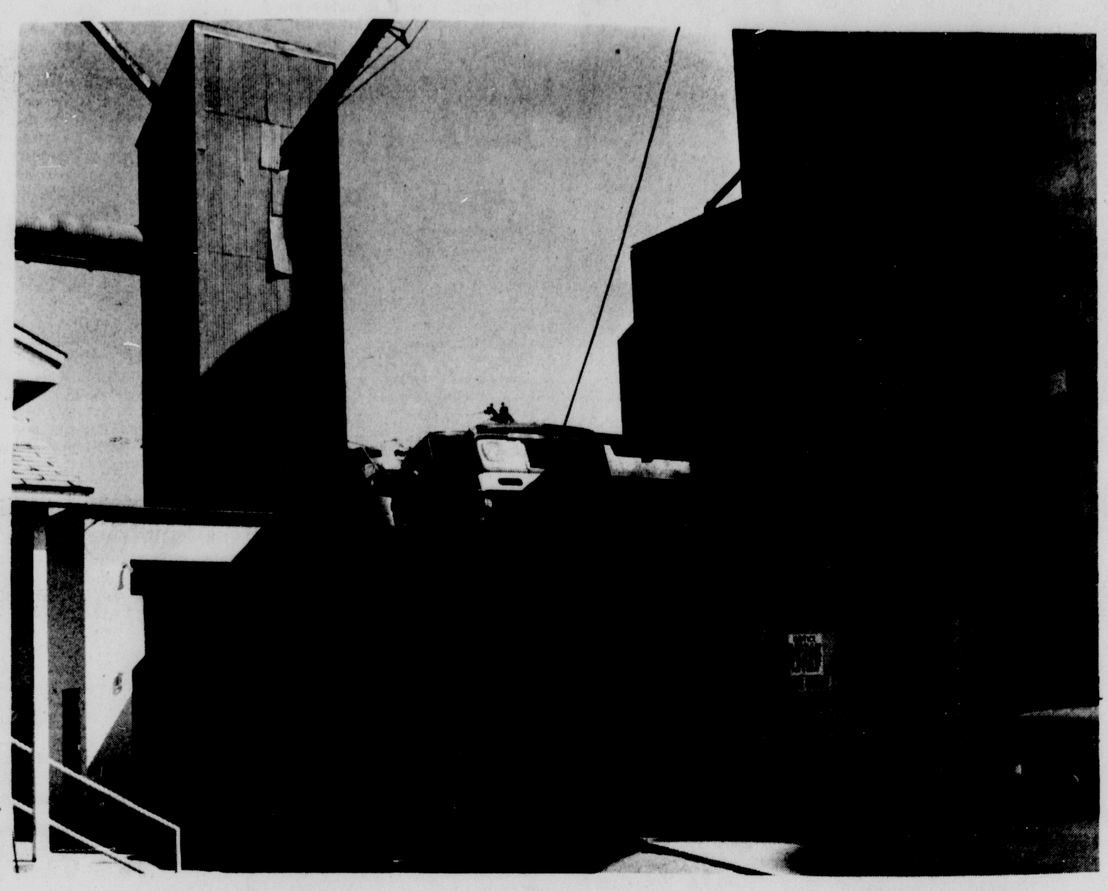

The department lifted its June 5 restrictions on travel to Israel, Morocco, Tunisia, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. Under the restrictions — also still imposed on travel to Algeria, Iraq, Lebanon, Libya, Sudan, Syria, United Arab Republic and Yemen — American citizens are required to obtain passports specifically endorsed by the State Department in order to travel to these countries.

Administration officials also said Wednesday they are studying what can be done to help Arabs who fled territories occupied by Israel. A report is expected next week.

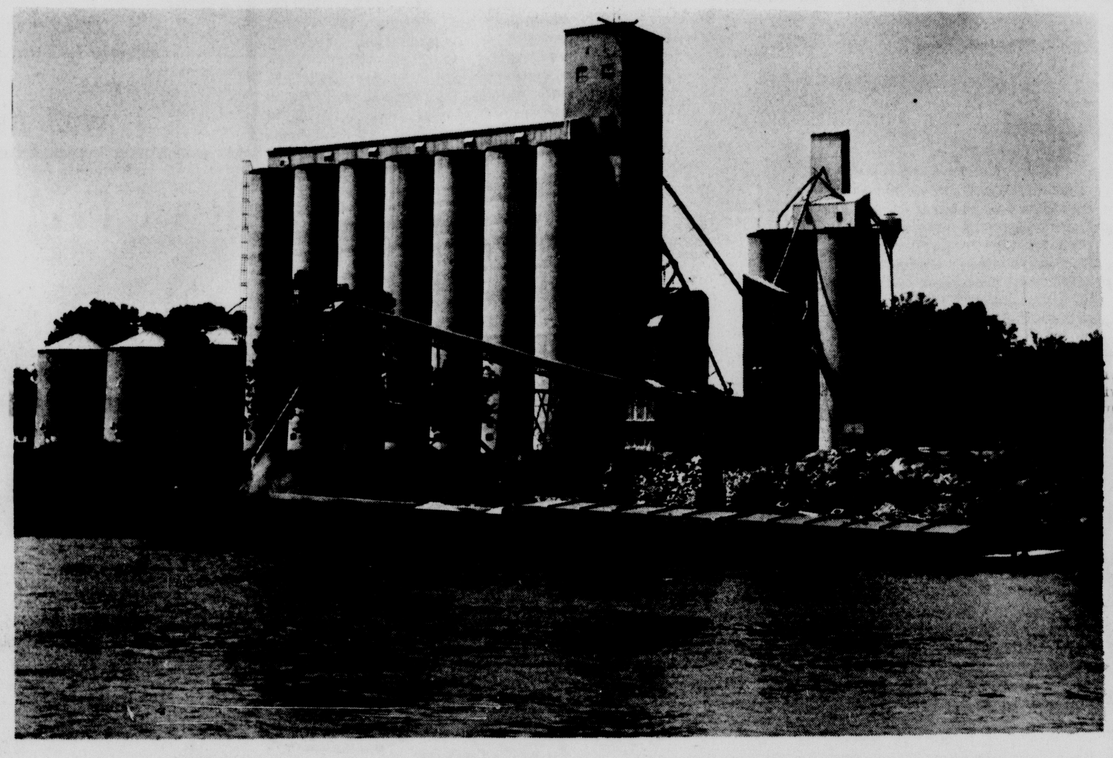

The State Department said it has informed Libya it is ready to continue talks on Libya's request that the United States close down Wheelus Air Force Base.

There's a power in prayer
That we cannot see.
It brings the sayer
Into harmony
With a larger sphere
Than our little earth,
So that 'now' and 'here'
Are like a rebirth.
Prayer is a grace
That is deep and broad.
Prayer is a place
Where you're in touch with God.

IN ONE SIDE wheat comes in trucks to the Caruthersville Missouri Farmers Association grain terminal. A truck is being unloaded on one of the three large trailer dumps at the facility. Yields are down this year but more acres were planted to wheat.

OUT THE OTHER SIDE goes wheat from the Caruthersville Farmers Association grain terminal. A barge is being loaded to carry the grain away on the Mississippi river.

WHAT'S A BIDET?

The bidet, which is popularly supposed to have originated in France and is pronounced bee-day, is being installed in more and more public washrooms, especially in hotels and restaurants. Installed next to the water closet, it's gaining converts among homeowners too. Besides serving as a personal hygiene device, it's also popular as a foot bath.

If you'd like more information on the bidet, write for a free folder to the Plumbing Fixture Mfrs. Assn., 1145 19th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

HEARTS ARE TRUMPS

During the 2nd World War, Malta was almost isolated by the incessant bombing of German planes, and food became very scarce. One morning I was seated in a coffee bar next to my store, about to eat a breakfast of boiled, egg, bread and margarine, and tea. An RAF sergeant entered the bar and asked for something to eat, but the proprietor had nothing to offer him. I gave him the boiled egg, shared my bread with him, and ordered another cup of tea for him. He accepted the food, thanked me, and went his way.

Later, as the bombing increased, our island was on the edge of starvation. Bread, our staple food, was very black, inferior bread, made largely from coarse - ground wheat and potatoes.

One day as I was standing on the doorway of my store, the bread," he added. "What I a horse - drawn wagon full of nice gave you was my ration, since white bread loaves passed by. once you gave me breakfast." A sergeant stood guard in the rear. He called to me, "Catch it!" and a beautiful loaf came flying into my hands. The same thing happened for the next several days.

Some time later the sergeant came into my store, introduced himself, shook hands with me, and explained that he was the noncom in charge of the RAF bakery. "I was not stealing

Nugent Baby Already Has Own Ranch

The President also made it plain he is bestowing one of his Texas ranch properties — formerly the Lewis Ranch, a spread of several hundred acres — on his daughter Luci and her husband, Patrick J. Nugent, now that they have produced their first son and his first grandchild.

Luci already is heiress to about $500,000. Her father often has said he had two ranch properties set aside for his daughters, Luci and Lynda. But he never said outright that he had made them a gift of the properties.

At the White House Thursday, however, the President made public a telegram sent to Nugent expressing his happiness at the birth of their son and announcing "our best Hereford heifer is being curried for delivery to the Lewis-Nugent Ranch consigned to your 9-pound son."

That made it plain the Lewis ranch was to belong to the Nugents.

Johnson, kept busy with the most pressing of international concerns including a meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in New Jersey today, has yet to see his grandson.

But there was little question at Seton Hospital here that Johnson probably would get here by Sunday to see Luci's baby.

Luci's Roman Catholic parish priest, the Rev. Harold G. Zink, rector of St. Mary's Cathedral in Austin, said he tried to see Luci at the hospital Thursday but "she was preoccupied."

He said he wanted to discuss christening of the Nugent baby. Father Zink said the Nugents had not yet decided who would do the baptizing.

The third-floor hospital chapel was decorated Thursday with pink peonies-some of the scores of floral bouquets being sent to the President's daughter.

Luci asked a family friend to distribute some to other patients at Seton.

An elderly woman, her leg in a cast and traction, was among the delighted recipients of Luci's flowers. She got a bouquet of yellow roses to brighten her hospital room.

Everything still was going perfectly, with Luci in "high spirits" and up and walking about her hospital room, and little Patrick Lyndon reported crying lustily and progressing normally.

Mrs. Johnson, in an interview in the hospital parking lot, said she and the President were "just beginning to stand tentatively on the edge of finding out what fun this can be and what new furrows it will open up."

Asked who the new baby looked like, Mrs. Johnson said with a smile, "not a soul has said he looks like Lyndon." She said he probably was more like his father, Pat, because "what little hair he has is blond fuzz."

Nugent has short - cropped blond hair while his wife has shining black hair, now worn shoulder-length.

When it came to being called grandma, though, Mrs. Johnson admitted, "Frankly, I'm not very partial to the word."

"I'm looking forward to the experience," said the 54-year-old First Lady with a smile. "But I don't know that I like the name."

Farm Labor Surplus In Southeast Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY - Surplus labor in Southeast Missouri is available for work in the Great Lakes states, according to the Missouri Employment Service, division of employment security.

Seasonal job demands for the Sikeston office area are considered to be non-existent. Earnings of labor for the cotton chopping were low. Despite no work conditions only a few youth and family groups are available for out-of-town work. The most promising supply of labor is high school and college students in search of summer work.

The farm labor information station and rest camp, route two, Sikeston, served 511 migrants last week with 117 en route to Illinois, 74 going to Indiana, 162 on their way to Michigan and 158 listing Ohio as their destination.

Hot days and warm nights have been beneficial to cotton in the Caruthersville area. Cotton is looking good although some stands at skimpy. Several acres of cotton have been sprayed for apids. Cotton chopping is at a minimum. Wheat harvest is approximately 80 per cent complete and the land has been replanted in soybeans. One hundred workers are available for referral to other areas for either cannery or factory work.

There are no orders for cotton chopping in the Poplar Bluff area. Recruitment is underway by an out-of-state canning company. Eleven left Saturday. Nine trainees have been referred to the farm hand training class at Marshall.

Labor demands in the Cape Girardeau area continue light, especially for seasonal hay jobs. There is a surplus of youths available for unskilled farm work - aged 16 and 17. Employers are being urged to utilize this source. Recruitment continues for workers, 18 and over, for cannery work in Illinois and Wisconsin. There will be a continuing need from now until July 10. Twenty one youths, ages 18 to 21, were referred to cannery work in Illinois.

The wheat harvest in the Kennett area is 90 per cent completed with the estimated average yield of 30 bushels per acre. The estimated average price this week is $1.40 per bushel. The harvesting of early varieties of peaches is near completion, with the harvest of other varieties to begin in July. Some of the soybeans planted after wheat are already up to a good stand. Cotton chopping activity has been going on throughout the week. Supply of labor is meeting the demand.

DON'T PUT 'EM UP

TYRONE, N.M. (AP) - Days of the wild west were relived when two masked horsemen halted their mounts on the new Burro Mountain-to-Tyrone spur railroad line. They were attemping to slow a train which carried a passenger car.

The horsemen fired their guns into the air and one of them boarded the passenger car and accosted the startled passengers.

The gunman strode up to Bernard Ponessa, of New York City, general traffic manager for Phelps Dodge. Instead of demanding the man's watch and other valuables, he extended a scroll which read: "Welcome to Grant County."

Phelps Dodge owns the spur right-ofway. Last Marvh 1 it completed construction of a 11-1/2 mile line connecting with the main Santa Fe Railway line into Grant county with Tyrone. At Tyrone, Phelps Dodge is in the process of reopening a copper mine as an open pit operation at an estimated $100 million cost.

The mounted gunmen were area ranchers Jack Hamilton and Jerry Billings. They said they thought up the holdup scheme "on the spur of the moment."

State Tax Dollar Bites Get Bigger

CHICAGO (AP) — State legislatures are taking bigger and bigger tax bites either through tapping new sources of funds or by increasing rates, a survey showed today.

The survey was made by Commerce Clearing House, a private agency that reports to its subscribers on tax and business law. It summarized major tax changes enacted so far in 1967 thus:

Nebraska has levied both a corporate and personal income tax, effective for income earned or received on or after Jan. 1, 1968, with rates to be set annually by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

West Virginia will begin levying a 6 per cent corporate net income tax, effective July 1, 1967.

Corporate income taxes have been boosted in three states—in Maryland from 5 per cent to 5¼ per cent, in Montana from 5¼ per cent to 5½ per cent, and in Tennessee from 4 per cent to 5 per cent.

Minnesota has hiked the basic income tax rates on corporations from 7½ per cent to 8½ per cent, and on banks from 9½ per cent to 10½ per cent. North Dakota also boosted the tax on banks from 4 per cent to 5 per cent. Vermont levied a 5 per cent franchise tax on financial institutions.

Maryland imposed a graduated income tax based on the federal law replacing the classified tax on ordinary and investment income.

Vermont now levies its personal income tax as a percentage of federal tax liability, with adjustments, and in Montana a combination of increased personal income tax rates and a 5 per cent tax credit carries the effect of boosting the tax in the lower and highest brackets and decreasing the tax in some intermediate brackets.

While Kansas has lowered its personal income tax on the first $2,000 of taxable income, from 2½ to 2 per cent, Minnesota has extended its boosted individual income tax rates presently in effect as well as the additional taxes and surtaxes on banks and corporations.

With enactment of two new sales and use taxes so far this year, 44 states and the District of Columbia now levy these revenue producers.

Nebraska's 2½ per cent tax became effective June 1. Minnesota will begin imposing a 3 per cent tax to replace the expired 2¼ per cent sales tax and former 2¼ per cent use tax.

Sales and use tax increases were enacted in Rhode Island—4 per cent to 5 per cent; Washington—4.2 per cent to 4½ per cent; and in Wyoming—2½ per cent to 3 per cent.

Texas has authorized local sales and use taxes of 1 per cent which would apply to the same property and allow the same exemptions as the 2 per cent state tax. Nevada has also imposed a mandatory 1 per cent county sales and use tax similar to the 2 per cent tax.

In our parish a retired priest was called in to help out on Sundays in the absence of the pastor. Everything is up to date in our church, so the assistant pastor and the lay reader had to give a complicated explanation of how the old priest should celebrate Mass here.

As the instructions got longer and longer, th old priest reddened. Finally, he could contain himself no longer.

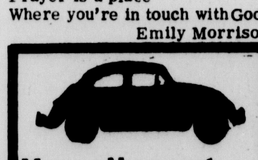

"Gentlemen, please!" he said. "Leave the Consecration to me."

Dorothy Barron

Little Betty lived in the city and this was her first visit to her uncle's farm. Everything about it interested her. When she saw the men spreading out a cock of hay to dry she could contain her curiosity no longer.

"Are you gentlemen looking for a needle?" she asked politely.

Lightning Out of Israel Prepared by AP Writers

NEW YORK - That's the title of a handsome, hard cover, profusely illustrated book on the six-day war between Israel and the Arab states, now being prepared for you by a task force of The Associated Press, world's largest news gathering organization, of which this newspaper is a member.

The task force, headed by Saul Pett, Hugh Mulligan and other widely known byline writers, and by Max Desfor, Pulitzer prize winning photographer and picture editor, is tapping all available sources in the Middle East to tell you what really happened, not only in terms of military movements but of the common people and the leaders involved.

Scores of news pictures and maps in color and black and white, most of them previously unpublished, will help make this 160-page volume memorable in the tradition of "The Torch is Passed," AP's classic account of the Kennedy assassination.

To reserve your copy of the Middle East war book while the supply lasts, fill out the coupon and mail at once with $2 for each book desired. Checks can be made out to this newspaper. Books will be ready in about five weeks.

East Prairie Votes On Gas Franchise

EAST PRAIRIE - East Prairians will vote Tuesday on a proposed renewal of the Associated Natural Gas Company's franchise to supply natural gas to the city.

Under the proposed franchise, which is for 10 years with two-five-year renewal options, the company will pay the city a tax of five per cent of its receipts, instead of the present two per cent.

My neighbor reported that my six-year-old son was watching her dampen clothes for ironing and asked her what she was doing.

Rep. Tony Heckemeyer Reports

JEFFERSON CITY-- This week the Missouri general assembly finally came up with a feasible plan for the redistricing of the 10 congressional districts in Missouri. This plan is acceptable to me and I believe will protect the interests of the people of the district. One regrettable feature of the plan is that perhaps we shall have to expand again very shortly as the census of 1970 will show a population loss for the district.

It appears that the 10th District will probably be composed of the following counties: Howell, Shannon, Reynolds, Iron, St. Francois, Ste. Genevieve, Perry, Cape Girardeau, Madison, Wayne, Carter, Oregon, Ripley, Butler, Bollinger, Stoddard, Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

House bill 727 was passed by the House with Senate amendments which would extend accident and health insurance policies over children who are retarded or have a physical handicap and must stay at home as long as they are incapable of self-sustaining employment by reason of their handicap and are dependent upon the policy holder for support and maintenance. At the present this coverage expires in most policies at either 18 or 21.

House Bill 458 was passed, giving our Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, State Auditor, State Treasurer and Attorney General pay increases. These are much needed increases as most of these men do not make as much as a college professor at the present time and to me, this is positively ridiculous when the burden that these men carry is weighed in the present salary structure of our society.

Senate Bill 73 was passed which will allow employers under Workmen's Compensation a bit of a break in computing their rate of payments into the fund. It would allow a new employer to adjust his rate without waiting the present required three years. This is very good legislation and at the present time this fund has a surplus of 280 Million Dollars, and at the present time this fund has a surplus of 280 Million Dollars, which would tend to indicate we have some breathing room for adjustment.

Senate Bill 224 was passed which creates a governmental emergency fund committee which will have some money available to it which may be used for emergencies which pop up in the running of our state government. One case in point was the explosion of the heating system ine one of our state hospitals. It was necessary to spend $16,000 immediately to repair the heating system but the money was not available, as the law requires that only the Assembly could appropriate funds for this type of thing.

Senate Bill 6, after almost nine hours of debate, was finally passed. This provides for annual automobile inspection. The fee will be $2.50 and the inspection must be made prior to the licensing of a vehicle each year. It was felt by the proponents of this bill that this would be a wonderful safety measure for the motorists in the State of Missouri. I tend to agree but I feel it is going to be quite a pain in the neck as the years go by.

If you have any questions, please feel free to write me.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Wil Rose discovered his life's work in the middle 1950's while on a nine month trip documenting with film, tapes and artifacts the cultures of 22 countries in Europe and Asia for Los Angeles State College. He saw people in each country facing simple technical problems in agriculture, construction, medicine, etc. He also knew there were people in the United States who had the solutions. It was a matter of communications.

In 1958 Rose founded DATA (stands for Development and Technical Assistance) International which is dedicated to the precept that practical, usable information transmitted from qualified, concerned individual Americans to citizens in underdeveloped lands can alleviate human misery and create greater understanding among world's peoples.

Except for the administrative staff of a half-dozen people, DATA is comprised of volunteers, 2000 technical assistants in the U.S. and 10,000 Amercians living overseas who report problems. In the past nine years over 7,000 problems and solutions have been processed through DATA. It is supported by contributions from private individuals, companies, organizations, and foundations. Wil Rose says, "I expose my faith, I don't impose it."

Islanders Want Adam To Go Home

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — There are no "Adam Go Home" signs in Bimini, and with the praise that flows every time representative-elect Adam Clayton Powell's name is mentioned, there aren't likely to be any.

Nonetheless, some Biminians are beginning to ponder the same question being asked in some Harlem circles: Why doesn't he go home, at least for a visit?

"Adam Powell is a nice man," said one of the young men who works near the two bars which Powell most often frequents, "But I don't think he's being fair to the people who elected him."

Several groups in Harlem have voiced the same opinion since Powell, a Democrat, won a landslide re-election April 11 to the House of Representatives seat from which the House excluded him March 1.

Powell has said he is afraid there will be civil disturbances if he returns to Harlem and is arrested. Two contempt-of-court arrest warrants still threaten him if he sets foot in New York State.

Several Harlem groups have sent telegrams to Powell urging him to come home. Most point out that even if he is arrested, he would simply be joining the ranks of such Negro leaders as Dr. Martin Luther King and CORE's Floyd McKissick.

A telegram sent last month by a group of Harlem ministers, said "the fight is on the streets of Harlem," not in Bimini. It was liberally quoted in an editorial in the New York Courier, one of Harlem's two weekly newspapers.

Two weeks ago J. Raymond Jones, formerly head of Tammany Hall, a Negro and once a strong Powell supporter, surprised everyone with a statement that Powell, veteran of 22 years in Congress, could never regain the power he once had.

It looked to some like the opening of a "get-Powell" campaign. The Rev. R. M. Kinloch, chairman of Harlem's Protestant Council and a signer of the ministers' telegram, said he knew of several persons who were considering running against the congressman-elect in the next election, a little more than a year away.

"We stood up and fought for him," Kinloch said. "Now the question is, will he stand up and fight for us?"

Jones blamed Powell's downfall on his alliance with "extremist" groups, particularly those supporting black power.

Some Bimini residents also question what they say is his constant discussion of black power and being black.

"He talks about it all the time," said one of a crew that transports tourists around the two small islands that make up Bimini. "Don't put my name down in no newspapers," he said, in a reaction common among islands when asked about the visiting politician.

Even the Sunday sermons that Powell used to give regularly often dealt with black power, islanders said. One of the four-man instrumental group calling itself Adam's Disciples said Powell had explained in a sermon three weeks ago that "anybody can be black, it's a frame of mind."

A group of a dozen or so young men hang around Powell and usually see him on weekdays when he docks his boat, Adam's Fancy, after a day of fishing in the clear Bahamas waters.

"He talks the same as he's been doing since he came down here," one of the group said. "I just talked to him yesterday, but I still don't understand why he doesn't go back. What would a day in jail mean to him?"

"Maybe there would have been riots Palm Sunday," said another, "but not now."

He referred to a promise Powell had made to return to Harlem in triumph on Palm Sunday, then broke, saying he wanted to avoid possible riots.

A trip across the narrow strait to the almost unpopulated island of South Bimini, where Powell lives in a tiny blue and white house set on a treeless hummock of land, resulted in a brush-off of such questions.

The bus driver refused to go beyond Powell's property line, explaining that the congressman-elect had ordered the bus company to keep away anyone who did not have an appointment, especially reporters.

A tall man rushed out of the house to intercept a visitor about 50 feet from the house.

"The congressman will have nothing to say," he said, as Powell's voice rose in an unintelligible shout from the house.

Bullfights Stir up TV Controversy

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The sword went in half way, but the bull refused to die.

Blood streaming down his lance-fringed shoulders, he charged not his tormentors but the matador's cape. Knifed anew, four minutes after the initial thrust, the beast fell dead — to oles mingled with boos for the botched butchery.

So went the last of four kills Saturday night on local station KHJ-TV's 8 p.m. bullfights filmed in Tijuana and Mexico city — a show that has brought both hisses and bravos.

With the first telecast, a week earlier, KHJ asked viewer comment. Letters included:

"My husband and I were thoroughly shocked. Those fellows take turns torturing an animal."

"I turned off the television, absolutely sickened."

"Dear sadist: Keep it off TV on a night that most children are up watching."

Some approved: "I thought the program was great." "Thank goodness someone has the courage to put this marvelous national sport on a major channel."

"We are grandparents in our mid-fifties, but aficionados nonetheless. Your program is a dream come true."

The station says mail from the first program was 83.1 per cent in favor and 16.9 per cent against continuance.

Then, it says, a local of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals newsletter to members protesting "death in the living room" and "dramatic exhibitions of torture," brought almost solid opposition in the second week's mail. The cumulative percentages fell to 58 for, 42 against.

Mal Klein, KHJ-TV general manager, says bullfights are shown on about 20 U.S. stations, mostly UHF, and, "We're airing them on an experimental basis. Our community has a strong Latin heritage, and that heritage includes bullfighting."

The American Humane Association, through its president, has "most vehemently" protested the telecasts to the Federal Communications Commission. It called "this activity unlawful in every state" and a "violation of the broadcast industry's own television code."

Will KHJ-TV continue the program? Says Klein: "I don't know."

A legitimate letter received at the State Health Department in Albany, N.Y. requested: "Dear Sir, would you please send my brother-in-law any free booklet on mental health. . ."

Young GOP Group Defies Senior Rule

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — In open revolt against domination by the senior GOP, Young Republicans are selecting a national chairman who may have the future of their organization in his hands.

Senior Republicans reacted quickly to Thursday's rejection by the Young Republican Federation convention of a series of amendments to their constitution which would have strengthened the hand of GOP National Chairman Ray Bliss in dealing with them.

The young GOP first rejected a constitutional amendment that would allow the senior organization to put two observers on the Young Republicans executive board.

Then, perhaps fearful they had gone too far in rebuffing the man who holds the purse strings, they approved a change in bylaws to permit two members of the Republican National Committee to sit with the Young Republicans executive group. The bylaws change could be rescinded at any time by another convention.

To emphasize its departure from routine support of the national party, the convention declined to give unanimous approval of a resolution offered by the moderate Pennsylvania delegation praising Bliss. Instead, this issue was put to a voice vote in which a few conservatives shouted their minority dissent.

Jack McDonald of Nashville, Tenn., considered most likely to be elected national Young Republicans chairman today, said that if he is chosen to head the organization he will cooperate closely with Bliss. This cooperation seemed likely to leave in the hands of the new chairman the issue of whether the national organization might cut off the $21,000 budgeted by the national committee for the Young Republicans during the next year.

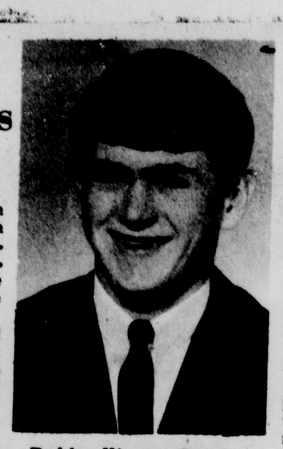

"I don't interpret the action of the convention in voting on constitutional amendment as being any sort of slap at Mr. Bliss," McDonald said.

"It's absolutely necessary that the Young Republicans and the senior party organization work together. We both want winners."

Jack Jordan, Pennsylvania's senior party chairman, said, however, the convention action was a slap at Bliss and the moderates who are supporting Michigan Gov. George Romney for the Republican presidential nomination.

"During most of the last five years, the government has provided a climate generally favorable to business. But it has made some mistakes which threaten to lead us into trouble. One of these is the failure to curb government spending and attempting as well to deal with inflation by interfering, hit or miss, with individual segments of our economy."

Bobby Wayne Stone

Scholar Wins PCA Award

PARMA - Valedictorian of the high school senior class, Bobby Wayne Stone, was awarded one of the three scholarships made available by the Production Credit Associations of Missouri for 1967-68.

The scholarship is for $300.

Stone is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eugene Stone of route one, Malden.

He will enter the University of Missouri college of agriculture to study agriculture education or agriculture engineering.

Stone was a member of a class of 33. He is serving as president of the student council and the Future Farmers of America. He has been a delegate to Future Farmers of America state conventions. His Future Farmer of America enterprise program was swine. He has been secretary-treasurer of the pep club. Stone has participated in baseball three years. He attends the Maple Grove General Baptist church and teaches a Sunday School class.

Stone is employed by the Ford Motor Company in St. Louis. Thatcher Scism, manager of Sikeston PCA, said that this is the first time a Bootheel boy has received the scholarship.

Baugher Finishes His Naval Course

GREAT LAKES, ILL. -- Seaman Recruit Loy M. Baugher, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loy M. Baugher of 907 Hawthorne Drive, Sikeston, Mo., has been graduated from nine weeks of basic training at the naval training center.

Dexter Marine In Vietnam

KY HA, VIETNAM -- Marine Pfc. Charles R. Shipman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Shipman of 728 East Stoddard St., Dexter, Mo., is serving in Vietnam as a member of marine air base squadron 36, a unit of the first marine air wing based near Ky Ha.

Personnel of the squadron maintain and operate camp facilities, and provide perimeter security for the facility in support of the helicopter squadrons of marine aircraft group 36.

'I'll Carry Your Crutches!'

Oh, Let me help you. Let me take your crutches!" This was the sincere though scarcely helpful reaction of a dear friend upon seeing me for the first time trying to navigate on crutches after my accident a few weeks ago. Ever since, my plight has been the object of concern not only to friends, but to total strangers.

Anyone who thinks of New York as a cold, unfriendly city need only to appear on crutches to have people rush to the rescue, even when rescue is not exactly needed!

At first I was inclined to receive such unneeded gestures with a polite but firm refusal. Smiling faces would cloud over and the helpful one would turn away, embarrassed and a little put out. So now I let them help me up and down curbs I am well able to manage alone, and I thank the holders of doors and hailers of taxis with warmth and sincerity.

Perfect strangers will stop dead in their tracks and spend five minutes trying to get a cab for one they feel is "afflicted." These are not always occasions of pure, unalloyed joy. Take the other morning, for instance.

An elderly gentleman was standing outside the coffee shop on the corner. Seeing my attempts to hail a cab, he gallantly sprang to the rescue -- sprang clear out into the middle of the speeding morning traffic, arms waving wildly, white hair blowing in the wind.

Figuratively wringing my hands, and hardly daring to look, I called to him "not to bother." "No trouble," he yelled back, still surrounded by traffic. A taxis turned the corner, and I hailed it gratefully. The old gentleman, beaming, dashed me in. "Knew we'd make it," he said as he slammed the door and waved me off.

Absolute strangers stop one to discourse at great length on the accidents that befell wives, sisters, husbands, grandmothers and great-aunts. They tell me all, never allowing me to get a word in about my fascinating accident and hospital experience. Only he who is first, loudest and firmest stands a chance.

But one of the really nice things about it, apart from the sense of goodwill and kindness they create, is the fact that each person goes out of his way to speak a word of encouragement and hope.

I am under no illusions. If I were being mugged, robbed or murdered, perhaps no one would come to my rescue. But an accident, crutches, apparent helplessness in a mild sort of way, is something people can relate to, especially when the situation is not too challenging or involving.

"Am I my brother's keeper?" More and more the world is saying, "No." Increasingly the answer is that I am my brother's keeper only in a corporate sense, through payment of taxes and contributions to charities.

The concern for one's fellow human beings is more, however, than a desire to fulfill the conditions of Christian discipleship. It seems to me that there is a shy, almost tentative need in the human heart to be needed, and there is also that hardly acknowledged but none the less urgent need for the fellowship and concern of others. It is through this interaction of human needing and giving that we come closer to the divine.

Michel Quoist says it so simply and clearly:

"Lord, I need others . . .
But I avoid the hands outstretched to help me.
I want to act alone, I want to fight alone,
And yet beside me walk a friend, a spouse,
A brother, a fellow worker.
. . . Too often I ignore them.
And yet it is together that we shall save the world."

COON - FUSED

By choice I'm a vegetarian,
Caring little or naught for meat;
Give me turnip greens and cornbread,
Or pastries soft and sweet.

I went to a community supper
(I guess I'm just a goon)
To watch a thousand people

Charlotte T. Place

It was my first Thanksgiving in the United States, and I had been standing wide-eyed with the crowd in New York City watching the annual Macy's parade. Suddenly I realized that, if I didn't make a break for it, I would miss my train and be late for dinner with friends. I ducked into a subway entrance and went up to the booth to buy a token. The clerk asked, "What country are you from, young lady?"

"Turkey," I answered.

"Turkey!" he exclaimed. "Why turkey and Thanksgiving go together - we can't possibly let you pay on such a day."

With that he opened the gate, then told me what train to take and where to get off. And I quite forgot how far I was away from home.

Ann Landers

Some Fears Are Normal But Others Are Not

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing about the 19-year-old girl who couldn't bring herself to have a physical examination by a male doctor.

We are two 20-year-old girls who have the same problem and we do not feel that we need psychiatric help, as you suggested. We discussed this with our own physican and he says it is perfectly normal for a young woman to be a little frightened and embarrassed under these circumstances.

Generally your advice is good, but we think you are way off the beam this time. Let's hear more from you again -- after you have discussed this with your physician. --- EMBARRASSED AND SANE FROM BILLINGS

Dear E and S: It is indeed perfectly normal for a young woman to be a little frightened and embarrassed under the conditions described, but the girl who wrote was more than a little frightened and embarrassed. She was experiencing severe anxiety symptoms, feelings of depression and guilt, and becoming incapacitated. For six months she had been manufacuring excuses for not taking a job because she was afraid to be examined by a company physician and would not go to her own physician. Got it straight now, girls?

Dear Ann Landers: I think you could have said a lot more in support of the man who complained about the neighbor's dog who consistently messed up their lawn, shrubs and driveway. From your short, shrift answer, it's obvious that you live in an apartment and have no lawn or driveway worries.

I am a home owner who has had to put up with plenty. Our neighborhood dogs have scratched our doors, barked all night, upset our trash cans, ruined our lawn, bit our postman, torn my stocking, jumped on my laundry baskets, knocked our child off his tricycle and attacked our cat.

You hinted gently that dog owners should not allow their pets to run loose. Why didn't you come right out and blast these thoughtless people in the Ann Landers style we are accustomed to? -- DISAPPOINTED

Dear Disappointed: I thought I made it plain when I said "Most cities have dog leash laws and people who love their pets obey the laws. A dog on the loose can be poisoned, stolen, hit by a car or attacked by a wild animal who is rabid."

If you can think of a better way to say it, let me know. I'm open to suggestions.

Dear Ann Landers: I need help with a problem I can't handle alone. Seven months ago our daughter Selma came home with her two little children. Her husband walked out and she can't even find him to prosecute for support money. She has a full-time job and pays us room and board.

Selma acts like she is a house guest. She never washes a dish or makes a bed. She goes out almost every evening and has a grand time. Selma pays very little attention to her children who are the most adorable youngsters in the world.

I would kick her out in five minutes (my husband says I should) but I know she would neglect her children and it would break my heart. Please tell me what to do. - CAN'T DECIDE

Dear Can't: You will be far unhappier if you kick Selma out. at least now you know your grandchildren are being cared for properly. Accept the undesirable aspects of this situation and keep the family under your roof. Good it isn't -- but it's the lesser of the two evils.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Discharged Cab Driver Entitled to Jobless Pay

THE CASE OF THE ACCIDENT PRONE CABBIE

Amos was a taxi driver with a predeliction for having accidents. In fact, if he had one while sound asleep in bed, it would have surprised no one, not even his nervous boss. And, strange as it may seem, the accidents were never his fault. Nevertheless, Amos was always right smack in the middle of them. And, while he always had presence of mind, absence of body would have been better because Amos never missed getting hurt.

The result? Amos was finally fired.

"You're bright and hard working," his boss conceded ruefully, "but with your knack for getting into accidents, you're going to get killed and I'm going to lose my business. It just can't go on."

So, with a heavy heart, Amos trudged over to the Unemployment Bureau where he applied for unemployment benefits.

"But you were fired," he was told. "Any one who gets fired for cause isn't entitled to unemployment payments."

"That may be so," retorted Amos, "but I didn't get fired because I didn't do my job. I was let go for my boss's convenience and peace of mind. He worried about me. Besides, he didn't like having to maintain a charge account for me at hospitals."

Denied compensation, Amos took his claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the accident-prone cabbie to collect compensation?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that a person is not disqualified from receiving compensation unless he is unemployed due to wilfulness or misconduct, which does he was accident-prone and not because of any wilful act or misconduct on his part.

Airline Gamble Backfires

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The new advertising campaign, for an airline at least, was a shocker.

"Hey there, you with the sweat on your palms," it started.

"It's about time an airline faced up to something: Most people are scared witless of flying."

The gamble was taken May 28 by Pacific Air Lines at the suggestion of Stan Freberg, Hollywood advertising writer and humorist. Many old-time airline ad men shuddered.

Today it appears the startling frankness has failed.

The Los Angeles Times said Freberg's campaign apparently has been grounded and Pacific Air Lines itself may soon disappear as a corporate entity.

Officials of the airline based in San Francisco confirmed Wednesday that its president, Matthew E. McCarthy, has resigned and that it is being merged into West Coast Airlines Inc. of Seattle. A spokesman for West Coast Airlines said his company will become the survivor.

The newspaper said financial difficulties faced by Pacific Air Lines may have accounted for its advertising gamble.

Freberg's ad campaign included a rabbit's foot given air passengers, along with a cuddling blanket, a copy of the book, "The Power of Positive Thinking," and "surival kits."

Nick Bez Jr., vice president of West Coast Airlines and assistant to his father, the president, said Wednesday he didn't like the "sweaty palms" campaign.

"I find very little in the concept that has merit or fits in with a marketing plan," Bez said.

"No one in the industry liked it, and it was harmful to Pacific. It scared people away from the airline. We don't like to do those things."

No top official of Pacific Air Lines would comment directly on the campaign. A former vice president said the airline has "held up" the advertising and is trying to sell back the rabbits feet and blankets to distributors.

Freberg said he was approached initially by McCarthy who told him the airline needed "a fresh approach."

"If they don't plan to go ahead exactly as I planned, I resign, here and now," Freberg said.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need. (Hebrews 4:16)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy Word and the encouragement it gives us to bring all our needs to Thee. We are grateful for the prayer that Thy Son has taught us: "Our Father who art in heaven .....Amen."

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, June 23, the 174th day of 1967. There are 191 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1683, William Penn made a treaty with the Indians that preserved peace in Pennsylvania until 1775.

On this date:

In 1780, the battle of Springfield, N.J., was fought in the American Revolution.

In 1845, Texas agreed to be annexed by the United States.

In 1959, atomic spy Klaus Fuchs was released from prison in England and permitted to fly to Communist East Germany.

Ten years ago— The U.S. State Department circulated a statement affirming the right of free passage in the Gulf of Aqaba.

Five years ago— Flight engineers went on strike against Eastern Air Lines and Pan American World Airways.

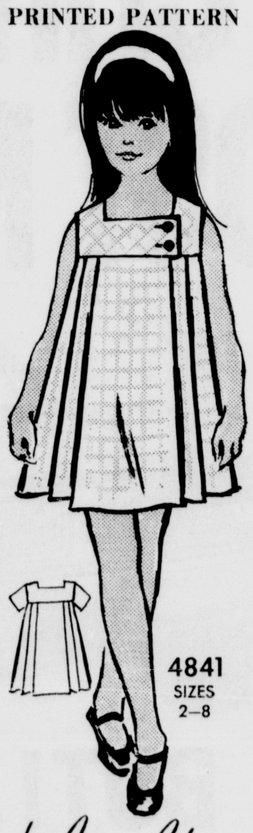

One year ago— New York City called off a banquet for King Faisal of Saudi Arabia after he said Jews who support Israel are his enemies.

Space Cut Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cut of a quarter billion dollars in space program activities during the next fiscal year was recommended to the Senate today by its space committee.

The panel approved a bill to authorize $4,851,994,000 for the period starting July 1. This was $258 million below the amount asked by President Johnson and some $55 million below funds Congress voted for the current fiscal year.

The Senate committee approved the full $2,546,500,000 asked to push ahead on the Apollo lunar landing program during the next fiscal year. But it slashed $110 million from a follow-on program to come after landing and return of U.S. astronauts from the moon.

The committee also denied $71.5 million asked for the Voyager program, proposed for sending unmanned space vehicles to Mars and other planets.

It also rejected a request for $6.22 million to continue construction of permanent facilities for the Electronics Research Center near Boston. Senators explained that the facilities are being redesigned and construction funds will not be required until the redesign is completed.

As reported to the Senate, the authorization included $4,135,700,000 for research and development, $648,206,000 for administration and $67,100,000 for construction of facilities.

The companion bill pending in the House would authorize $4,992,182,000. Leaders there abandoned efforts to pass it Thursday and delayed action until early next week.

Plant Explosion Kills 3 Women Employes

BURLINGTON, Iowa (AP)— Three women employes were killed and four others injured Thursday night when an explosion tore through a heavy ammunition loading line of an Army ordnance plant near this southeastern Iowa city.

Killed in the blast were Jessica Gilman, 40, Fort Madison; Dorothy Groves, 54, Montrose, and Ida Koett, 37, rural West Burlington.

Taken to hospitals and placed on an emergency basis were Mrs. Mary Kester of Fort Madison, in critical condition; Mrs. Denise Chenoweth, 23, Macomb, Ill., fair; Mrs. Agnes Schultz, 55, Burlington, serious, and Mrs. Patricia Elrod, 23, New London, serious.

But feeling was widespread that prospects for a solution to the Arab-Israeli dispute hinged to a great extent on the outcome of the summit meeting in Glassboro, N.J.

Attention at the morning session of the assembly debate also was focused on the statement by Premier Ion Gheorge Maurer of Communist Romania, who has been taking a leading role in trying to work out a compromise resolution. He was one of six speakers listed for the morning session.

Marine Helicopter Collision Kills 20

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Two huge troop-carrying Marine helicopters collided in flight at the New River Marine Air Facility today and reports said at least 20 were killed and a dozen injured.

The dead were not identified, pending notification of relatives.

It was the worst collision in the history of the New River Facility, converted some years ago into a helicopter training base.

Outdoor Activity Produces Injuries

There were eight persons treated for injuries Thursday in the Missouri Delta Community hospital emergency room.

Bobby J. Green, caught foot between dock boards and injured toes; Clifford T. Hubbert, Benton, cut over eye with knife; Eddie F. Hedge, Arnold, cut ankle on glass; Carla K. Adams, cut finger on bicycle; James Waldo, cut forehead on metal; Stephen Johnson, Bell City, fell on bleacher and cut forehead; John Thurman, East Prairie, cut head on concrete at swimming pool; Earlene Foster, Vanduser, stepped in hole and twisted foot.

Summit Dickering Quite Involved

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — The decision reached by President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to meet for at least a little while ended one of the most intensive diplomatic tennis games the worried world has seen in several years.

For a week the President and the Soviet leader have batted back and forth the question of when and where they should talk — and whether they should talk at all.

The issue overshadowed the special session of the U.N. General Assembly on the Middle East crisis which brought Kosygin across the Atlantic.

U.S. officials privately agree that if the negotiations had failed to produce a conference, there would have been a bad worldwide reaction except in Communist China and the Arab states.

The Chinese Communists, who frequently charge the Soviet Union with plotting with the United States, and the Arabs, who rely heavily on Soviet opposition to the United States in the Middle East, are expected to react to the Johnson-Kosygin summit with varying degrees of indignation and suspicion. This is believed to have been the major reason underlying Kosygin's refusal to consider Washington as a meeting place; he wanted to minimize his Chinese and Arab problems.

The diplomatic exchange began last weekend when Johnson invited Kosygin, who arrived Saturday, to visit him in Washington during his stay in the United States. The President offered the White House, Camp David, Md., or some nearby mountain resort in Virginia or West Virginia as a site.

Kosygin replied, according to U.S. officials, that he had come to attend the U.N. session rather than to visit the United States and he was therefore unable to accept the invitation. Johnson was reported to regret the rejection, but he considered his invitation still open.

This exchange was handled by the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Lewellyn Thompson, who happened to be in Washington, and the Soviet ambassador to Washington, Anatoly Dobrynin.

The nature of the President's invitation and Kosygin's reply became known publicly last Monday night. The disclosure is reported to have caused a stir among Kosygin's 66-man delegation to the U.N. General Assembly session, and on Tuesday Thompson and Dobrynin were in touch again. The question then arose whether the Soviet premier was opposed to any meeting with the President at this time or whether the problem was of place.

Subsequent exchanges through Dobrynin and Thompson gave the Americans the impression that the site was in Kosygin's view a serious problem. A lesser difficulty was finding a time agreeable to both sides, though the Americans had assumed, it is said, that if there was to be a summit it would be near the end of Kosygin's visit.

The President and his advisers strongly objected to Kosygin's charge that the United States had encouraged Israel in making war on the Arabs. But they noted that he did not attack Johnson personally. His denunciations of the United States as an imperialist power were considered routine, as Soviet speeches go.

Another reservation on which Johnson was determined from the outset was that he would not come to New York to see Kosygin. The United States had opposed the General Assembly session which was called at the Soviets' demand. The President posed the General Assembly session which was called at the Soviets' demand. The President did not want to build it up with his presence.

Since traditional practice has been for foreign officials attending U.N. meetings to visit him in Washington if they wished to do so, Johnson also disliked the idea of reversing protocol and calling on the Soviet leader.

On Tuesday U.S. officials thought the effort to solve the site problem might fail, but by Wednesday U.S. officials were taking the line that "arrangements have not yet been made," implying a belief that eventually they probably would be.

Wednesday night Secretary of State Dean Rusk entertained Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at dinner in his suite on the 35th floor of the Waldorf Towers. For more than three hours they talked over the issues which Kosygin and Johnson might discuss — the Middle East, the war in Vietnam, a treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons, limitation of the antiballistic missile race, the U.S.-Soviet consular convention which the Soviet Union has yet to ratify.

They also talked briefly about summit arrangements but did not make any final decision, which could only be made by Johnson and Kosygin anyway. Gromyko said later the discussion was businesslike. U.S. officials agreed.

Before the final agreement was reached Thursday on Glassboro, N.J., as a site well away from both Washington and New York, Thompson and Dobrynin had a final hectic round of exchanges — their busiest morning of a busy and uncertain week.

Their work was topped off at a noon meeting which Rusk held with Kosygin at the Manhattan headquarters of the Soviet-U.N. delegation. The two men talked for half an hour. When they were through only details of final planning, security arrangements, and the like remained to be cleaned up.

In the final outcome, Kosygin avoided being photographed with the President at the White House, that center of Western "imperialist" power in the Communist lexicon. Johnson avoided being seen anywhere near the U.N. special session on the Middle East. And both men avoided the criticism that failure to meet could have brought down on their heads.

"What is unusual about this diplomatic tennis we've been playing all week," one U.S. official said, "is that it has all been done so much in public. Usually arrangements like this are worked out through embassies before a visitor even gets to this country. But Kosygin's trip was decided on so quickly there was no time for that."

Charles Parker Dies in Columbia

EAST PRAIRIE -- Charles R. Parker, 63, who lived here all his life, died Thursday at 7 p.m. in the University hospital in Columbia.

His body will be returned today to the Shelby Funeral Home.

Make no mistake; if He rose at all it was as His body;
if the cells' dissolution did no reverse,
the molecules reknit, the amino acids rekindle.
the Church will fall. . .

Let us not mock God with metaphor, analogy, sidestepping, transcendence;
making of the event a parable, a sign painted in the faded credulity of earlier ages:
let us walk through the door.

Space Cut Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cut of a quarter billion dollars in space program activities during the next fiscal year was recommended to the Senate today by its space committee.

The panel approved a bill to authorize $4,851,994,000 for the period starting July 1. This was $258 million below the amount asked by President Johnson and some $55 million below funds Congress voted for the current fiscal year.

The Senate committee approved the full $2,546,500,000 asked to push ahead on the Apollo lunar landing program during the next fiscal year. But it slashed $110 million from a follow-on program to come after landing and return of U.S. astronauts from the moon.

The committee also denied $71.5 million asked for the Voyager program, proposed for sending unmanned space vehicles to Mars and other planets.

It also rejected a request for $6.22 million to continue construction of permanent facilities for the Electronics Research Center near Boston. Senators explained that the facilities are being redesigned and construction funds will not be required until the redesign is completed.

As reported to the Senate, the authorization included $4,135,700,000 for research and development, $648,206,000 for administration and $67,100,000 for construction of facilities.

The companion bill pending in the House would authorize $4,992,182,000. Leaders there abandoned efforts to pass it Thursday and delayed action until early next week.

Plant Explosion Kills 3 Women Employes

BURLINGTON, Iowa (AP)— Three women employes were killed and four others injured Thursday night when an explosion tore through a heavy ammunition loading line of an Army ordnance plant near this southeastern Iowa city.

Killed in the blast were Jessica Gilman, 40, Fort Madison; Dorothy Groves, 54, Montrose, and Ida Koett, 37, rural West Burlington.

Taken to hospitals and placed on an emergency basis were Mrs. Mary Kester of Fort Madison, in critical condition; Mrs. Denise Chenoweth, 23, Macomb, Ill., fair; Mrs. Agnes Schultz, 55, Burlington, serious, and Mrs. Patricia Elrod, 23, New London, serious.

Outdoor Activity Produces Injuries

There were eight persons treated for injuries Thursday in the Missouri Delta Community hospital emergency room.

Bobby J. Green, caught foot between dock boards and injured toes; Clifford T. Hubbert, Benton, cut over eye with knife; Eddie F. Hedge, Arnold, cut ankle on glass; Carla K. Adams, cut finger on bicycle; James Waldo, cut forehead on metal; Stephen Johnson, Bell City, fell on bleacher and cut forehead; John Thurman, East Prairie, cut head on concrete at swimming pool; Earlene Foster, Vanduser, stepped in hole and twisted foot.

But feeling was widespread that prospects for a solution to the Arab-Israeli dispute hinged to a great extent on the outcome of the summit meeting in Glassboro, N.J.

Attention at the morning session of the assembly debate also was focused on the statement by Premier Ion Gheorge Maurer of Communist Romania, who has been taking a leading role in trying to work out a compromise resolution. He was one of six speakers listed for the morning session.

Marine Helicopter Collision Kills 20

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Two huge troop-carrying Marine helicopters collided in flight at the New River Marine Air Facility today and reports said at least 20 were killed and a dozen injured.

The dead were not identified, pending notification of relatives.

It was the worst collision in the history of the New River Facility, converted some years ago into a helicopter training base.

Summit Dickering Quite Involved

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — The decision reached by President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to meet for at least a little while ended one of the most intensive diplomatic tennis games the worried world has seen in several years.

For a week the President and the Soviet leader have batted back and forth the question of when and where they should talk — and whether they should talk at all.

The issue overshadowed the special session of the U.N. General Assembly on the Middle East crisis which brought Kosygin across the Atlantic.

U.S. officials privately agree that if the negotiations had failed to produce a conference, there would have been a bad worldwide reaction except in Communist China and the Arab states.

The Chinese Communists, who frequently charge the Soviet Union with plotting with the United States, and the Arabs, who rely heavily on Soviet opposition to the United States in the Middle East, are expected to react to the Johnson-Kosygin summit with varying degrees of indignation and suspicion. This is believed to have been the major reason underlying Kosygin's refusal to consider Washington as a meeting place; he wanted to minimize his Chinese and Arab problems.

The diplomatic exchange began last weekend when Johnson invited Kosygin, who arrived Saturday, to visit him in Washington during his stay in the United States. The President offered the White House, Camp David, Md., or some nearby mountain resort in Virginia or West Virginia as a site.

Kosygin replied, according to U.S. officials, that he had come to attend the U.N. session rather than to visit the United States and he was therefore unable to accept the invitation. Johnson was reported to regret the rejection, but he considered his invitation still open.

This exchange was handled by the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Lewellyn Thompson, who happened to be in Washington, and the Soviet ambassador to Washington, Anatoly Dobrynin.

The nature of the President's invitation and Kosygin's reply became known publicly last Monday night. The disclosure is reported to have caused a stir among Kosygin's 66-man delegation to the U.N. General Assembly session, and on Tuesday Thompson and Dobrynin were in touch again. The question then arose whether the Soviet premier was opposed to any meeting with the President at this time or whether the problem was of place.

Subsequent exchanges through Dobrynin and Thompson gave the Americans the impression that the site was in Kosygin's view a serious problem. A lesser difficulty was finding a time agreeable to both sides, though the Americans had assumed, it is said, that if there was to be a summit it would be near the end of Kosygin's visit.

The President and his advisers strongly objected to Kosygin's charge that the United States had encouraged Israel in making war on the Arabs. But they noted that he did not attack Johnson personally. His denunciations of the United States as an imperialist power were considered routine, as Soviet speeches go.

Another reservation on which Johnson was determined from the outset was that he would not come to New York to see Kosygin. The United States had opposed the General Assembly session which was called at the Soviets' demand. The President posed the General Assembly session which was called at the Soviets' demand. The President did not want to build it up with his presence.

Since traditional practice has been for foreign officials attending U.N. meetings to visit him in Washington if they wished to do so, Johnson also disliked the idea of reversing protocol and calling on the Soviet leader.

On Tuesday U.S. officials thought the effort to solve the site problem might fail, but by Wednesday U.S. officials were taking the line that "arrangements have not yet been made," implying a belief that eventually they probably would be.

Wednesday night Secretary of State Dean Rusk entertained Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at dinner in his suite on the 35th floor of the Waldorf Towers. For more than three hours they talked over the issues which Kosygin and Johnson might discuss — the Middle East, the war in Vietnam, a treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons, limitation of the antiballistic missile race, the U.S.-Soviet consular convention which the Soviet Union has yet to ratify.

They also talked briefly about summit arrangements but did not make any final decision, which could only be made by Johnson and Kosygin anyway. Gromyko said later the discussion was businesslike. U.S. officials agreed.

Before the final agreement was reached Thursday on Glassboro, N.J., as a site well away from both Washington and New York, Thompson and Dobrynin had a final hectic round of exchanges — their busiest morning of a busy and uncertain week.

Their work was topped off at a noon meeting which Rusk held with Kosygin at the Manhattan headquarters of the Soviet-U.N. delegation. The two men talked for half an hour. When they were through only details of final planning, security arrangements, and the like remained to be cleaned up.

In the final outcome, Kosygin avoided being photographed with the President at the White House, that center of Western "imperialist" power in the Communist lexicon. Johnson avoided being seen anywhere near the U.N. special session on the Middle East. And both men avoided the criticism that failure to meet could have brought down on their heads.

"What is unusual about this diplomatic tennis we've been playing all week," one U.S. official said, "is that it has all been done so much in public. Usually arrangements like this are worked out through embassies before a visitor even gets to this country. But Kosygin's trip was decided on so quickly there was no time for that."

Johnson, Kosygin Hold Historic Meeting

Debate Goes on In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Breaking sharply with the Soviet Union, Communist Romania called today for peace negotiations between Israel and its Arab neighbors and promised to assist in bringing about a Middle East settlement based on peaceful coexistence.

Romanian Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer told the emergency session of the General Assembly that "negotiations and agreements" are the way to a peaceful, reasonable and lasting settlement.

He spoke as President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin met at Glassboro, N.J., to discuss the Middle East and other problems.

The assembly earlier had heard Swedish Ambassador Sverker Astrom urge a big power commitment to respect the independence and integrity of all Middle East countries, and to pledge themselves to seek no military advantage or to make any contribution to a Middle East arms race. Astrom noted that the Big Two meeting was in progress as he talked.

Both Maurer and Astrom asserted the withdrawal of Israeli troops from recently occupied Arab territory was an essential condition for a lasting settlement, but neither favored the Soviet-sponsored demand for a condemnation of Israel.

Maurer also called for the "elimination of all foreign interference in the affairs of the countries of the area."

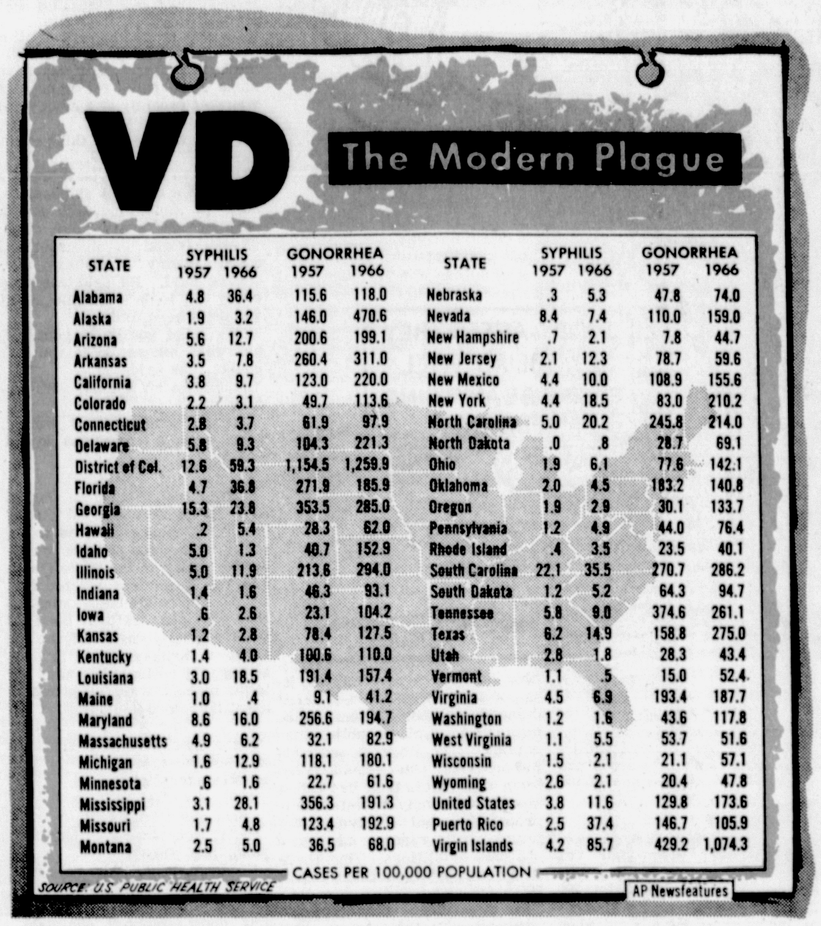

Astrom told the 122-nation assembly that a stable peace can be brought to the Middle East only by patience and through the cooperation of the great powers.

Astrom spoke after Afghanistan Prime Minister Mohammad Hashim Maiwandwal and Byelorussia's Premier Tikhon T. Kiselev had urged condemnation of Israel.

While the debate proceeded, delegates were engaged in intense private talks on possible compromise proposals which might offer a way out of the tangled situation.

Behind the scenes consultations at the United Nations were considered still in an embryonic stage. Most delegates predicted a long period of hard bargaining before the emergency session of the assembly receives a resolution that could command the two-thirds majority necessary for adoption.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) -- A federal health expert says venereal disease, which has been on the rise in recent years, is even now more serious than the great plagues which once ravished Europe.

William F. Schwartz, and educational consultant with the U.S. Communicable Disease Center, said in an interview that syphilis already has claimed 100 million lives in this century The plagues "never killed more than 25 million persons, and the greatest threat was in the 16th Century," he said.

He said more than 630,000 persons with syphilis are now walking the streets in the United States and 1.5 million new gonorrhea infections are occurring in the country each year.

Venereal disease problems are not brought on by sexual promiscuity alone, Schwartz said, and public attitudes are preventing eradication of the disease.

"Everybody associates VD with something dirty, with sexual promiscuity, sin or prostitution," he said. "But I can't believe that the hundreds of pregnant women who give birth to crippled or blind or even dead children have been sexually promiscuous."

While it is possible to contract venereal disease without being promiscuous, officials emphasize that one need have little fear of catching syphilis or gonorrhea except through intimate physical contact, usually related to sexual activity.

"The germs which cause these diseases simply cannot live for more than a few minutes outside of the human body," said Dr. Eugene J. Gillespie, also of CDC. "And so they must be passed from one person to another direct skin - to - skin contact, or, in the case of syphilis, from mother to unborn child though the blood stream."

Schwartz said public attitudes compound the eradication problem. Voluntary funds to educate the public on VD always have been small, he said, and federal and state funds are cut drastically each time progress is made in lowering the infection rate.

"In the middle of the 1950s," he said, "the federal budget to fight syphilis was cut from $17 million to $3 million. The following year the infection rate went back up, and we have been fighting 10 years to bring it down."

Schwartz said the federal government is currently spending $10.5 million on education and treatment of new syphilis cases, and "it is spending $50 million to keep up hospitals for the syphilitic insane."

The health educator said that once persons with advanced cases of syphilis are treated, their life span can be increased by 10 or 15 years, even though their minds are destroyed.

Early treatment of syphilis can cure the disease, he said, but the damage to the body cannot be repaired in advanced stages.

"It's like pulling a nail out of a board," Schwartz said. "The nail's gone, but the hole's still there."

Gunshot Wound Fatal

EAST PRAIRIE -- Charles A. "Poss" Abner, 47, died at the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston Thursday at 5 p.m., from a self inflicted gunshot wound.

Coroner Elgin McMikle said Abner had been despondent and had told friends that he was going to commit suicide.

Abner was found about 10:30 a.m. Thursday four miles east of East Prairie by Jack Adkisson, one of the persons Abner had told about the planned suicide, McMikle said.

Abner shot himself near the heart with a .16 gauge shotgun. He died during emergency surgery.

Abner was the brother of Jake Abner, chief of police.

Senate Censures Dodd

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Senate voted today to censure Sen. Thomas J. Dodd for converting to his personal benefit funds obtained "from the public through political testimonials and a politican campaign."

This was one of two counts on which the Senate ethics committee recommended that the Connecticut Democrat be censured for conduct that tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute.

He was only the sixth senator in the nation's history to have his conduct censured or condemned by his peers.

Still to be voted was a second count charging Dodd requested and accepted reimbursement for travel expenses from both the Senate and private organizations.

Before the roll was called, Dodd told his colleagues that "I am satisfied that history will justify me. But only time will tell."

"My future is in your hands," he told his fellow senators. "Let your conscience be your guide."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the ethics committee, said he believed the Senate fully understood the case and he would not try to sum up the evidence on which censure was recommended.

Then Dodd make his closing plea.

"Of course it is my hope you will exonerate me," he said.

Bear Killed Near Ellington

ELLINGTON , Mo. (AP)— A large black bear was shot to death by a farmer Thursday evening, the Highway Patrol said.

Bill Scott, who lives in Reynolds County about six miles south of Ellington, told officers he heard a commotion in his hog pen, got his rifle and went to investigate.

Scott said the bear had killed several hogs and when he approached, the bear turned and charged him. The farmer killed the bear with one shot.

Scott turned the animal over to the Missouri Conservation Commission. He said it weighed more than 300 pounds and was six feet, four inches tall.

Leaders Discuss World Problems

By LEWIS GULICK

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin shook hands today and went into a historic summit meeting to examine major tensions threatening world peace.

Johnson and Kosygin arrived a half-hour apart at this little South New Jersey college town for a meeting arranged after days of suspenseful diplomatic negotiations.

Johnson arrived at the 118-year-old home of President Thomas E. Robinson of Glassboro State College at 9:45 a.m. After flying from Washington to Philadelphia and then coming here by helicopter, Kosygin arrived in his motorcade from New York shortly after 10:15 a.m.

The two smiled broadly as they shook hands and exchanged greetings.

"You have chosen a nice place," Kosygin commented on the meeting site as he and the President surveyed the grassy lawn with its shelter of elms, oaks and linden trees.

The President had to wait 35 minutes at the doorway of Dr. Robinson's stately home before the Soviet party, with Kosygin's black limousine in the vanguard, pulled to a stop. It had been preceded by a squadron of police cars flashing red lights.

While he waited, the President chatted with Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, who had, with Mrs. Hughes, greeted him on his arrival by helicopter from Philadelphia. As he talked, the President's expression was solemn.

All along the routes of both the President and the Soviet leader, police were on the alert. Kosygin had traveled the two-lane Route 322, guarded all the way by state police. Along the way, householders, even with little notice, had found time to hang out American flags.

When Kosygin finally arrived, President Johnson stepped quickly to the side of his limousine. With the President was Secretary of State Dean Rusk. There were handshakes and smiles exchanged all around between the American and Russian contingents.

Both men were aware of the implications of their historic meeting, brought about only by the most delicate of negotiations.

Premier Kosygin had to worry about Chinese Communist propaganda which would surely accuse him of collaborating with the United States and "imperialism."

President Johnson had to consider the impact of the meeting on U.S. commitments in the Middle and Far East. Surely Vietnam as well as the Middle East were on the agenda.

Glassboro decked itself out in American flags to mark its sudden burst into the pages of world history. Students of Glassboro State College early in the day paraded with signs saying "GSC (Glassboro State College) loves America."

When President Johnson arrived from Philadelphia to be greeted by Gov. and Mrs. Hughes, he leaned over and kissed the governor's wife, remarking, "It's good to see you, Betty." Then he shook hands warmly with Dr. Robinson, the college president suddenly thrust into a world limelight.

There were introductions all around — Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and other presidential aides.

Johnson shook hands first with Kosygin and then with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko when the Soviet party first arrived in the mansion.

When Johnson's helicopter landed, Kosygin's motorcade was 10 miles away, in the vicinity of Camden, N.J. It had been proceeding slowly down the turnpike, apparently in an effort to time the arrival to that of the President. The calculations were a bit off, however.

In the President's party, in addition to the secretaries of state and defense, were Walt W. Rostow, presidential assistant for national security affairs; Llewellyn E. Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Moscow; McGeorge Bundy, on leave of absence as president of the Ford Foundation; press secretary George Christian and Marvin Watson, a presidential assistant.

For the most part, the welcome to Kosygin in the quiet little college town was courteous and warm, although one dissenter did cry out "No welcome, Kosygin."

As he waited for Kosygin, the President went into Hollybush and looked over the meeting site.

Cape Airline Route Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board's Bureau of Operating Rights recommended Thursday that Central airlines linear route system be realigned substantially as the company requested.

Bureau counsel George N. Kenyon Jr. said this should improve service in several markets.

Kenyon said, however, that Central's request for area authority should not be accepted. He said this would allow Central to change basic schedule patterns without any requirement for showing of subsidy savings.

The CAB will reach its own decision after considering the bureau's statement, the views of all parties, and the examiner's findings.

Among the bureau's recommendations:

Deny authority for Central or Ozark Airlines to operate a route between Kansas City, Springfield, Mo., and Little Rock and require Delta to continue serving Springfield.

Charged With Intoxication

Lester Weidemann, 502 East Gladys St., was charged with driving while intoxicated on South Main St. and released on $106 bond.

Police arrested him after his car collided with one driven by Robert H. Lasters, Canalou, when Weidemann drove into South Main from the Elks lodge entrance Wednesday night.

Other police arrests:

U.S. Fliers Stage 3 Raids

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. pilots today reported successful attacks on two trains northeast of Hanoi, a missile site northwest of the Red capital and the Nam Dinh power plant southeast of Hanoi.

U.S. military headquarters said there was no significant action in 20 previously announced American and allied ground actions, but Saigon announcements often lag far behind operations in the field.

The 125 missions flown against North Vietnam Thursday cost another American plane, a Navy A4 Skyhawk downed by ground fire west of Haiphong. The pilot is missing.

U.S. headquarters said it was the 589th American combat plane lost over the North, including one other not previously announced.

North Vietnam claimed three American planes were shot down and "a number of pilots" captured.

A civilian cargo plane and a U.S. Air Force jet collided over the outskirts of Saigon Thursday, killing all seven American crewmen aboard the cargo plane. The two fliers in the Air Force RF4C Phantom reconnaissance plane parachuted and suffered only minor injuries.

F105 Thunderchiefs from bases in Thailand pounced on the two trains on the Phu Xuyen railroad siding 31 miles northeast of Hanoi. Pilots on the first flight reported their bombs were on target. A second flight of pilots said they observed 10 boxcars destroyed on one train and 25 on the other.

It was not known what the boxcars were carrying, if anything. Military spokesmen said they had no reports of secondary explosions.

Navy pilots hammered the electric power plant 46 miles southeast of Hanoi with 1,000— and 2,000-pound bombs and reported setting off a large explosion and fire at the 7,500-kilowatt facility that serves the Nam Dinh area.

The last raids in the Nam Dinh area were May 22 and May 24, when American warplanes attacked the railroad yards.

The strike Thursday was the first against the power plant in more than a year. It was reported knocked out in the previous raid but apparently was rebuilt.

Air Force F105 pilots also reported hitting a surface-to-air missile—SAM—site 64 miles northwest of Hanoi. Pilots said black smoke rose 500 feet from a secondary explosion.

Senate Tosses Back Remap Bill

The Senate refused to accept the House version Thursday and asked the House to recede from its proposal. The House, in recess today, cannot act until Sunday night or Monday.

Senate leaders hope to keep the bill from going to a conference committee. The governor has said if the legislature fails to act he will call a special session on the issue.

The House, in a generous mood, passed more than a dozen pay increase and retirement expansion bills Thursday.

It also sent back to the Senate with clarifying language a bill to extend state aid to kindergartens at an estimated cost of about $5 million a year.

Also returned to the Senate was a bill to let local governments set up retirement systems. Jefferson County was put back into the bill with the approval of Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, who had taken it out in the Senate.

Republicans were unsuccessful in halting the pay raise bills or reducing the amounts.

Sent to the governor were bills to boost the pay of:

Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter from $15,000 to $19,000.

The director of employment security, Herman Julien, from $14,500 to $18,000.

The director of the personnel division, Norris Steenberger, from $10,500 a year to $15,000.

Adjutant General L. B. Adams Jr. from $11,000 a year to $15,000.

The staff of the workmen's compensation division and that of the director of the division, Spencer Givens, from $12,000 to $16,000.

The director of industrial inspection, George Elexsenhar, from $10,200 a year to $12,700.

The St. Louis city prosecuting attorney from $14,000 a year to $22,500.

Also back to the Senate went a bill increasing the salaries of the state director of revenue, his collector of revenue and the state comptroller and budget director.

It would raise the director of revenue from $15,000 to $22,500 a year, the collector from $10,000 to $12,000 and the comptroller from $15,000 to $20,000.

Dexter Man Hurt In Ramming Car

George Baker, 36, Dexter, was injured in a rear - end collision last night at 10:15 p.m. on highway 60, seven miles west of Dexter.

He was driving a 1965 Ford van when he ran into the rear of a 1960 Ford, driven by Mary Poe, 38, Essex.

Pope Renews Celibacy Rule

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today renewed the Roman Catholic Church's ancient rule of celibacy for its priests despite growing pressure for relaxation of the ban on marriage.

In an encylical letter of more than 13,000 words — the sixth of his four-year reign — the Pope said in the opening words: "Priestly celibacy has been guarded by the Church for centuries as a brilliant jewel and retains its value undiminished even in our time when mentality and structures have undergone such profound changes."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
THE ELEVENTH COMMANDMENT

All 25 Republican state governors have indicated that, barring emergency, they will attend a two-day conference at Jackson Hole, Wyo. opening on Thursday (June 29).

Political scribes and prophets will be watching the Republican Governors Conference to see just how well the Eleventh Commandment is observed. This new political article of faith is a by-product of the 1966 campaign in California. It says, in effect, that Republicans should not criticize each other but criticize only Democrats.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California suggested at the close of the GOP governors conference last December that the same commandment should obtain in the national Republican party, even in Presidential primaries. Gov. Robert E. Smylie, who attended the December meeting despite his previous defeat in the Idaho primary, said that actually the rule had been enlarged to provide that "Republican governors don't speak ill of any Republican governors."

The Republican governors have every reason to maintain an atmosphere of sweetness and light at their gathering at Jackson Hole. The elections last year gave Republicans eight new governorships for a total of 25. Republican governors preside over 57.5 per cent of the U.S. population. The party gained substantially in state legislatures and sent to Washington a delegation of young senators and representatives.

But pitted against the reasonable admonition of the Eleventh Commandment will be man's ambition. Probably the only foreseeable Republican Presidential nominee who will not be present at the Wyoming grouping - if you eliminate such admittedly "only-if" candidates as Sen. Thruston B. Morton (Ky.) and Sen. Charles Percy (Ill.) - is Richard M. Nixon, whose six-month "sabbatical" from politics seems to be stretching out.

At the moment, Nixon appears to be the front-runner with the people who manage the party, the state and county leaders, while Gov. George Romney (Mich.) - if the public opinion polls can be believed - leads with the rank-and-file.

Romney at the December governors conference is supposed to have been designated as "the acknowledged leading Presidential candidate" by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Rockefeller has released two of his top political aides, Tom Stephens and Carl Spad, to the Romney forces.

So far Romney has shown an understandable reluctance to declare his open candidacy, despite the urgency of such as Rockefeller and retired Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania. But of late a ripple of interest in the supposedly rejected candidacy of Rockefeller himself has been shown.

Rockefeller has been in public life almost 40 years. Fortune magazine asserts of his service as governor of New York: "Those who have studied his eight years and five months in office - friend or foe (and there are plenty of foes) - have to admit that there has never been a period of accomplishment quite like this in the history of state administrations."

Rockefeller himself says: "I no longer want to go to the Presidency . . .I have gotten to the point where I want to live a quiet, peaceful life. You get to that point, you know."

But, as Fortune suggests, this is precisely what Rockefeller should be saying if he did want the nomination. And the Romney tent is crowded with Rockefeller people - all of them, for the time being at least, observing the Eleventh Commandment.

A good requirement for all public officials would be the following as outlined by J. Edgar Hoover for FBI personnel: "Selection of personnel is a primary key to effective operation in any organization. We feel that our personnel do not work for the FBI, but rather we consider that they are the FBI. Our recruitment and selection program is, therefore, calculated to enlist employees of fine quality - men and women who have a capacity for growth. The Agent applicant in particular must meet rigid physical and education requirements; he must have a real interest in a career of service, and his private life must withstand the closest scrutiny."

WHEN TO ADVERTISE

A successful retailer once told a group of merchants that the time to advertise "is all the time." To a degree he was right. Hit and miss advertising is mostly miss.

There are certain seasons when sales for certain items are best. That is the time to advertise that certain item. When people are in the market to buy, sales are made easily and at full markup.

Every store has its own sales pattern. This pattern should be charted for the guidance of the advertising manager. Stocks should be peaked, and advertising should peak just ahead of the heaviest selling season for any item of merchandise.

Certain days of the week may be found to be better selling days. The advertising should reflect that fact. Certain weeks of the month may be better than other weeks. Paydays may make a difference in daily sales. All factors that increase sales should be reflected in the store's advertising program.

So in a sense, the time to advertise is all the time because there is always something in the store that sells better at certain imes.

Said Maurice Stans at the 71st Congress of American Industry, "We don't have to reverse or reconsider our federal programs on a wholesale scale, we merely have to hold them back a bit. We don't have to set the clock back to 1896, we simply have to slow it down while we close the three year lead that spending has gained over revenues. We don't have to veto progress, we merely have to abandon the 'crash' psychology that we can solve all human ills by massive doses of instant money."

"Glance identification" of exit and entrance ramps may soon become a standard feature on the nation's highways if color coding tests being conducted in several states prove successful.

Color coding - or the use of different colors to identify exit and entrance ramps on high-speed highways - is being tested in New York, Minnesota, Michigan, Oregon and Ohio with some surprising results.

Michigan, Oregon and Ohio are using yellow edge-striping for entrance ramps and blue for exit ramps on Interstate-type highway interchanges. In Michigan, color coding produced these results, according to Frank DeRose, Jr., acting engineer of traffic research for the state highway department:

1. Erratic maneuvers - or changing lanes before reaching the exit ramp - were reduced by more than 38 percent at one Michigan test site, and by more than 33 percent at another.

2. More than 92 percent of the drivers interviewed said the reflective, colored edge-striping was a definite benefit. The blue and yellow edge-striping reflects headlights and outlines ramps, especially helpful at night. Drivers traveling at high speed said they noticed the colored ramps sooner. This reduced confusion and mistakes that may have led to accidents.

Encouraged by these results, another, more exhaustive, test of color coding is now being conducted on US-23 in Michigan, DeRose said.

As an advance warning, New York's department of public works has installed red pavement in front of stop signs near Albany and Buffalo. Orange pavement is used to identify merging lanes.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Insomnia is one of the big prices of success. The guy who's at the top of the latter, and trying to stay there, usually takes more sleeping pills than the one who has only a foot on the bottom rung.

No one keeps a secret diary without a hidden hope that eventually someone else will read it—someone who really appreciates the diarist.

One of the surest ways for a man to avoid promotion is to have his boss come in every morning and see him gulping his breakfast at his office desk. A guy this disorganized in his eating habits is probably just as disorganized about his job.

You can't blame the preacher if there's always at least one lady singer in the choir who would like to run away from home with him. Few women go through life without thinking at sometime they're in love with their doctor, their minister, or their butcher.

Flowers in a greenhouse never look as lovely as they do in the hands of a girl carrying them home in the subway.

The job we'd most like to have: being a bill collector for the United Nations.

Some girls will marry men even if they propose with garlic on their breath. If you're a bachelor, try this and find out for yourself.

It is generally a waste of time to get involved in a cultural conversation with anyone who habitually douses his french-fried potatoes with half a bottle of ketchup.

Nothing makes the electronics age seem more mysterious than listening to a television repairman explain which tube in your set went blooey.

If they weren't in the educational field, most American university presidents could earn a good living selling oil stocks.

It's amazing, isn't it, how few big new night clubs have opened up since the government started checking business entertainment accounts more closely?

You'll never hatch your nest egg if you lend it to a fellow who carries a racing form in his pocket and wears sunglasses on rainy days.

Few things thrill us more than getting something for nothing. A self-made millionaire never gets as much fun out of spending money as a guy who inherits it unexpectedly — and therefore feels he is ahead of the game.

FISCAL TIME BOMBS

One of the questions that has never been satisfactorily answered is, how is the theory of controlling economic cycles by judicious government spending to be enforced, when spending goes only one way -- up. A good example of the mortal conflict between the new economics and political reality lies in what one noted economist calls ". . . reckless disregard of prudent expenditure planning . . ." by Congress. He goes on to point out: "Prudent expenditure planning requires that the full long-range cost of every multiple-year Federal program, its effect on available Federal resources, and its importance in relation to other demands on these resources, be estimated and made public at inception. The Federal budget is full of fiscal time bombs in the form of projects launched with a small, seemingly harmless appropriation, but involving total future costs running into many millions or billions. Thus there is a 'built-in' threat that deficit financing and inflation may continue regardless of tax policy."

Throughout the length and breadth of this big country, political candidates strive to bring home the bacon in the form of an initial appropriation from Congress for the supposed benefit of constituents. Their efforts can make hash of the new economics.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

EXIT WHEELUS

On May 27, Drew Pearson reported that Arab governments, even though previously critical of Nasser, would be stampeded by anti-Israel sentiment into retaliation against the United States, and that Libya would cancel the Wheelus air force base lease in Tripoli.

On June 9, the Libyan government notified the United States of the cancellation of the Wheelus lease.

WASHINGTON -- The pellmell victory of the Israeli army has confounded the U.N. diplomats, but it may have set one important pattern for peace.

The Israelis have indicated that they would be willing to make the city of Jerusalem, so sacred to the Christian, Jewish and Moslem worlds, an open city. Already the Israeli minister of religion has put a committee of Moslems in charge of the Great Rock, sacred to the Moslem faith, and a committee of christians in charge of the Holy Sepulcher, where Christ was buried.

If, in cooperation with the Vatican, the protestant churches and the Moslem faith, and under the eye of the United Nations, Jerusalem is now made an open city, it would serve as a precedent for peace throughout the world.

The next move would be to make other great and historic capitals open cities.

Athens, the capital of Greece, is the cradle of Democracy. Its great monuments must be preserved.

Rome, the capital of Italy, is also the sacred capital of the Roman Catholic world, and the cradle of the Republican form of government. It was an open city in World War II and must be made so in perpetuity.

Paris was also an open city in World War II. Its art, its architecture are among the great treasurers of the world.

London was not an open city during World War II, but was subject to relentless bombing by Hitler. It must be protected in the future.

Likewise Moscow, with the great art treasurers of the Kremlin museums and the palaces of the Czars, must be an open city.

Similarly, Washington should be declared immune from attack, as well as the capitals of Canada and Latin America.

If these cities are declared safe from attack, the world will have taken a long step toward the prevention of war. Ironically this will have happened through an act of war by the Israeli army. But it will also have sprung from the place where lived and preached the Man who tried to bring peace on earth, good will to men.

BLUEPRINT FOR PEACE

One trouble with the boiling Near East is that the United States has never shaped up an overall plan for peace. It has used fire brigade diplomacy. The state department has rushed in to put out the fires, but has never rebuilt to clean out the fire hazards.

Here is a newspaperman's plan for peace in the Near East, which may seem idealistic. But something like this will have to be constructed if even more dangerous war is to be prevented.

1. Make the Suez Canal an international waterway and simultaneously adopt the Truman principle of internationalizing other vital waterways, including the Panama Canal, the Bosporus, the Kiel Canal, the Danube and the Rhine.

2. Rebuild the old irrigation systems -- the Tigris, the Euphrates and the Jordan Rivers which once made the Near East the breadbasket of that part of the world.

3. Dig a canal from the Mediterranean to the Dead Sea. The Dead Sea is about 1,296 feet below sea level, and the fall of water from the Mediterranean into the Dead Sea would generate enough power to industrialize southern Israel and neighboring Jordan.

4. Give Jordan a corridor to the Mediterranean. In 1948, after Israeli first became a state, Mrs. Golda Meir held secret talks with King Abdullah of Jordan, grandfather of King Hussein. They planned to give Israel most of the Jordanian territory up to the west bank of the Jordan River, and in return Israel would give Jordan a corridor to the sea across the Negev Desert.

The plan was abandoned after King Abdullah was killed by an Arab fanatic while kneeling in the Great Mosque of Jerusalem, because he had talked to Mrs. Meir.

Jordan today is almost prostrate. It needs Israeli help to get back on its feet, and King Hussein, Hitherto, has been open minded about Israel.

FESTERING REFUGEE SORE

5. Solve the question of refugees. Ever since the independence of Israel, these refugee camps have been allowed to fester and grow into one of the chief detriments to good will in the Near East. Approximately one million idle people plotting the day when they will return to Israel by force of arms do not make for peace. It will take money from the west to solve the refugee problem, but the west has been putting up millions of dollars for refugee food every year, and it would be cheaper to solve the problem than continue the feeding.

6. Israel will have to change its attitude toward Israeli Arabs. There are more than a quarter of a million Arabs already living in Israel, and in recent years they have had the status of second class citizens. If Israel gave the benefits of its citizenship to the Arabs living within its own boundaries, it would help soothe the rest of the Arab world.

The basic fact is that the Arabs need Israeli technical knowhow and the Israelis need the agricultural and oil resources of the Arab world. A Sand Curtain of hate and suspicion now separates them. It will take time but the curtain can be lifted. It will take all the resourcefulness of western leaders and all the patience of Near East leaders. But the lifting of this curtain is the only solution for peace in the embattled and bloody Near East.

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR LIFE

1. Learn one new thing every day.

2. Try to make as many friends and as few enemies as possible.

3. Do something each day to beautify and adorn your mind.

Every friend is an asset and every enemy a liability, Dr. Pierce said. He said take time every day to do a few things that you don't have to do.

"It's what you do to yourself, not what others do to you that counts," he said.

"If you want a short winter, have a note come due in the Spring."

"I don't smoke," she said.

"I don't suppose you eat hay either," he said, nursing his jaw.

"Well, hardly," she said icily.

"Just as I thought," he sighed. "Not fit company for man or beast."

Officeholders, lawmakers and big biz are making a fatal mistake when they persuade themselves they can drive the cross-bred, hi-bred American people by surrounding them with punative laws, rules and regulations, leaving them only one unsatisfactory avenue of escape while they themselves honor and obey no laws, rules or regulations of either God or man!

The present generation of teen-agers are wise beyond their years and most of them are keeping up with the goings-on in our Government, from dog-catcher to president, and are showing unmistakable signs nation-wide of doing something about it in the near future.

H. L. Hunt Says

EDUCATION IN FREEDOM

Another Independence Day will soon be here, and the occasion offers a fine opportunity for Americans to give thoughts to ways and means of preserving freedom in our nation. The threat to freedom is immediate and real, but it can be overcome if we, the people, are determined and active.

The informed patriot is the hope of our country. And education is his first responsibility - education of his fellow-Americans in the truth about freedom and its foes.

The advances made by these foes are based on the destruction of moral values and the concealment of truth. If liberty is to survive and advance, a new dedication to deep-rooted values and a continued revelation of truth are required. These are the highest functions of education and they can come only through education.

The individual who is determined to become an educator in the cause of freedom has many avenues open to him, including letters to the editor, the delivery of freedom speeches and the distribution of patriotic publications. The educational effort of liberty - loving Americans must take advantage of all means of communication. The effort must be directed at every community group, at all the different elements of the population.

Freedom has all the promise in the world to offer every individual and every group not trying to get power to rule over other Americans. Any person not utterly committed to a slave ideology may be considered susceptible to the appeal of the freedom story.

Political action is important and necessary, but education in public affairs can do more for freedom's cause. HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

REUTHER'S NEXT WAR

Detroiter Will Disclose New Strategy for Coming Assaults on All Industry at Special Parley

Washington, D.C.: -- This will be the summer of Walter Reuther's discontent. Having abided the wintertime by hurling lightning at his comrades in labor, the redhead now is about to mark his Thirty Years War with the nation's businessmen by challenging massive industry -- all of it -- not merely the makers of automobiles.

In this capital on the morning of June 28, Reuther will keynote a meeting of labor leaders including some who were with him when he was America's first angry young man leading his first be-in, then called a sit-in.

There will be newcomers. But, in fact, those around him in the Statler - Hilton will be of the old CIO.

What Reuther will say only Reuther knows. He writes his own speeches and chases his own commas. But the theme of the two - day conference called by the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Dept., created by its president Walter Reuther in the image of the CIO, will be "co-ordinated bargaining."

This is a theme and a jargon worth knowing for it is the computerized wave of the future on the labor front. It is a bargaining and strike technique which already has forced President Johnson to call out such odd labor experts as Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary of Defense McNamara, Secretary of Transportation Boyd and sundry Secretary of Defense McNamara, Secretaries of Commerce in addition to Willard Wirtz. The technique has cost one national corporation some $20 million during a seven months strike. And it is threatening to force Mr. Johnson to deploy his cabinet again this July when much of America's copper supply most likely will be hit by a coordinated strike.

"Coordinated bargaining" is the strategem of creating a high command of leaders of different unions which deal with one company. Sometimes that company is diversified, as is Armour which produces locomotives as well as frankfurters.

Sometimes the new laborite-type general staff deals with just one company such as Anaconda Copper, which will insist on dealing separately with each union at each of its plants and sites (except for one western installation).

To converge on Anaconda, Reuther's Industrial Union Dept. has created a central command of 16 unions. Twice they've met in Denver to plan action against the big copper corporations in general and Anaconda in particular. Some 100 copper and other nonferrous metal company contracts expire at the end of the month.

Among the 16 unions are bricklayers, steelworkers, mine, mill and smelter workers, carpenters, operating engineers, auto workers, electrical workers and, of course, Roy Siemiller's Machinists.

In Denver they coordinated their activities -- set up a central communications system, agreed to act jointly only, made a pact not to deviate from similar and joint demands, and to take direction from the new "Anaconda Coordinating Committee."

It will be a clamorous clash and the White House expects a long strike unless the courts or Congress move in.

But this is only the beginning. There are 70 to 80 such central labor commands waiting to take on heavy industry as contracts expire.

These central command units are mechanized. They coordinate by computer. They feed their statistics and experience into the memory box and get back information to feed all their people across the country. The nature of the struggle can be sensed in the words of the man who will follow Reuther to the platform that morning. He is Jack Conway, IUD Executive Director, one of labor's intellectuals, an activist in the Americans for Democratic Action. He will discuss the changes in corporate structure -- diversification -- and therefore the need for new tactical developments in collective bargaining.

If a businessman owns a bus company, a newspaper, an airline and real estate, then this change in structure, says the IUD, should be matched with a central bargaining command made up of the Transport Workers, the Newspaper Guild and the Airline Pilots, etc. -- all working together to hit the central "mother" company at the same time.

For two days Reuther will be meeting with his people, discussing computer data centers, and case studies of the sieges at General Electric and Union Carbide. Undoubtedly the redhead will be planning his second Thirty Years War.

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Israeli victory may result in world capitals being open cities; U. S. should prevent wars not just settle them; Israel-Arab sand curtain must go.

Johnson, Kosygin Hold Historic Meeting

Debate Goes on In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Breaking sharply with the Soviet Union, Communist Romania called today for peace negotiations between Israel and its Arab neighbors and promised to assist in bringing about a Middle East settlement based on peaceful coexistence.

Romanian Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer told the emergency session of the General Assembly that "negotiations and agreements" are the way to a peaceful, reasonable and lasting settlement.

He spoke as President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin met at Glassboro, N.J., to discuss the Middle East and other problems.

The assembly earlier had heard Swedish Ambassador Sverker Astrom urge a big power commitment to respect the independence and integrity of all Middle East countries, and to pledge themselves to seek no military advantage or to make any contribution to a Middle East arms race. Astrom noted that the Big Two meeting was in progress as he talked.

Both Maurer and Astrom asserted the withdrawal of Israeli troops from recently occupied Arab territory was an essential condition for a lasting settlement, but neither favored the Soviet-sponsored demand for a condemnation of Israel.

Maurer also called for the "elimination of all foreign interference in the affairs of the countries of the area."

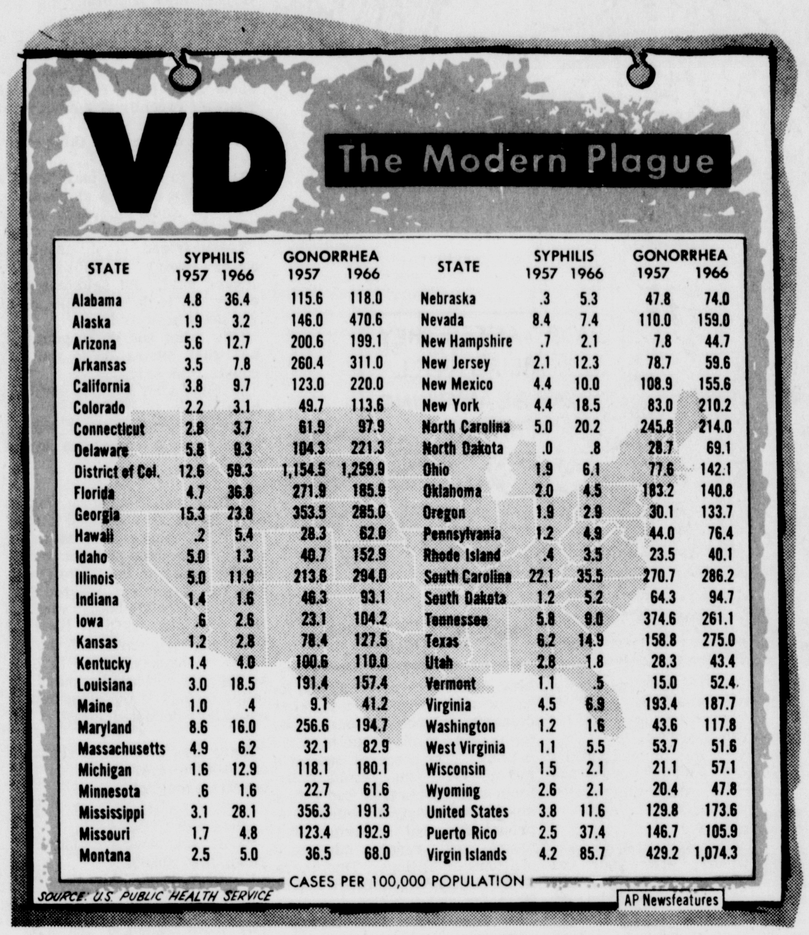

Astrom told the 122-nation assembly that a stable peace can be brought to the Middle East only by patience and through the cooperation of the great powers.

Astrom spoke after Afghanistan Prime Minister Mohammad Hashim Maiwandwal and Byelorussia's Premier Tikhon T. Kiselev had urged condemnation of Israel.

While the debate proceeded, delegates were engaged in intense private talks on possible compromise proposals which might offer a way out of the tangled situation.

Behind the scenes consultations at the United Nations were considered still in an embryonic stage. Most delegates predicted a long period of hard bargaining before the emergency session of the assembly receives a resolution that could command the two-thirds majority necessary for adoption.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) -- A federal health expert says venereal disease, which has been on the rise in recent years, is even now more serious than the great plagues which once ravished Europe.

William F. Schwartz, and educational consultant with the U.S. Communicable Disease Center, said in an interview that syphilis already has claimed 100 million lives in this century The plagues "never killed more than 25 million persons, and the greatest threat was in the 16th Century," he said.

He said more than 630,000 persons with syphilis are now walking the streets in the United States and 1.5 million new gonorrhea infections are occurring in the country each year.

Venereal disease problems are not brought on by sexual promiscuity alone, Schwartz said, and public attitudes are preventing eradication of the disease.

"Everybody associates VD with something dirty, with sexual promiscuity, sin or prostitution," he said. "But I can't believe that the hundreds of pregnant women who give birth to crippled or blind or even dead children have been sexually promiscuous."

While it is possible to contract venereal disease without being promiscuous, officials emphasize that one need have little fear of catching syphilis or gonorrhea except through intimate physical contact, usually related to sexual activity.

"The germs which cause these diseases simply cannot live for more than a few minutes outside of the human body," said Dr. Eugene J. Gillespie, also of CDC. "And so they must be passed from one person to another direct skin - to - skin contact, or, in the case of syphilis, from mother to unborn child though the blood stream."

Schwartz said public attitudes compound the eradication problem. Voluntary funds to educate the public on VD always have been small, he said, and federal and state funds are cut drastically each time progress is made in lowering the infection rate.

"In the middle of the 1950s," he said, "the federal budget to fight syphilis was cut from $17 million to $3 million. The following year the infection rate went back up, and we have been fighting 10 years to bring it down."

Schwartz said the federal government is currently spending $10.5 million on education and treatment of new syphilis cases, and "it is spending $50 million to keep up hospitals for the syphilitic insane."

The health educator said that once persons with advanced cases of syphilis are treated, their life span can be increased by 10 or 15 years, even though their minds are destroyed.

Early treatment of syphilis can cure the disease, he said, but the damage to the body cannot be repaired in advanced stages.

"It's like pulling a nail out of a board," Schwartz said. "The nail's gone, but the hole's still there."

Gunshot Wound Fatal

EAST PRAIRIE -- Charles A. "Poss" Abner, 47, died at the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston Thursday at 5 p.m., from a self inflicted gunshot wound.

Coroner Elgin McMikle said Abner had been despondent and had told friends that he was going to commit suicide.

Abner was found about 10:30 a.m. Thursday four miles east of East Prairie by Jack Adkisson, one of the persons Abner had told about the planned suicide, McMikle said.

Abner shot himself near the heart with a .16 gauge shotgun. He died during emergency surgery.

Abner was the brother of Jake Abner, chief of police.

Senate Censures Dodd

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Senate voted today to censure Sen. Thomas J. Dodd for converting to his personal benefit funds obtained "from the public through political testimonials and a politican campaign."

This was one of two counts on which the Senate ethics committee recommended that the Connecticut Democrat be censured for conduct that tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute.

He was only the sixth senator in the nation's history to have his conduct censured or condemned by his peers.

Still to be voted was a second count charging Dodd requested and accepted reimbursement for travel expenses from both the Senate and private organizations.

Before the roll was called, Dodd told his colleagues that "I am satisfied that history will justify me. But only time will tell."

"My future is in your hands," he told his fellow senators. "Let your conscience be your guide."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the ethics committee, said he believed the Senate fully understood the case and he would not try to sum up the evidence on which censure was recommended.

Then Dodd make his closing plea.

"Of course it is my hope you will exonerate me," he said.

Labor Day Festival at New Madrid Sept.2-3

NEW MADRID - A Sept. 2-3 festival for the Labor Day weekend is being planned.

A short reinactment of the battle that was fought on the Island No. 10 will be performed by members of the National Guard and the New Madrid Jaycees.

And 'Ole South costume ball will be held Saturday night under a tent over the tennis court near the junior high school.

A museum will be set up in the health center to display civil war relics and other collections.

A parade of bands will start the festival, Jimmy Cravens, program chairman said.

A catfish supper will be served by the churches.

Bear Killed Near Ellington

ELLINGTON , Mo. (AP)— A large black bear was shot to death by a farmer Thursday evening, the Highway Patrol said.

Bill Scott, who lives in Reynolds County about six miles south of Ellington, told officers he heard a commotion in his hog pen, got his rifle and went to investigate.

Scott said the bear had killed several hogs and when he approached, the bear turned and charged him. The farmer killed the bear with one shot.

Scott turned the animal over to the Missouri Conservation Commission. He said it weighed more than 300 pounds and was six feet, four inches tall.

Leaders Discuss World Problems

By LEWIS GULICK

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin shook hands today and went into a historic summit meeting to examine major tensions threatening world peace.

Johnson and Kosygin arrived from Philadelphia to be greeted by Gov. and Mrs. Hughes, he leaned over and kissed the governor's wife, remarking, "It's good to see you, Betty." Then he shook hands warmly with Dr. Robinson, the college president suddenly thrust into a world limelight.

There were introductions all around — Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and other presidential aides.

Johnson shook hands first with Kosygin and then with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko when the Soviet party first arrived in the mansion.

When Johnson's helicopter landed, Kosygin's motorcade was 10 miles away, in the vicinity of Camden, N.J. It had been proceeding slowly down the turnpike, apparently in an effort to time the arrival to that of the President. The calculations were a bit off, however.

In the President's party, in addition to the secretaries of state and defense, were Walt W. Rostow, presidential assistant for national security affairs; Llewellyn E. Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Moscow; McGeorge Bundy, on leave of absence as president of the Ford Foundation; press secretary George Christian and Marvin Watson, a presidential assistant.

For the most part, the welcome to Kosygin in the quiet little college town was courteous and warm, although one dissenter did cry out "No welcome, Kosygin."

As he waited for Kosygin, the President went into Hollybush and looked over the meeting site.

Cape Airline Route Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board's Bureau of Operating Rights recommended Thursday that Central airlines linear route system be realigned substantially as the company requested.

Bureau counsel George N. Kenyon Jr. said this should improve service in several markets.

Kenyon said, however, that Central's request for area authority should not be accepted. He said this would allow Central to change basic schedule patterns without any requirement for showing of subsidy savings.

The CAB will reach its own decision after considering the bureau's statement, the views of all parties, and the examiner's findings.

Among the bureau's recommendations:

Deny authority for Central or Ozark Airlines to operate a route between Kansas City, Springfield, Mo., and Little Rock and require Delta to continue serving Springfield.

Charged With Intoxication

Lester Weidemann, 502 East Gladys St., was charged with driving while intoxicated on South Main St. and released on $106 bond.

Police arrested him after his car collided with one driven by Robert H. Lasters, Canalou, when Weidemann drove into South Main from the Elks lodge entrance Wednesday night.

Other police arrests:

U.S. Fliers Stage 3 Raids

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. pilots today reported successful attacks on two trains northeast of Hanoi, a missile site northwest of the Red capital and the Nam Dinh power plant southeast of Hanoi.

U.S. military headquarters said there was no significant action in 20 previously announced American and allied ground actions, but Saigon announcements often lag far behind operations in the field.

The 125 missions flown against North Vietnam Thursday cost another American plane, a Navy A4 Skyhawk downed by ground fire west of Haiphong. The pilot is missing.

U.S. headquarters said it was the 589th American combat plane lost over the North, including one other not previously announced.

North Vietnam claimed three American planes were shot down and "a number of pilots" captured.

A civilian cargo plane and a U.S. Air Force jet collided over the outskirts of Saigon Thursday, killing all seven American crewmen aboard the cargo plane. The two fliers in the Air Force RF4C Phantom reconnaissance plane parachuted and suffered only minor injuries.

F105 Thunderchiefs from bases in Thailand pounced on the two trains on the Phu Xuyen railroad siding 31 miles northeast of Hanoi. Pilots on the first flight reported their bombs were on target. A second flight of pilots said they observed 10 boxcars destroyed on one train and 25 on the other.

It was not known what the boxcars were carrying, if anything. Military spokesmen said they had no reports of secondary explosions.

Navy pilots hammered the electric power plant 46 miles southeast of Hanoi with 1,000— and 2,000-pound bombs and reported setting off a large explosion and fire at the 7,500-kilowatt facility that serves the Nam Dinh area.

The last raids in the Nam Dinh area were May 22 and May 24, when American warplanes attacked the railroad yards.

The strike Thursday was the first against the power plant in more than a year. It was reported knocked out in the previous raid but apparently was rebuilt.

Air Force F105 pilots also reported hitting a surface-to-air missile— SAM— site 64 miles northwest of Hanoi. Pilots said black smoke rose 500 feet from a secondary explosion.

Senate Tosses Back Remap Bill

The Senate refused to accept the House version Thursday and asked the House to recede from its proposal. The House, in recess today, cannot act until Sunday night or Monday.

Senate leaders hope to keep the bill from going to a conference committee. The governor has said if the legislature fails to act he will call a special session on the issue.

The House, in a generous mood, passed more than a dozen pay increase and retirement expansion bills Thursday.

It also sent back to the Senate with clarifying language a bill to extend state aid to kindergartens at an estimated cost of about $5 million a year.

Also returned to the Senate was a bill to let local governments set up retirement systems. Jefferson County was put back into the bill with the approval of Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, who had taken it out in the Senate.

Republicans were unsuccessful in halting the pay raise bills or reducing the amounts.

Sent to the governor were bills to boost the pay of:

Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter from $15,000 to $19,000.

The director of employment security, Herman Julien, from $14,500 to $18,000.

The director of the personnel division, Norris Steenberger, from $10,500 a year to $15,000.

Adjutant General L. B. Adams Jr. from $11,000 a year to $15,000.

The staff of the workmen's compensation division and that of the director of the division, Spencer Givens, from $12,000 to $16,000.

The director of industrial inspection, George Elexsenhar, from $10,200 a year to $12,700.

The St. Louis city prosecuting attorney from $14,000 a year to $22,500.

Also back to the Senate went a bill increasing the salaries of the state director of revenue, his collector of revenue and the state comptroller and budget director.

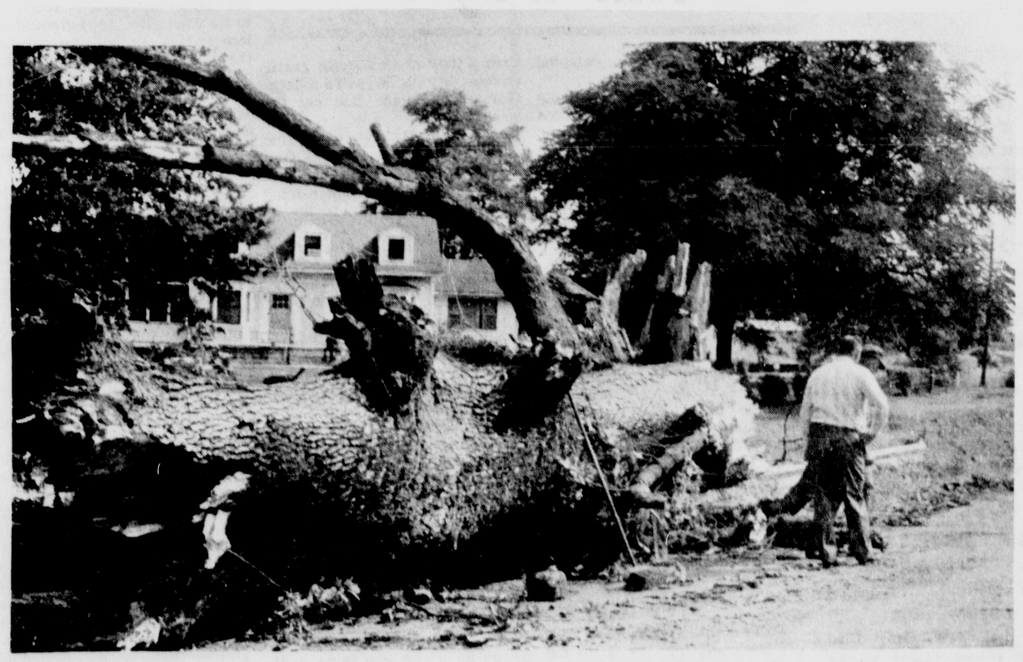

It would raise the director of revenue from $15,000 to $22,500 a year, the collector from $10,000 to $12,000 and the comptroller from $15,000 to $20,000.

Dexter Man Hurt In Ramming Car

George Baker, 36, Dexter, was injured in a rear - end collision last night at 10:15 p.m. on highway 60, seven miles west of Dexter.

He was driving a 1965 Ford van when he ran into the rear of a 1960 Ford, driven by Mary Poe, 38, Essex.

Pope Renews Celibacy Rule

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today renewed the Roman Catholic Church's ancient rule of celibacy for its priests despite growing pressure for relaxation of the ban on marriage.

In an encylical letter of more than 13,000 words — the sixth of his four-year reign — the Pope said in the opening words: "Priestly celibacy has been guarded by the Church for centuries as a brilliant jewel and retains its value undiminished even in our time when mentality and structures have undergone such profound changes."

Paris Collections' Hemlines Coming Down For Fall, Winter

PARIS (AP) — Hemlines are coming down in the new Paris collections for fall and winter. About an inch below the knee seems to be the consensus.

"Mine will be longer," says Carven. "Why freeze in winter?"

Coco Chanel, who once got herself in trouble with the young swingers with a blast at miniskirts, says: "I'm against ugliness. I always think of the onceover a man gives a woman. "Elegance is a harmony."

The collections will be shown next month. The Paris houses that went a couple of inches above the knee seem determined to reverse the trend. Dior made a tentative move in this direction last year by lengthening coats.

Guy Laroche thinks "the time has come to search for better proportions." He feels, however, "calf length is incompatible with contemporary living."

Jen Pomarede, designer for Jacques Heim, will show two lengths. For daytime, he skims the knee cap. From cocktail time on he has a "surprise calf length."

Gerard Pipart, designer for Nina Ricci, spreads his lengths around the block. For sports, he follows a traditional British look, below the knees. For afternoon they swing short, and for evening they are often irregular.

But nothing has changed for Ted Lapidus, the most offbeat of all Paris couturiers. He sticks to his guns and claims "both mothers and daughters will show kneecaps in a variety of minilengths."

Other than the hemlines, the prospect for the new seasen is a veering away from the Twiggy look and the masculine silhouette and back to the feminine girls. Clothes will be cut to show the figure. Waists will be cinched and always belted, necklines flattering and sleeves everywhere.

SAILING IN THE SUN

Sailboats in high and dry Arizona? Yes, indeed. Planners of Litchfield Park, a brand new town now under construction on 12,000 acres of farmland near Phoenix, have included a large man-made lake with sailboats in their layouts for the city. A survey of Arizona residents revealed that 60 per cent would like to live near a lake.

The city is expected to have a population of over 75,000 when completed in about 20 years. Each of the 12 villages around the central core will be centered around a different recreational facility - the lake, a golf course, or some other suitable community play area.

SPRING

Spring is showing everywhere
In green and fragrant bloom,
Depticting fluffy laces from
Her multicolored loom--
No artist ever blended such
A beautiful array
As spring has in her showing on
This lovely sunny day.
The snowball and spirea and
The tulips really glow,
With evidence that spring is tops
In any artist's show.

HE'S A REAL SPORT

"Golly!" exclaimed the young lady, hinting. "That aroma of friend hamburger is simply divine!"

"Well," said the young man cheerily, "as soon as the light changes, I'll drive closer so you can really enjoy it."

Mrs. Larry Dean White

DEXTER - Glowing pink cathedral tapers that marked the bridal aisle and the altar setting cast a soft gleam in the sanctuary of the First Methodist church June 10, as Miss Carol Whitmore exchanged marriage vows with Larry Dean White.

The Rev. Robert McCoy, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony at 8 p.m. before an altar arrangemnt of ferns, tree and branch candelabra holding pink wedding tapers and a large basket filled with pink roses and mums.

Mrs. C. C. Manlove, organist, offered a pre-nuptial medley of wedding selections and accompanied the soloist, Miss Pam Cooper of Kennett as she sang "Because", "Whither Thou Goest" and "O Perfect Love". The couple knelt at a brass prie dieu for the nuptial blessing.

Miss Whitmore is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Whitmore, 133 South Mulberry, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl White, route three.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of white crepe fashioned with a scooped neckline, long fitted sleeves that extended to lily points over her hands and an empire waist marked with wide chantilly lace. Tiny self-fabric buttons cascaded down the back and also fastened at the wrists. A bow at the back waistline marked the beginning of a long flowing train enhanced with matching chantilly lace. Her bouffant, four tier veil of illusion was secured with a flowerlet cap of lace, seed pearls and crystal. She wore a single strand of pearls and matching earrings. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses, lily of the valley and was centered with a detachable rose corsage.

Miss Kay Hart was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Janet Roderman, St. Louis, and Miss Beverly Corbin. Miss Mary Jane Whitmore, sister, of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

The bridal attendants were gowned in matching ensembles of floor-length mint green bonded crepe dresses fashioned with empire waistlines, short sleeves and accents of deep green velvet ribbon that formed bows in the back and ended in streamers. Matching fabric caplets held their green tulle veils and complimented their costumes with white stretch lace gloves. Each of the bridal attendants carried long stem pink roses.

Flower girls were little Miss Deena White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Linville White, and little Miss Robin White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don White. Bernie. Both flower girls are nieces of the bridgesgroom. They wore mint green dresses styled with short sleeves and scooped necklines. They carried white baskets trimmed in lace and pink bows and scattered pink rose petals along the bridal aisle.

Candlelighters were Miss Barbara Haveman, Muscatine, Iowa and Miss Jo Dean Menke, St. Louis. Matching green dresses, street length, were complimented with pink rose wrist corsages to complete their attire.

Attending the groom as best man was Gary Bean, Cape Girardeau and groomsmen were Don White, Linville White, and junior groomsman was Mike White, all brothers of the groom. Ushers were Ray Fulkerson, Cape Girardeau and Bob Dodd. The men in the wedding party wore black suits and ties and pink rose boutonnieres with the exception of the groom who wore a white rose boutonniere.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Whitmore chose a pink silk and cotton dress with a jacket of eyelet embroidery styled with long sleeves and she wore a pink hat and matching shoes, and gloves. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. White was attired in a printed silk dress of aqua and green with aqua accessories and a pink rose corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in fellowship hall. The bride's table was laid with a white satin cloth and featured a three-tiered wedding cake topped with two love birds, silver punch bowl and silver compotes of nuts and mints accented the table.

Presiding at the punch bowl were Miss Pam Buckner, Desloge and Miss Diane Hathaway, St. Genevieve, with Miss Jean Brown, and Miss Megan Kempf, Florissant, serving the cake. Miss Carole Ringer had charge of the guest book and Miss Peggy McClain, St. Louis was at the gift table.

Following the reception, the couple left immediately for Victorville, Calif., and George air force base, where the groom is stationed. For traveling the new Mrs. White selected a pink bonded two piece crepe dress, styled with a straight skirt and a rounding neckline with bell sleeves. She wore the corsage from her bridal bouquet and matching pink shoes and handbag.

The former Miss Whitmore was graduated from Dexter high school in 1964 and has completed her junior year at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau. The groom, a Bernie high school graduate of 1962, completed three years at SEMO State before entering the air force.

A rehearsal dinner was given June 9 at the Whitmore home by Mr. and Mrs. Earl White, Mrs. Bob Dodd, Mrs. Linville White and Mrs. Don White. A centerpeice of pink roses, wedding rings and a miniature bride and groom flanked with pink candles adorned the table and cake and coffee were served from a second table. The large sheet cake was inscribed with best wishes to the young couple.

In our parish the priest was instructing a Confirmation class. "Be certain, girls, that your hair style leaves the forehead open so the bishop can mark it with holy chrism."

Then as an afterthought, he added: "I guess that goes for the boys, too." Mrs. Dean Pierce

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
THE ELEVENTH COMMANDMENT

All 25 Republican state governors have indicated that, barring emergency, they will attend a two-day conference at Jackson Hole, Wyo. opening on Thursday (June 29).

Political scribes and prophets will be watching the Republican Governors Conference to see just how well the Eleventh Commandment is observed. This new political article of faith is a by-product of the 1966 campaign in California. It says, in effect, that Republicans should not criticize each other but criticize only Democrats.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California suggested at the close of the GOP governors conference last December that the same commandment should obtain in the national Republican party, even in Presidential primaries. Gov. Robert E. Smylie, who attended the December meeting despite his previous defeat in the Idaho primary, said that actually the rule had been enlarged to provide that "Republican governors don't speak ill of any Republican governors."

The Republican governors have every reason to maintain an atmosphere of sweetness and light at their gathering at Jackson Hole. The elections last year gave Republicans eight new governorships for a total of 25. Republican governors preside over 57.5 per cent of the U.S. population. The party gained substantially in state legislatures and sent to Washington a delegation of young senators and representatives.

But pitted against the reasonable admonition of the Eleventh Commandment will be man's ambition. Probably the only foreseeable Republican Presidential nominee who will not be present at the Wyoming grouping - if you eliminate such admittedly "only-if" candidates as Sen. Thruston B. Morton (Ky.) and Sen. Charles Percy (Ill.) - is Richard M. Nixon, whose six-month "sabbatical" from politics seems to be stretching out.

At the moment, Nixon appears to be the front-runner with the people who manage the party, the state and county leaders, while Gov. George Romney (Mich.) - if the public opinion polls can be believed - leads with the rank-and-file.

Romney at the December governors conference is supposed to have been designated as "the acknowledged leading Presidential candidate" by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Rockefeller has released two of his top political aides, Tom Stephens and Carl Spad, to the Romney forces.

So far Romney has shown an understandable reluctance to declare his open candidacy, despite the urgency of such as Rockefeller and retired Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania. But of late a ripple of interest in the supposedly rejected candidacy of Rockefeller himself has been shown.

Rockefeller has been in public life almost 40 years. Fortune magazine asserts of his service as governor of New York: "Those who have studied his eight years and five months in office - friend or foe (and there are plenty of foes) - have to admit that there has never been a period of accomplishment quite like this in the history of state administrations."

Rockefeller himself says: "I no longer want to go to the Presidency . . .I have gotten to the point where I want to live a quiet, peaceful life. You get to that point, you know."

But, as Fortune suggests, this is precisely what Rockefeller should be saying if he did want the nomination. And the Romney tent is crowded with Rockefeller people - all of them, for the time being at least, observing the Eleventh Commandment.

A good requirement for all public officials would be the following as outlined by J. Edgar Hoover for FBI personnel: "Selection of personnel is a primary key to effective operation in any organization. We feel that our personnel do not work for the FBI, but rather we consider that they are the FBI. Our recruitment and selection program is, therefore, calculated to enlist employees of fine quality - men and women who have a capacity for growth. The Agent applicant in particular must meet rigid physical and education requirements; he must have a real interest in a career of service, and his private life must withstand the closest scrutiny."

NO MATTER WHAT HAPPENS . . .THERE IS ALWAYS SOMEONE WHO KNEW IT WOULD.

WHEN TO ADVERTISE

A successful retailer once told a group of merchants that the time to advertise "is all the time." To a degree he was right. Hit and miss advertising is mostly miss.

There are certain seasons when sales for certain items are best. That is the time to advertise that certain item. When people are in the market to buy, sales are made easily and at full markup.

Every store has its own sales pattern. This pattern should be charted for the guidance of the advertising manager. Stocks should be peaked, and advertising should peak just ahead of the heaviest selling season for any item of merchandise.

Certain days of the week may be found to be better selling days. The advertising should reflect that fact. Certain weeks of the month may be better than other weeks. Paydays may make a difference in daily sales. All factors that increase sales should be reflected in the store's advertising program.

So in a sense, the time to advertise is all the time because there is always something in the store that sells better at certain imes.

Said Maurice Stans at the 71st Congress of American Industry, "We don't have to reverse or reconsider our federal programs on a wholesale scale, we merely have to hold them back a bit. We don't have to set the clock back to 1896, we simply have to slow it down while we close the three year lead that spending has gained over revenues. We don't have to veto progress, we merely have to abandon the 'crash' psychology that we can solve all human ills by massive doses of instant money."

"Glance identification" of exit and entrance ramps may soon become a standard feature on the nation's highways if color coding tests being conducted in several states prove successful.

Color coding - or the use of different colors to identify exit and entrance ramps on high-speed highways - is being tested in New York, Minnesota, Michigan, Oregon and Ohio with some surprising results.

Michigan, Oregon and Ohio are using yellow edge-striping for entrance ramps and blue for exit ramps on Interstate-type highway interchanges. In Michigan, color coding produced these results, according to Frank DeRose, Jr., acting engineer of traffic research for the state highway department:

1. Erratic maneuvers - or changing lanes before reaching the exit ramp - were reduced by more than 38 percent at one Michigan test site, and by more than 33 percent at another.

2. More than 92 percent of the drivers interviewed said the reflective, colored edge-striping was a definite benefit. The blue and yellow edge-striping reflects headlights and outlines ramps, especially helpful at night. Drivers traveling at high speed said they noticed the colored ramps sooner. This reduced confusion and mistakes that may have led to accidents.

Encouraged by these results, another, more exhaustive, test of color coding is now being conducted on US-23 in Michigan, DeRose said.

As an advance warning, New York's department of public works has installed red pavement in front of stop signs near Albany and Buffalo. Orange pavement is used to identify merging lanes.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Insomnia is one of the big prices of success. The guy who's at the top of the latter, and trying to stay there, usually takes more sleeping pills than the one who has only a foot on the bottom rung.

No one keeps a secret diary without a hidden hope that eventually someone else will read it—someone who really appreciates the diarist.

One of the surest ways for a man to avoid promotion is to have his boss come in every morning and see him gulping his breakfast at his office desk. A guy this disorganized in his eating habits is probably just as disorganized about his job.

FISCAL TIME BOMBS

One of the questions that has never been satisfactorily answered is, how is the theory of controlling economic cycles by judicious government spending to be enforced, when spending goes only one way -- up. A good example of the mortal conflict between the new economics and political reality lies in what one noted economist calls ". . . reckless disregard of prudent expenditure planning . . ." by Congress. He goes on to point out: "Prudent expenditure planning requires that the full long-range cost of every multiple-year Federal program, its effect on available Federal resources, and its importance in relation to other demands on these resources, be estimated and made public at inception. The Federal budget is full of fiscal time bombs in the form of projects launched with a small, seemingly harmless appropriation, but involving total future costs running into many millions or billions. Thus there is a 'built-in' threat that deficit financing and inflation may continue regardless of tax policy."

Throughout the length and breadth of this big country, political candidates strive to bring home the bacon in the form of an initial appropriation from Congress for the supposed benefit of constituents. Their efforts can make hash of the new economics.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

EXIT WHEELUS

On May 27, Drew Pearson reported that Arab governments, even though previously critical of Nasser, would be stampeded by anti-Israel sentiment into retaliation against the United States, and that Libya would cancel the Wheelus air force base lease in Tripoli.

On June 9, the Libyan government notified the United States of the cancellation of the Wheelus lease.

WASHINGTON -- The pellmell victory of the Israeli army has confounded the U.N. diplomats, but it may have set one important pattern for peace.

The Israelis have indicated that they would be willing to make the city of Jerusalem, so sacred to the Christian, Jewish and Moslem worlds, an open city. Already the Israeli minister of religion has put a committee of Moslems in charge of the Great Rock, sacred to the Moslem faith, and a committee of christians in charge of the Holy Sepulcher, where Christ was buried.

If, in cooperation with the Vatican, the protestant churches and the Moslem faith, and under the eye of the United Nations, Jerusalem is now made an open city, it would serve as a precedent for peace throughout the world.

The next move would be to make other great and historic capitals open cities.

Athens, the capital of Greece, is the cradle of Democracy. Its great monuments must be preserved.

Rome, the capital of Italy, is also the sacred capital of the Roman Catholic world, and the cradle of the Republican form of government. It was an open city in World War II and must be made so in perpetuity.

Paris was also an open city in World War II. Its art, its architecture are among the great treasurers of the world.

London was not an open city during World War II, but was subject to relentless bombing by Hitler. It must be protected in the future.

Likewise Moscow, with the great art treasurers of the Kremlin museums and the palaces of the Czars, must be an open city.

Similarly, Washington should be declared immune from attack, as well as the capitals of Canada and Latin America.

If these cities are declared safe from attack, the world will have taken a long step toward the prevention of war. Ironically this will have happened through an act of war by the Israeli army. But it will also have sprung from the place where lived and preached the Man who tried to bring peace on earth, good will to men.

BLUEPRINT FOR PEACE

One trouble with the boiling Near East is that the United States has never shaped up an overall plan for peace. It has used fire brigade diplomacy. The state department has rushed in to put out the fires, but has never rebuilt to clean out the fire hazards.

Here is a newspaperman's plan for peace in the Near East, which may seem idealistic. But something like this will have to be constructed if even more dangerous war is to be prevented.

1. Make the Suez Canal an international waterway and simultaneously adopt the Truman principle of internationalizing other vital waterways, including the Panama Canal, the Bosporus, the Kiel Canal, the Danube and the Rhine.

2. Rebuild the old irrigation systems -- the Tigris, the Euphrates and the Jordan Rivers which once made the Near East the breadbasket of that part of the world.

3. Dig a canal from the Mediterranean to the Dead Sea. The Dead Sea is about 1,296 feet below sea level, and the fall of water from the Mediterranean into the Dead Sea would generate enough power to industrialize southern Israel and neighboring Jordan.

4. Give Jordan a corridor to the Mediterranean. In 1948, after Israeli first became a state, Mrs. Golda Meir held secret talks with King Abdullah of Jordan, grandfather of King Hussein. They planned to give Israel most of the Jordanian territory up to the west bank of the Jordan River, and in return Israel would give Jordan a corridor to the sea across the Negev Desert.

The plan was abandoned after King Abdullah was killed by an Arab fanatic while kneeling in the Great Mosque of Jerusalem, because he had talked to Mrs. Meir.

Jordan today is almost prostrate. It needs Israeli help to get back on its feet, and King Hussein, Hitherto, has been open minded about Israel.

FESTERING REFUGEE SORE

5. Solve the question of refugees. Ever since the independence of Israel, these refugee camps have been allowed to fester and grow into one of the chief detriments to good will in the Near East. Approximately one million idle people plotting the day when they will return to Israel by force of arms do not make for peace. It will take money from the west to solve the refugee problem, but the west has been putting up millions of dollars for refugee food every year, and it would be cheaper to solve the problem than continue the feeding.

6. Israel will have to change its attitude toward Israeli Arabs. There are more than a quarter of a million Arabs already living in Israel, and in recent years they have had the status of second class citizens. If Israel gave the benefits of its citizenship to the Arabs living within its own boundaries, it would help soothe the rest of the Arab world.

The basic fact is that the Arabs need Israeli technical knowhow and the Israelis need the agricultural and oil resources of the Arab world. A Sand Curtain of hate and suspicion now separates them. It will take time but the curtain can be lifted. It will take all the resourcefulness of western leaders and all the patience of Near East leaders. But the lifting of this curtain is the only solution for peace in the embattled and bloody Near East.

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR LIFE

Dr. Pierce Harris, of the First Methodist Church in Atlanta, gave some good rules for improving yourself recently at a meeting of auto dealers in Miami.

1. Learn one new thing every day.
2. Try to make as many friends and as few enemies as possible.
3. Do something each day to beautify and adorn your mind.

Every friend is an asset and every enemy a liability, Dr. Pierce said. He said take time every day to do a few things that you don't have to do.

"It's what you do to yourself, not what others do to you that counts," he said.

He topped off his talk with this one:

"If you want a short winter, have a note come due in the Spring."

"I don't drink," his date replied.

"May I offer you a cigarette?"

"I don't smoke," she said.

"Would you be interested in going up to my apartment, putting a little mood music on the phonograph and . . ." she answered by slapping his face.

"I don't suppose you eat hay either," he said, nursing his jaw.

"Well, hardly," she said icily.

Doc. Duncan Says

Officeholders, lawmakers and big biz are making a fatal mistake when they persuade themselves they can drive the cross-bred, hi-bred American people by surrounding them with punative laws, rules and regulations, leaving them only one unsatisfactory avenue of escape while they themselves honor and obey no laws, rules or regulations of either God or man!

The present generation of teen-agers are wise beyond their years and most of them are keeping up with the goings-on in our Government, from dog-catcher to president, and are showing unmistakable signs nation-wide of doing something about it in the near future.

H. L. Hunt Says

EDUCATION IN FREEDOM

Another Independence Day will soon be here, and the occasion offers a fine opportunity for Americans to give thoughts to ways and means of preserving freedom in our nation. The threat to freedom is immediate and real, but it can be overcome if we, the people, are determined and active.

The informed patriot is the hope of our country. And education is his first responsibility - education of his fellow-Americans in the truth about freedom and its foes.

The advances made by these foes are based on the destruction of moral values and the concealment of truth. If liberty is to survive and advance, a new dedication to deep-rooted values and a continued revelation of truth are required. These are the highest functions of education and they can come only through education.

The individual who is determined to become an educator in the cause of freedom has many avenues open to him, including letters to the editor, the delivery of freedom speeches and the distribution of patriotic publications. The educational effort of liberty - loving Americans must take advantage of all means of communication. The effort must be directed at every community group, at all the different elements of the population.

Freedom has all the promise in the world to offer every individual and every group not trying to get power to rule over other Americans. Any person not utterly committed to a slave ideology may be considered susceptible to the appeal of the freedom story.

Political action is important and necessary, but education in public affairs can do more for freedom's cause. HLH.

Inside Labor

REUTHER'S NEXT WAR

Detroiter Will Disclose New Strategy for Coming Assaults on All Industry at Special Parley

Washington, D.C.: -- This will be the summer of Walter Reuther's discontent. Having abided the wintertime by hurling lightning at his comrades in labor, the redhead now is about to mark his Thirty Years War with the nation's businessmen by challenging massive industry -- all of it -- not merely the makers of automobiles.

In this capital on the morning of June 28, Reuther will keynote a meeting of labor leaders including some who were with him when he was America's first angry young man leading his first be-in, then called a sit-in.

There will be newcomers. But, in fact, those around him in the Statler - Hilton will be of the old CIO.

What Reuther will say only Reuther knows. He writes his own speeches and chases his own commas. But the theme of the two - day conference called by the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Dept., created by its president Walter Reuther in the image of the CIO, will be "co-ordinated bargaining."

This is a theme and a jargon worth knowing for it is the computerized wave of the future on the labor front. It is a bargaining and strike technique which already has forced President Johnson to call out such odd labor experts as Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary of Defense McNamara, Secretary of Transportation Boyd and sundry Secretary of Defense McNamara, Secretaries of Commerce in addition to Willard Wirtz. The technique has cost one national corporation some $20 million during a seven months strike. And it is threatening to force Mr. Johnson to deploy his cabinet again this July when much of America's copper supply most likely will be hit by a coordinated strike.

"Coordinated bargaining" is the stratagem of creating a high command of leaders of different unions which deal with one company. Sometimes that company is diversified, as is Armour which produces locomotives as well as frankfurters.

Sometimes the new laborite-type general staff deals with just one company such as Anaconda Copper, which will insist on dealing separately with each union at each of its plants and sites (except for one western installation).

To converge on Anaconda, Reuther's Industrial Union Dept. has created a central command of 16 unions. Twice they've met in Denver to plan action against the big copper corporations in general and Anaconda in particular. Some 100 copper and other nonferrous metal company contracts expire at the end of the month.

Among the 16 unions are bricklayers, steelworkers, mine, mill and smelter workers, carpenters, operating engineers, auto workers, electrical workers and, of course, Roy Siemiller's Machinists.

In Denver they coordinated their activities -- set up a central communications system, agreed to act jointly only, made a pact not to deviate from similar and joint demands, and to take direction from the new "Anaconda Coordinating Committee."

It will be a clamorous clash and the White House expects a long strike unless the courts or Congress move in.

But this is only the beginning. There are 70 to 80 such central labor commands waiting to take on heavy industry as contracts expire.

These central command units are mechanized. They coordinate by computer. They feed their statistics and experience into the memory box and get back information to feed all their people across the country. The nature of the struggle can be sensed in the words of the man who will follow Reuther to the platform that morning. He is Jack Conway, IUD Executive Director, one of labor's intellectuals, an activist in the Americans for Democratic Action. He will discuss the changes in corporate structure -- diversification -- and therefore the need for new tactical developments in collective bargaining.

If a businessman owns a bus company, a newspaper, an airline and real estate, then this change in structure, says the IUD, should be matched with a central bargaining command made up of the Transport Workers, the Newspaper Guild and the Airline Pilots, etc. -- all working together to hit the central "mother" company at the same time.

For two days Reuther will be meeting with his people, discussing computer data centers, and case studies of the sieges at General Electric and Union Carbide. Undoubtedly the redhead will be planning his second Thirty Years War.

CARDS' Road Trip Ends 8-2

LA Series in Bag

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals may not want to come home. The way they have been winning on the road, they might prefer to keep traveling.

St. Louis pounded the Dodgers 7-2 Thursday night and boosted its National League lead to two games over the idle Cincinnati Reds. The Cards won eight games during their 10-game road trip.

Ed Spiezio celebrated his first start in right field with a two-run single as the Cards broke through to take the lead against loser Claude Osteen with three runs in the sixth inning. Dal Maxvill singled home the other run in the inning.

The Cardinals also scored twice in the eighth and ninth.

Los Angeles got two runs off winner Steve Carlton in the fourth on singles by Ron Fairly and Wes Parker. But Carlton shut the door and finished with a six-hitter for his fifth victory against four losses.

It's a good thing Hank Aaron isn't mad at San Francisco. There's no telling what kind of damage he'd do to the Giants then.

Aaron, who was involved in a squabble with teammate Rico Carty as Atlanta flew west Sunday night, continues to take it out on the rest of the league.

He walloped a two-run homer in the eighth inning lifting the Braves to a 6-4 victory in the second game and a doubleheader sweep against the Giants Thursday. He doubled home Atlanta's first run in the 2-1 first game triumph.

New York's game at Philadelphia was postponed by rain, and the other teams were not scheduled in the National League.

In the American Legue, Detroit whipped Minnesota 5-2 and California bounced Cleveland 7-0. Kansas City at Baltimore and Boston at New York were rained out. Washington and Chicago had a day off.

Aaron's 18th home run, which won the second game for the Braves, gave the Atlanta slugger the National League homer lead.

He drove in three runs in the doubleheader with three hits in seven trips and raised his batting average to .322.

In the first game, Aaron doubled home winning pitcher Phil Niekro in the third inning. An inning later, Woody Woodward's double drove in Denis Menke with Atlanta's second run.

That was enough to beat Gaylord Perry, who struck out 10 but lost his eighth game. Niekro, sprung from the bullpen, hurled a six-hitter and won his third game.

Aaron broke open the nightcap in the eighth against Frank Linzy with Tito Francona on base. Mack Jones also had a two-run shot for the Braves.

Willie Mays' 10th home run of the season and 552nd career shot accounted for the Giants' only run in the opener. Claude Raymond, who got credit for the second game victory, got Mays pinch hitting, to smack into a rally-ending double play in the nightcap.

All-Stars, Aces Annouced

David Newberry, Dan Cartwright, Buddy Vaughn, Eddie Throop, Chalres Dye, Ronnie Senciboy, Les Schatzley, Leroy McCauley, Jerry Ogles, Jimmy Denbow, Stan Sorells, Ricky St. Cin, David Dollar, Don Miller and Grady Jones.

The boys will represent Sikeston in league tournaments this year.

There will be a district, state, regional and world series as the league all stars vie for the title.

Aubrey Davis will manage the All-Stars and will be assisted by Coaches Roy Weichand and Rev. Bob Jones.

Willard Sexton will manage the Babe Ruth Aces this season and will be assisted by Jim Sexton, Jim Musick and J.D. Schaffer. Members of the Aces are Linn Corn, David Hackney, Teddie Watkins, Chuck Leible, Jerry Taylor, Mike Mitchell, Gene Spitzmiller, Derek Wilson, Ken Beal, John Scarbrough, Keith Craig, David Hampton, Curt Dacus, Girard Hunt and Gary Vaught.

The ALL-STARS and ACES will see action tomorrow night at VFW stadium when the Scott City All-Stars meet the All Stars at 8:30 p.m. The Aces play the Cairo All Stars in a 6:30 p.m. game.

Moore To Speak At Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF - Archie Moore, former heavyweight champion of the world and a native of St. Louis, will be a guest of honor and featured speaker on the program of the second anniversary celebration July 12, at the Poplar Bluff Job Corps Youth Conservation Center.

His appearance here will be a return engagement for Moore who first came to Poplar Bluff as a corpsman in the old Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s. He had served in the CCC Camp located on the present site of the Job Corps Center, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

Moore's introduction to the squared circle came while he served here, when he engaged in camp matches and community boxing events. In 1937 he went to St. Louis as an enrollee to compete in the Golden Gloves tournament there.

Moore has identified himself as a juvenile delinquent in St. Louis who found himself in the CCC. In discussing his career with West Coast sports writers, he said, "I made up my mind at seven that I would be a boxing champion."

"One night, many years ago," Moore continued, "I put on the gloves with a well-known amateur boxer who had won two Golden Gloves tournaments. None of the other kids had enough nerve to box him, so I did."

A knockout in the first round sent him on his way to the world championship he went on to win 20 years later. Poplar Bluff area boxing fans may remember these early matches.

Moore, who retired after 30 years of competition and a technical knockout at the hands of Cassius Clay, has dedicated himself to helping youngsters of the country. He comes to Poplar Bluff in the capacity of youth development consultant with the Office of Economic Opportunity.

After his retirement from professional boxing, Moore conceived a system of youth guidance identified as his "ABC" (Any Boy Can) program to combat juvenile delinquency.

Moore received the John F. Kennedy award for outstanding service to youth at a father and son banquet for baseball writers and coaches in Sacramento, California, last year.

Larry Henson, Director of the Poplar Bluff Job Corps Center who announced plans for Moore's appearance this week, said the ex-champion of the ring and reigning champion of youth development will be at the Center for a two-hour period on Tuesday, July 11, to meet with the Corpsman.

In the Wednesday program, scheduled to start at 10:30 a.m., he will share the speaking responsibilities with Governor Warren E. Hearnes and a number of other honored guests.

The program is open to the public. Everyone attending will have an opportunity to tour the Center. Administered by the U.S. Forest Service, the Job Corps Center is located in the Clark National Forest on the west side of U.S. highway 67, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

Manley Fires Second No-Hitter

By RON JAYNES

Rudy Manley, hard firing right hander pitched his second no hitter in the Black River Connie Mack baseball league in as many starts last night. He teamed with Wayne Limbaugh to lead the Sikeston Potlatch Forest team to a twin victory.

Limbaugh opened the night's action with a one-hit 4-3 victory over the visiting Puxico nine. Manley checked the visitors, 10-0.

Manley was one walk away from pitching his first perfect game as he issued a base on balls in the first inning to the second batter after firing three pitches past the leadoff hitter.

In the other league twin bill, Dexter swept a pair at Poplar Bluff, 8-0 and 5-3.

Ken Walker and Rick Mooney teamed to pitch Dexter to its twin victory and into second place in the league standings, moving ahead of Puxico.

Manley collected 16 strikeouts in seven innings of no-hit pitching. He accumulated eight in a row as he put down the side in the second and third innings with strikeouts. He opened the season with a no-hit victory over Fisk and was followed in the next outing by Bruce Farris' no hitter.

Limbaugh, in his first game on the mound for the Foresters this season started out rough, allowing three runs in the first inning after walking the first two batters and then giving away to Jim King, who pounded out the first and only hit off the Forester pitching staff this season.

Eight strikeouts and five walks were issued by the right hander.

Limbaugh helped his own cause in his first game. He led a five-hit Sikeston attack with two safeties as his teammates scored one run in the first inning and added two in the third and one in the fifth inning for the victory.

Sikeston hitters pounded the Puxico hurler for 12 hits in the second game with Richard Montgomery, Limbaugh, Mike Garner and Manley collecting two safeties each.

Montgomery had a double in the first game and added another in the second along with a triple in leading the team in extra base hits. Limbaugh pounded out a double in the second game as he raised his batting average with a four for seven night.

Dexter pushed across four runs in the first inning and four in the fifth as they sailed to an 8-0 shut out victory on the right arm of Walker.

The winners collected only four safeties off loser Searcy but added the extra runs on base on balls and errors.

Matthews of Dexter pushed across two runs with a two bagger while Rains doubled for Poplar Bluff.

Walker had three hits in the second game. He paced a nine-hit attack that scored five runs and swept the second game.

Paris Collections' Hemlines Coming Down For Fall, Winter

PARIS (AP) — Hemlines are coming down in the new Paris collections for fall and winter. About an inch below the knee seems to be the consensus.

"Mine will be longer," says Carven. "Why freeze in winter?"

Coco Chanel, who once got herself in trouble with the young swingers with a blast at miniskirts, says: "I'm against ugliness. I always think of the onceover a man gives a woman. "Elegance is a harmony."

The collections will be shown next month. The Paris houses that went a couple of inches above the knee seem determined to reverse the trend. Dior made a tentative move in this direction last year by lengthening coats.

Guy Laroche thinks "the time has come to search for better proportions." He feels, however, "calf length is incompatible with contemporary living."

Jen Pomarede, designer for Jacques Heim, will show two lengths. For daytime, he skims the knee cap. From cocktail time on he has a "surprise calf length."

Gerard Pipart, designer for Nina Ricci, spreads his lengths around the block. For sports, he follows a traditional British look, below the knees. For afternoon they swing short, and for evening they are often irregular.

But nothing has changed for Ted Lapidus, the most offbeat of all Paris couturiers. He sticks to his guns and claims "both mothers and daughters will show kneecaps in a variety of minilengths."

Other than the hemlines, the prospect for the new season is a veering away from the Twiggy look and the masculine silhouette and back to the feminine girls. Clothes will be cut to show the figure. Waists will be cinched and always belted, necklines flattering and sleeves everywhere.

New Arrivals

DOCKINS

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dockins, 334 North Ellis, Cape Girardeau, are the parents of a son born at 1:15 a.m. today in the Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau. The new arrival weighed six and a half pounds and is the couple's first child. He has been named Melvin Ray, Jr. Mrs. Dockins is the former Miss Ruth Link, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Link of Cape Girardeau. The father, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chalner Dockins, 506 West Gladys, is an insurance salesman. Mrs. Dockins is a former office manager of the Daily Standard.

FLANIGAN

Pvt. and Mrs. Charles Flanigan of Dexter are the parents of a son born Wednesday in the Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau. Named Charles Timothy, the new arrival weighed nine pounds and two ounces and is the couple's first child. Mrs. Flanigan is the former Miss Sheila Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Summers of Dexter. Pvt. Flanigan, who is home on leave, is in the army stationed at Fort Riley, Kan. He is the son of Mrs. Janice Flanigan of Essex.

SAILING IN THE SUN

Sailboats in high and dry Arizona? Yes, indeed. Planners of Litchfield Park, a brand new town now under construction on 12,000 acres of farmland near Phoenix, have included a large man-made lake with sailboats in their layouts for the city. A survey of Arizona residents revealed that 60 per cent would like to live near a lake.

The city is expected to have a population of over 75,000 when completed in about 20 years. Each of the 12 villages around the central core will be centered around a different recreational facility - the lake, a golf course, or some other suitable community play area.

SPRING

Spring is showing everywhere
In green and fragrant bloom,
Depicting fluffy laces from
Her multicolored loom--
No artist ever blended such
A beautiful array
As spring has in her showing on
This lovely sunny day.
The snowball and spirea and
The tulips really glow,
With evidence that spring is tops
In any artist's show.

HE'S A REAL SPORT

"Golly!" exclaimed the young lady, hinting. "That aroma of friend hamburger is simply divine!"

"Well," said the young man cheerily, "as soon as the light changes, I'll drive closer so you can really enjoy it."

In our parish, the pastor was taking several Sisters on a drive in the country. As they passed one crossroad, he pointed to some vacant land and said, "The bishop is talking about building a shrine out here. He thinks it would be of interest to tourists."

Mrs. Larry Dean White

DEXTER - Glowing pink cathedral tapers that marked the bridal aisle and the altar setting cast a soft gleam in the sanctuary of the First Methodist church June 10, as Miss Carol Whitmore exchanged marriage vows with Larry Dean White.

The Rev. Robert McCoy, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony at 8 p.m. before an altar arrangemnt of ferns, tree and branch candelabra holding pink wedding tapers and a large basket filled with pink roses and mums.

Mrs. C. C. Manlove, organist, offered a pre-nuptial medley of wedding selections and accompanied the soloist, Miss Pam Cooper of Kennett as she sang "Because", "Whither Thou Goest" and "O Perfect Love". The couple knelt at a brass prie dieu for the nuptial blessing.

Miss Whitmore is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Whitmore, 133 South Mulberry, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl White, route three.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of white crepe fashioned with a scooped neckline, long fitted sleeves that extended to lily points over her hands and an empire waist marked with wide chantilly lace. Tiny self-fabric buttons cascaded down the back and also fastened at the wrists. A bow at the back waistline marked the beginning of a long flowing train enhanced with matching chantilly lace. Her bouffant, four tier veil of illusion was secured with a flowerlet cap of lace, seed pearls and crystal. She wore a single strand of pearls and matching earrings. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses, lily of the valley and was centered with a detachable rose corsage.

Miss Kay Hart was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Janet Roderman, St. Louis, and Miss Beverly Corbin. Miss Mary Jane Whitmore, sister, of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

The bridal attendants were gowned in matching ensembles of floor-length mint green bonded crepe dresses fashioned with empire waistlines, short sleeves and accents of deep green velvet ribbon that formed bows in the back and ended in streamers. Matching fabric caplets held their green tulle veils and they complimented their costumes with white stretch lace gloves. Each of the bridal attendants carried long stem pink roses.

Flower girls were little Miss Deena White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Linville White, and little Miss Robin White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don White, Bernie. Both flower girls are nieces of the bridgesgroom. They wore mint green dresses styled with short sleeves and scooped necklines. They carried white baskets trimmed in lace and pink bows and scattered pink rose petals along the bridal aisle.

Candlelighters were Miss Barbara Haveman, Muscatine, Iowa and Miss Jo Dean Menke, St. Louis. Matching green dresses, street length, were complimented with pink rose wrist corsages to complete their attire.

Attending the groom as best man was Gary Bean, Cape Girardeau and groomsmen were Don White, Linville White, and junior groomsman was Mike White, all brothers of the groom. Ushers were Ray Fulkerson, Cape Girardeau and Bob Dodd. The men in the wedding party wore black suits and ties and pink rose boutonnieres with the exception of the groom who wore a white rose boutonniere.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Whitmore chose a pink silk and cotton dress with a jacket of eyelet embroidery styled with long sleeves and she wore a pink hat and matching shoes, and gloves. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. White was attired in a printed silk dress of aqua and green with aqua accessories and a pink rose corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in fellowship hall. The bride's table was laid with a white satin cloth and featured a three-tiered wedding cake topped with two love birds, silver punch bowl and silver compotes of nuts and mints accented the table.

Presiding at the punch bowl were Miss Pam Buckner, Desloge and Miss Diane Hathaway, St. Genevieve, with Miss Jean Brown, and Miss Megan Kempf, Florissant, serving the cake. Miss Carole Ringer had charge of the guest book and Miss Peggy McClain, St. Louis was at the gift table.

Following the reception, the couple left immediately for Victorville, Calif., and George air force base, where the groom is stationed. For traveling the new Mrs. White selected a pink bonded two piece crepe dress, styled with a straight skirt and a rounding neckline with bell sleeves. She wore the corsage from her bridal bouquet and matching pink shoes and handbag.

The former Miss Whitmore was graduated from Dexter high school in 1964 and has completed her junior year at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau. The groom, a Bernie high school graduate of 1962, completed three years at SEMO State before entering the air force.

A rehearsal dinner was given June 9 at the Whitmore home by Mr. and Mrs. Earl White, Mrs. Bob Dodd, Mrs. Linville White and Mrs. Don White. A centerpeice of pink roses, wedding rings and a miniature bride and groom flanked with pink candles adorned the table and cake and coffee were served from a second table. The large sheet cake was inscribed with best wishes to the young couple.

In our parish the priest was instructing a Confirmation class. "Be certain, girls, that your hair style leaves the forehead open so the bishop can mark it with holy chrism."

Then as an afterthought, he added: "I guess that goes for the boys, too." Mrs. Dean Pierce

Jordan Big Loser of Mideast War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is quietly considering what it can do to help Jordan, which appears to be the big loser in the Arab-Israeli war.

There are three key reasons for special U.S. attention to the plight of Jordan, officials explain.

— Jordan's loss of relatively more territory than Egypt or Syria, and of important sources of revenue, including income from tourism with such tourist attractions as Jerusalem and Bethlehem now in Israeli hands.

— The problem of refugees who left their homes west of the Jordan River in panic when the Israelis advanced.

— The belief that despite his participation in the war against Israel, King Hussein, Jordan's ruler, is still the best friend the United States has in the Arab world. Hussein, with Saudi Arabia's King Feisal, can again represent moderation against the leaders in Damascus and Cairo, U.S. officials hope.

Hussein, officials recalled, departed from the Arab propaganda line when he admitted at a June 19 news conference he had no proof of U.S. or British air support for the Israeli side.

Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser used charges of such air support as one excuse for the Arab defeat. The Johnson administration hopes this charge eventually will be discredited in the Arab world.

Hussein, it is believed in Washington, virtually became Nasser's prisoner when the Egyptians took control of the Gulf of Aqaba after withdrawal of the U.N. peacekeeping force. Jordan's only outlet to the sea, the Port of Aqaba, is in the Gulf and Hussein seemingly had no choice but to fall in line with Nasser.

Jordan's military hardware is believed to have been almost destroyed during the war with Israel. It consisted exclusively of British and American equipment, including about 300 modern tanks and about 50 planes.

What the United States will do to help Jordan is not clear. There is no hurry in rearming Hussein, though sources say eventually this must be done — with a proper ceiling — to prevent the Soviets from becoming exclusive arms supplier of the Arab world.

Some economic assistance, however, must come soon, officials acknowledged.

Officially, aid to Jordan is under review. Before the war broke out Jordan was expected to receive $30 million in "supporting assistance" from the United States for the next fiscal year.

A House Foreign Affairs subcommittee is reported drafting a call for review of U.S. aid policies toward Middle East countries which cut diplomatic relations with the United States during the war. Jordan did not sever relations.

The department lifted its June 5 restrictions on travel to Israel, Morocco, Tunisia, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. Under the restrictions — also still imposed on travel to Algeria, Iraq, Lebanon, Libya, Sudan, Syria, United Arab Republic and Yemen — American citizens are required to obtain passports specifically endorsed by the State Department in order to travel to these countries.

Administration officials also said Wednesday they are studying what can be done to help Arabs who fled territories occupied by Israel. A report is expected next week.

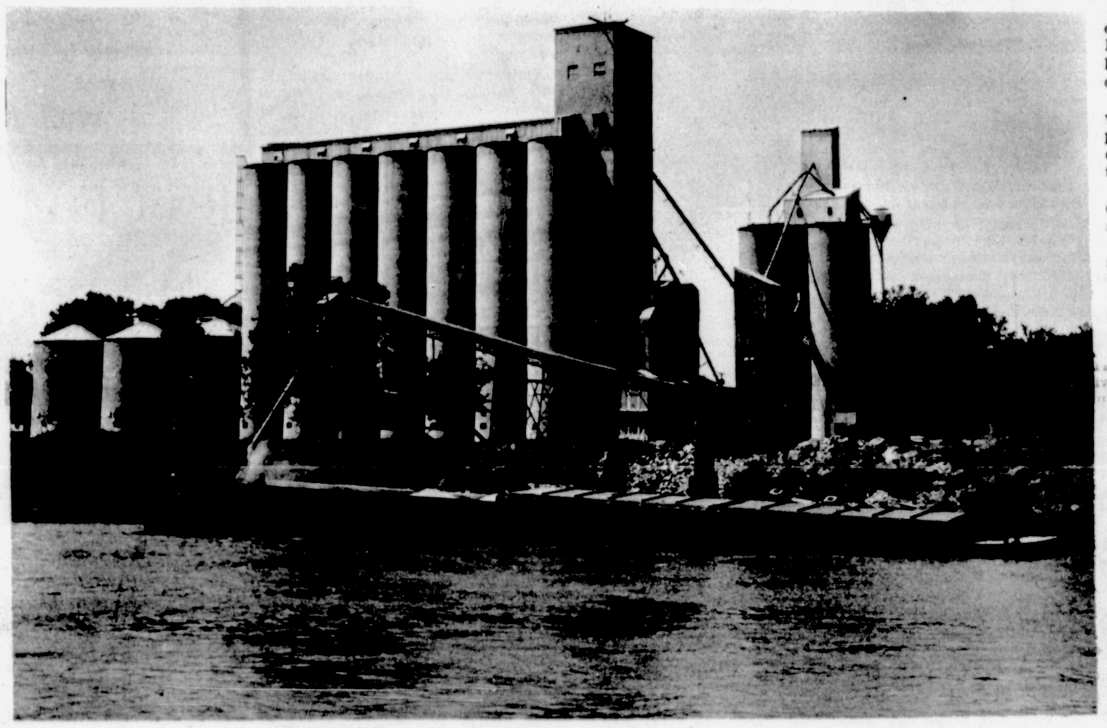

The State Department said it has informed Libya it is ready to continue talks on Libya's request that the United States close down Wheelus Air Force Base.

There's a power in prayer
That we cannot see.
It brings the sayer
Into harmony
With a larger sphere
Than our little earth,
So that 'now' and 'here'
Are like a rebirth.
Prayer is a grace
That is deep and broad.
Prayer is a place
Where you're in touch with God.

Emily Morrison

IN ONE SIDE wheat comes in trucks to the Caruthersville Missouri Farmers Association grain terminal. A truck is being unloaded on one of the three large trailer dumps at the facility. Yields are down this year but more acres were planted to wheat.

OUT THE OTHER SIDE goes wheat from the Caruthersville Farmers Association grain terminal. A barge is being loaded to carry the grain away on the Mississippi river.

WHAT'S A BIDET?

The bidet, which is popularly supposed to have originated in France and is pronounced bee-day, is being installed in more and more public washrooms, especially in hotels and restaurants. Installed next to the water closet, it's gaining converts among homeowners too. Besides serving as a personal hygiene device, it's also popular as a foot bath.

If you'd like more information on the bidet, write for a free folder to the Plumbing Fixture Mfrs. Assn., 1145 19th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

HEARTS ARE TRUMPS

During the 2nd World War, Malta was almost isolated by the incessant bombing of German planes, and food became very scarce. One morning I was seated in a coffee bar next to my store, about to eat a breakfast of boiled, egg, bread and margarine, and tea. An RAF sergeant entered the bar and asked for something to eat, but the proprietor had nothing to offer him. I gave him the boiled egg, shared my bread with him, and ordered another cup of tea for him. He accepted the food, thanked me, and went his way. Later, as the bombing increased, our island was on the edge of starvation. Bread, our staple food, was very black, inferior bread, made largely from coarse - ground wheat and potatoes.

One day as I was standing on the doorway of my store, the bread," he added. "What I a horse - drawn wagon full of nice gave you was my ration, since white bread loaves passed by. once you gave me breakfast." A sergeant stood guard in the rear. He called to me, "Catch it!" and a beautiful loaf came flying into my hands. The same thing happened for the next several days.

Some time later the sergeant came into my store, introduced himself, shook hands with me, and explained that he was the noncom in charge of the RAF bakery. "I was not stealing

Nugent Baby Already Has Own Ranch

The President also made it plain he is bestowing one of his Texas ranch properties — formerly the Lewis Ranch, a spread of several hundred acres — on his daughter Luci and her husband, Patrick J. Nugent, now that they have produced their first son and his first grandchild.

Luci already is heiress to about $500,000. Her father often has said he had two ranch properties set aside for his daughters, Luci and Lynda. But he never said outright that he had made them a gift of the properties.

At the White House Thursday, however, the President made public a telegram sent to Nugent expressing his happiness at the birth of their son and announcing "our best Hereford heifer is being curried for delivery to the Lewis-Nugent Ranch consigned to your 9-pound son."

That made it plain the Lewis ranch was to belong to the Nugents.

Johnson, kept busy with the most pressing of international concerns including a meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in New Jersey today, has yet to see his grandson.

But there was little question at Seton Hospital here that Johnson probably would get here by Sunday to see Luci's baby.

Luci's Roman Catholic parish priest, the Rev. Harold G. Zink, rector of St. Mary's Cathedral in Austin, said he tried to see Luci at the hospital Thursday but "she was preoccupied."

He said he wanted to discuss christening of the Nugent baby. Father Zink said the Nugents had not yet decided who would do the baptizing.

The third-floor hospital chapel was decorated Thursday with pink peonies-some of the scores of floral bouquets being sent to the President's daughter.

Luci asked a family friend to distribute some to other patients at Seton.

An elderly woman, her leg in a cast and traction, was among the delighted recipients of Luci's flowers. She got a bouquet of yellow roses to brighten her hospital room.

Everything still was going perfectly, with Luci in "high spirits" and up and walking about her hospital room, and little Patrick Lyndon reported crying lustily and progressing normally.

Mrs. Johnson, in an interview in the hospital parking lot, said she and the President were "just beginning to stand tentatively on the edge of finding out what fun this can be and what new furrows it will open up."

Asked who the new baby looked like, Mrs. Johnson said with a smile, "not a soul has said he looks like Lyndon." She said he probably was more like his father, Pat, because "what little hair he has is blond fuzz."

Nugent has short - cropped blond hair while his wife has shining black hair, now worn shoulder-length.

When it came to being called grandma, though, Mrs. Johnson admitted, "Frankly, I'm not very partial to the word."

"I'm looking forward to the experience," said the 54-year-old First Lady with a smile. "But I don't know that I like the name."

Farm Labor Surplus In Southeast Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY - Surplus labor in Southeast Missouri is available for work in the Great Lakes states, according to the Missouri Employment Service, division of employment security.

Seasonal job demands for the Sikeston office area are considered to be non-existent. Earnings of labor for the cotton chopping were low. Despite no work conditions only a few youth and family groups are available for out-of-town work. The most promising supply of labor is high school and college students in search of summer work.

The farm labor information station and rest camp, route two, Sikeston, served 511 migrants last week with 117 en route to Illinois, 74 going to Indiana, 162 on their way to Michigan and 158 listing Ohio as their destination.

Hot days and warm nights have been beneficial to cotton in the Caruthersville area. Cotton is looking good although some stands at skimpy. Several acres of cotton have been sprayed for apids. Cotton chopping is at a minimum. Wheat harvest is approximately 80 per cent complete and the land has been replanted in soybeans. One hundred workers are available for referral to other areas for either cannery or factory work.

There are no orders for cotton chopping in the Poplar Bluff area. Recruitment is underway by an out-of-state canning company. Eleven left Saturday. Nine trainees have been referred to the farm hand training class at Marshall.

Labor demands in the Cape Girardeau area continue light, especially for seasonal hay jobs. There is a surplus of youths available for unskilled farm work - aged 16 and 17. Employers are being urged to utilize this source. Recruitment continues for workers, 18 and over, for cannery work in Illinois and Wisconsin. There will be a continuing need from now until July 10. Twenty one youths, ages 18 to 21, were referred to cannery work in Illinois.

The wheat harvest in the Kennett area is 90 per cent completed with the estimated average yield of 30 bushels per acre. The estimated average price this week is $1.40 per bushel. The harvesting of early varieties of peaches is near completion, with the harvest of other varieties to begin in July. Some of the soybeans planted after wheat are already up to a good stand. Cotton chopping activity has been going on throughout the week. Supply of labor is meeting the demand.

DON'T PUT 'EM UP

TYRONE, N.M. (AP) - Days of the wild west were relived when two masked horsemen halted their mounts on the new Burro Mountain-to-Tyrone spur railroad line. They were attemping to slow a train which carried a passenger car.

The horsemen fired their guns into the air and one of them boarded the passenger car and accosted the startled passengers.

The gunman strode up to Bernard Ponessa, of New York City, general traffic manager for Phelps Dodge. Instead of demanding the man's watch and other valuables, he extended a scroll which read: "Welcome to Grant County."

Phelps Dodge owns the spur right-ofway. Last Marvh 1 it completed construction of a 1l-1/2 mile line connecting with the main Santa Fe Railway line into Grant county with Tyrone. At Tyrone, Phelps Dodge is in the process of reopening a copper mine as an open pit operation at an estimated $100 million cost.

The mounted gunmen were area ranchers Jack Hamilton and Jerry Billings. They said they thought up the holdup scheme "on the spur of the moment."

State Tax Dollar Bites Get Bigger

CHICAGO (AP) — State legislatures are taking bigger and bigger tax bites either through tapping new sources of funds or by increasing rates, a survey showed today.

The survey was made by Commerce Clearing House, a private agency that reports to its subscribers on tax and business law. It summarized major tax changes enacted so far in 1967 thus:

Nebraska has levied both a corporate and personal income tax, effective for income earned or received on or after Jan. 1, 1968, with rates to be set annually by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

West Virginia will begin levying a 6 per cent corporate net income tax, effective July 1, 1967.

Corporate income taxes have been boosted in three states— in Maryland from 5 per cent to 5¼ per cent, in Montana from 5¼ per cent to 5½ per cent, and in Tennessee from 4 per cent to 5 per cent.

Minnesota has hiked the basic income tax rates on corporations from 7½ per cent to 8½ per cent, and on banks from 9½ per cent to 10½ per cent. North Dakota also boosted the tax on banks from 4 per cent to 5 per cent. Vermont levied a 5 per cent franchise tax on financial institutions.

Maryland imposed a graduated income tax based on the federal law replacing the classified tax on ordinary and investment income.

Vermont now levies its personal income tax as a percentage of federal tax liability, with adjustments, and in Montana a combination of increased personal income tax rates and a 5 per cent tax credit carries the effect of boosting the tax in the lower and highest brackets and decreasing the tax in some intermediate brackets.

While Kansas has lowered its personal income tax on the first $2,000 of taxable income, from 2½ to 2 per cent, Minnesota has extended its boosted individual income tax rates presently in effect as well as the additional taxes and surtaxes on banks and corporations.

With enactment of two new sales and use taxes so far this year, 44 states and the District of Columbia now levy these revenue producers.

Nebraska's 2½ per cent tax became effective June 1. Minnesota will begin imposing a 3 per cent tax to replace the expired 2¼ per cent sales tax and former 2¼ per cent use tax.

Sales and use tax increases were enacted in Rhode Island— 4 per cent to 5 per cent; Washington— 4.2 per cent to 4½ per cent; and in Wyoming— 2½ per cent to 3 per cent.

Texas has authorized local sales and use taxes of 1 per cent which would apply to the same property and allow the same exemptions as the 2 per cent state tax. Nevada has also imposed a mandatory 1 per cent county sales and use tax similar to the 2 per cent tax.

In our parish a retired priest was called in to help out on Sundays in the absence of the pastor. Everything is up to date in our church, so the assistant pastor and the lay reader had to give a complicated explanation of how the old priest should celebrate Mass here.

As the instructions got longer and longer, th old priest reddened. Finally, he could contain himself no longer.

"Gentlemen, please!" he said. "Leave the Consecration to me."

Little Betty lived in the city and this was her first visit to her uncle's farm. Everything about it interested her. When she saw the men spreading out a cock of hay to dry she could contain her curiosity no longer.

"Are you gentlemen looking for a needle?" she asked politely.

CARDS' Road Trip Ends 8-2

LA Series in Bag

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals may not want to come home. The way they have been winning on the road, they might prefer to keep traveling.

St. Louis pounded the Dodgers 7-2 Thursday night and boosted its National League lead to two games over the idle Cincinnati Reds. The Cards won eight games during their 10-game road trip.

Ed Spiezio celebrated his first start in right field with a two-run single as the Cards broke through to take the lead against loser Claude Osteen with three runs in the sixth inning. Dal Maxvill singled home the other run in the inning.

The Cardinals also scored twice in the eighth and ninth.

Los Angeles got two runs off winner Steve Carlton in the fourth on singles by Ron Fairly and Wes Parker. But Carlton shut the door and finished with a six-hitter for his fifth victory against four losses.

It's a good thing Hank Aaron isn't mad at San Francisco. There's no telling what kind of damage he'd do to the Giants then.

Aaron, who was involved in a squabble with teammate Rico Carty as Atlanta flew west Sunday night, continues to take it out on the rest of the league.

He walloped a two-run homer in the eighth inning lifting the Braves to a 6-4 victory in the second game and a doubleheader sweep against the Giants Thursday. He doubled home Atlanta's first run in the 2-1 first game triumph.

New York's game at Philadelphia was postponed by rain, and the other teams were not scheduled in the National League.

In the American Legue, Detroit whipped Minnesota 5-2 and California bounced Cleveland 7-0, Kansas City at Baltimore and Boston at New York were rained out. Washington and Chicago had a day off.

Aaron's 18th home run, which won the second game for the Braves, gave the Atlanta slugger the National League homer lead.

He drove in three runs in the doubleheader with three hits in seven trips and raised his batting average to .322.

In the first game, Aaron doubled home winning pitcher Phil Niekro in the third inning. An inning later, Woody Woodward's double drove in Denis Menke with Atlanta's second run.

That was enough to beat Gaylord Perry, who struck out 10 but lost his eighth game. Niekro, sprung from the bullpen, hurled a six-hitter and won his third game.

Aaron broke open the nightcap in the eighth against Frank Linzy with Tito Francona on base. Mack Jones also had a two-run shot for the Braves.

Willie Mays' 10th home run of the season and 552nd career shot accounted for the Giants' only run in the opener. Claude Raymond, who got credit for the second game victory, got Mays pinch hitting, to smack into a rally-ending double play in the nightcap.

All-Stars, Aces Annouced

David Newberry, Dan Cartwright, Buddy Vaughn, Eddie Throop, Chalres Dye, Ronnie Sencilboy, Les Schatzley, Leroy McCauley, Jerry Ogles, Jimmy Denbow, Stan Sorells, Ricky St. Cin, David Dollar, Don Miller and Grady Jones.

The boys will represent Sikeston in league tournaments this year.

There will be a district, state, regional and world series as the league all stars vie for the title.

Aubrey Davis will manage the All-Stars and will be assisted by Coaches Roy Weichand and Rev. Bob Jones.

Willard Sexton will manage the Babe Ruth Aces this season and will be assisted by Jim Sexton, Jim Musick and J.D. Schaffer. Members of the Aces are Linn Corn, David Hackney, Teddie Watkins, Chuck Leible, Jerry Taylor, Mike Mitchell, Gene Spitzmiller, Derek Wilson, Ken Beal, John Scarbrough, Keith Craig, David Hampton, Curt Dacus, Girard Hunt and Gary Vaught.

The ALL-STARS and ACES will see action tomorrow night at VFW stadium when the Scott City All-Stars meet the All Stars at 8:30 p.m. The Aces play the Cairo All Stars in a 6:30 p.m. game.

Archie Moore

Moore To Speak At Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF - Archie Moore, former heavyweight champion of the world and a native of St. Louis, will be a guest of honor and featured speaker on the program of the second anniversary celebration July 12, at the Poplar Bluff Job Corps Youth Conservation Center.

His appearance here will be a return engagement for Moore who first came to Poplar Bluff as a corpsman in the old Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s. He had served in the CCC Camp located on the present site of the Job Corps Center, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

Moore's introduction to the squared circle came while he served here, when he engaged in camp matches and community boxing events. In 1937 he went to St. Louis as an enrollee to compete in the Golden Gloves tournament there.

Moore has identified himself as a juvenile delinquent in St. Louis who found himself in the CCC. In discussing his career with West Coast sports writers, he said, "I made up my mind at seven that I would be a boxing champion."

"One night, many years ago," Moore continued, "I put on the gloves with a well-known amateur boxer who had won two Golden Gloves tournaments. None of the other kids had enough nerve to box him, so I did."

A knockout in the first round sent him on his way to the world championship he went on to win 20 years later. Poplar Bluff area boxing fans may remember these early matches.

Moore, who retired after 30 years of competition and a technical knockout at the hands of Cassius Clay, has dedicated himself to helping youngsters of the country. He comes to Poplar Bluff in the capacity of youth development consultant with the Office of Economic Opportunity.

After his retirement from professional boxing, Moore conceived a system of youth guidance identified as his "ABC" (Any Boy Can) program to combat juvenile delinquency.

Moore received the John F. Kennedy award for outstanding service to youth at a father and son banquet for baseball writers and coaches in Sacramento, California, last year.

Larry Henson, Director of the Poplar Bluff Job Corps Center who announced plans for Moore's appearance this week, said the ex-champion of the ring and reigning champion of youth development will be at the Center for a two-hour period on Tuesday, July 11, to meet with the Corpsman.

In the Wednesday program, scheduled to start at 10:30 a.m., he will share the speaking responsibilities with Governor Warren E. Hearnes and a number of other honored guests.

The program is open to the public. Everyone attending will have an opportunity to tour the Center. Administered by the U.S. Forest Service, the Job Corps Center is located in the Clark National Forest on the west side of U.S. highway 67, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

Manley Fires Second No-Hitter

By RON JAYNES

Rudy Manley, hard firing right hander pitched his second no hitter in the Black River Connie Mack baseball league in as many starts last night. He teamed with Wayne Limbaugh to lead the Sikeston Potlatch Forest team to a twin victory.

Limbaugh opened the night's action with a one-hit 4-3 victory over the visiting Puxico nine. Manley checked the visitors, 10-0.

Manley was one walk away from pitching his first perfect game as he issued a base on balls in the first inning to the second batter after firing three pitches past the leadoff hitter.

In the other league twin bill, Dexter swept a pair at Poplar Bluff, 8-0 and 5-3.

Ken Walker and Rick Mooney teamed to pitch Dexter to its twin victory and into second place in the league standings, moving ahead of Puxico.

Manley collected 16 strikeouts in seven innings of no-hit pitching. He accumulated eight in a row as he put down the side in the second and third innings with strikeouts. He opened the season with a no-hit victory over Fisk and was followed in the next outing by Bruce Farris' no hitter.

Limbaugh, in his first game on the mound for the Foresters this season started out rough, allowing three runs in the first inning after walking the first two batters and then giving away to Jim King, who pounded out the first and only hit off the Forester pitching staff this season.

Eight strikeouts and five walks were issued by the right hander.

Limbaugh helped his own cause in his first game. He led a five-hit Sikeston attack with two safeties as his teammates scored one run in the first inning and added two in the third and one in the fifth inning for the victory.

Sikeston hitters pounded the Puxico hurler for 12 hits in the second game with Richard Montgomery, Limbaugh, Mike Garner and Manley collecting two safeties each.

Montgomery had a double in the first game and added another in the second along with a triple in leading the team in extra base hits. Limbaugh pounded out a double in the second game as he raised his batting average with a four for seven night.

Dexter pushed across four runs in the first inning and four in the fifth as they sailed to an 8-0 shut out victory on the right arm of Walker.

The winners collected only four safeties off loser Searcy but added the extra runs on base on balls and errors.

Matthews of Dexter pushed across two runs with a two bagger while Rains doubled for Poplar Bluff.

Walker had three hits in the second game. He paced a nine-hit attack that scored five runs and swept the second game.

Lightning Out of Israel Prepared by AP Writers

NEW YORK - That's the title of a handsome, hard cover, profusely illustrated book on the six-day war between Israel and the Arab states, now being prepared for you by a task force of The Associated Press, world's largest news gathering organization, of which this newspaper is a member.

The task force, headed by Saul Pett, Hugh Mulligan and other widely known byline writers, and by Max Desfor, Pulitzer prize winning photographer and picture editor, is tapping all available sources in the Middle East to tell you what really happened, not only in terms of military movements but of the common people and the leaders involved.

Scores of news pictures and maps in color and black and white, most of them previously unpublished, will help make this 160-page volume memorable in the tradition of "The Torch is Passed," AP's classic account of the Kennedy assassination.

To reserve your copy of the Middle East war book while the supply lasts, fill out the coupon and mail at once with $2 for each book desired. Checks can be made out to this newspaper. Books will be ready in about five weeks.

East Prairie Votes On Gas Franchise

EAST PRAIRIE - East Prairians will vote Tuesday on a proposed renewal of the Associated Natural Gas Company's franchise to supply natural gas to the city.

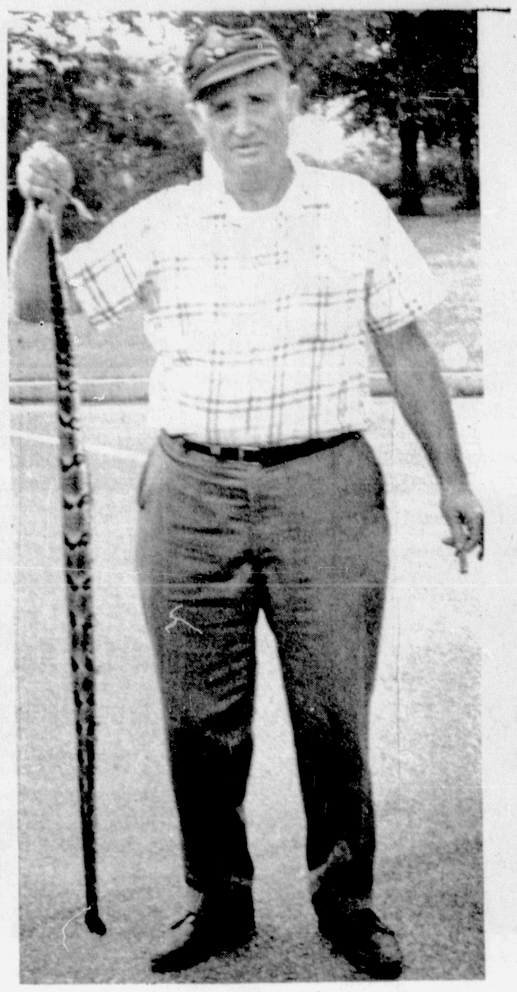

Under the proposed franchise, which is for 10 years with two five-year renewal options, the company will pay the city a tax of five per cent of its receipts, instead of the present two per cent.

My neighbor reported that my six-year-old son was watching her dampen clothes for ironing and asked her what she was doing.

"I'm sprinkling clothes," she told him. "Doesn't your mother do this?"

He unhesitatingly replied, "Oh, no! She washes them!"

Rep. Tony Heckemeyer Reports

JEFFERSON CITY-- This week the Missouri general assembly finally came up with a feasible plan for the redistricing of the 10 congressional districts in Missouri. This plan is acceptable to me and I believe will protect the interests of the people of the district. One regrettable feature of the plan is that perhaps we shall have to expand again very shortly as the census of 1970 will show a population loss for the district.

It appears that the 10th District will probably be composed of the following counties: Howell, Shannon, Reynolds, Iron, St. Francois, Ste. Genevieve, Perry, Cape Girardeau, Madison, Wayne, Carter, Oregon, Ripley, Butler, Bollinger, Stoddard, Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

House bill 727 was passed by the House with Senate amendments which would extend accident and health insurance policies over children who are retarded or have a physical handicap and must stay at home as long as they are incapable of self-sustaining employment by reason of their handicap and are dependent upon the policy holder for support and maintenance. At the present this coverage expires in most policies at either 18 or 21.

House Bill 458 was passed, giving our Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, State Auditor, State Treasurer and Attorney General pay increases. These are much needed increases as most of these men do not make as much as a college professor at the present time and to me, this is positively ridiculous when the burden that these men carry is weighed in the present salary structure of our society.

Senate Bill 73 was passed which will allow employers under Workmen's Compensation a bit of a break in computing their rate of payments into the fund. It would allow a new employer to adjust his rate without waiting the present required three years. This is very good legislation and at the present time this fund has a surplus of 280 Million Dollars, and at the present time this fund has a surplus of 280 Million Dollars, which would tend to indicate we have some breathing room for adjustment.

Senate Bill 224 was passed which creates a governmental emergency fund committee which will have some money available to it which may be used for emergencies which pop up in the running of our state government. One case in point was the explosion of the heating system ine one of our state hospitals. It was necessary to spend $16,000 immediately to repair the heating system but the money was not available, as the law requires that only the Assembly could appropriate funds for this type of thing.

Senate Bill 6, after almost nine hours of debate, was finally passed. This provides for annual automobile inspection. The fee will be $2.50 and the inspection must be made prior to the licensing of a vehicle each year. It was felt by the proponents of this bill that this would be a wonderful safety measure for the motorists in the State of Missouri. I tend to agree but I feel it is going to be quite a pain in the neck as the years go by.

If you have any questions, please feel free to write me.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Wil Rose discovered his life's work in the middle 1950's while on a nine month trip documenting with film, tapes and artifacts the cultures of 22 countries in Europe and Asia for Los Angeles State College. He saw people in each country facing simple technical problems in agriculture, construction, medicine, etc. He also knew there were people in the United States who had the solutions. It was a matter of communications.

In 1958 Rose founded DATA (stands for Development and Technical Assistance) International which is dedicated to the precept that practical, usable information transmitted from qualified, concerned individual Americans to citizens in underdeveloped lands can alleviate human misery and create greater understanding among world's peoples.

Except for the administrative staff of a half-dozen people, DATA is comprised of volunteers, 2000 technical assistants in the U.S. and 10,000 Amercians living overseas who report problems. In the past nine years over 7,000 problems and solutions have been processed through DATA. It is supported by contributions from private individuals, companies, organizations, and foundations. Wil Rose says, "I expose my faith, I don't impose it."

Jordan Big Loser of Mideast War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is quietly considering what it can do to help Jordan, which appears to be the big loser in the Arab-Israeli war.

There are three key reasons for special U.S. attention to the plight of Jordan, officials explain.

— Jordan's loss of relatively more territory than Egypt or Syria, and of important sources of revenue, including income from tourism with such tourist attractions as Jerusalem and Bethlehem now in Israeli hands.

— The problem of refugees who left their homes west of the Jordan River in panic when the Israelis advanced.

— The belief that despite his participation in the war against Israel, King Hussein, Jordan's ruler, is still the best friend the United States has in the Arab world. Hussein, with Saudi Arabia's King Feisal, can again represent moderation against the leaders in Damascus and Cairo, U.S. officials hope.

Hussein, officials recalled, departed from the Arab propaganda line when he admitted at a June 19 news conference he had no proof of U.S. or British air support for the Israeli side.

Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser used charges of such air support as one excuse for the Arab defeat. The Johnson administration hopes this charge eventually will be discredited in the Arab world.

Hussein, it is believed in Washington, virtually became Nasser's prisoner when the Egyptians took control of the Gulf of Aqaba after withdrawal of the U.N. peacekeeping force. Jordan's only outlet to the sea, the Port of Aqaba, is in the Gulf and Hussein seemingly had no choice but to fall in line with Nasser.

Jordan's military hardware is believed to have been almost destroyed during the war with Israel. It consisted exclusively of British and American equipment, including about 300 modern tanks and about 50 planes.

What the United States will do to help Jordan is not clear. There is no hurry in rearming Hussein, though sources say eventually this must be done — with a proper ceiling — to prevent the Soviets from becoming exclusive arms supplier of the Arab world.

Some economic assistance, however, must come soon, officials acknowledged.

Officially, aid to Jordan is under review. Before the war broke out Jordan was expected to receive $30 million in "supporting assistance" from the United States for the next fiscal year.

A House Foreign Affairs subcommittee is reported drafting a call for review of U.S. aid policies toward Middle East countries which cut diplomatic relations with the United States during the war. Jordan did not sever relations.

The department lifted its June 5 restrictions on travel to Israel, Morocco, Tunisia, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. Under the restrictions — also still imposed on travel to Algeria, Iraq, Lebanon, Libya, Sudan, Syria, United Arab Republic and Yemen — American citizens are required to obtain passports specifically endorsed by the State Department in order to travel to these countries.

Administration officials also said Wednesday they are studying what can be done to help Arabs who fled territories occupied by Israel. A report is expected next week.

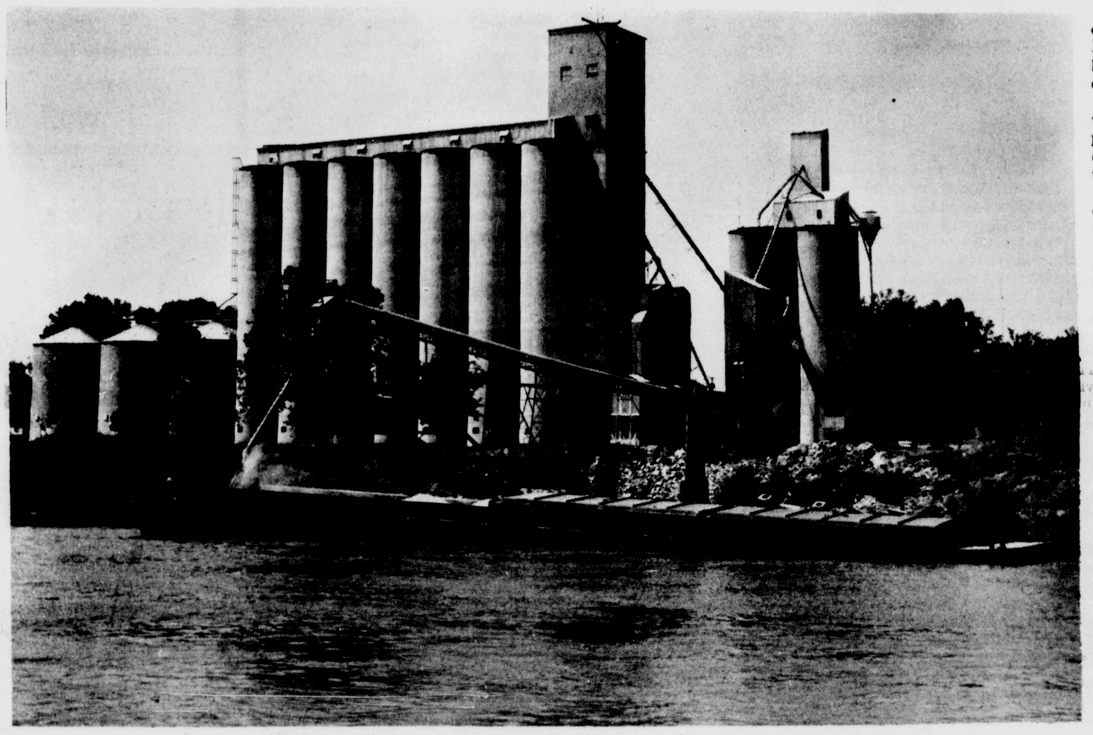

The State Department said it has informed Libya it is ready to continue talks on Libya's request that the United States close down Wheelus Air Force Base.

There's a power in prayer
That we cannot see.
It brings the sayer
Into harmony
With a larger sphere
Than our little earth,
So that 'now' and 'here'
Are like a rebirth.
Prayer is a grace
That is deep and broad.
Prayer is a place
Where you're in touch with God.

IN ONE SIDE wheat comes in trucks to the Caruthersville Missouri Farmers Association grain terminal. A truck is being unloaded on one of the three large trailer dumps at the facility. Yields are down this year but more acres were planted to wheat.

OUT THE OTHER SIDE goes wheat from the Caruthersville Farmers Association grain terminal. A barge is being loaded to carry the grain away on the Mississippi river.

WHAT'S A BIDET?

The bidet, which is popularly supposed to have originated in France and is pronounced beeday, is being installed in more and more public washrooms, especially in hotels and restaurants. Installed next to the water closet, it's gaining converts among homeowners too. Besides serving as a personal hygiene device, it's also popular as a foot bath.

If you'd like more information on the bidet, write for a free folder to the Plumbing Fixture Mfrs. Assn., 1145 19th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

HEARTS ARE TRUMPS

During the 2nd World War, Malta was almost isolated by the incessant bombing of German planes, and food became very scarce. One morning I was seated in a coffee bar next to my store, about to eat a breakfast of boiled egg, bread and margarine, and tea. An RAF sergeant entered the bar and asked for something to eat, but the proprietor had nothing to offer him. I gave him the boiled egg, shared my bread with him, and ordered another cup of tea for him. He accepted the food, thanked me, and went his way.

Later, as the bombing increased, our island was on the edge of starvation. Bread, our staple food, was very black, inferior bread, made largely from coarse - ground wheat and potatoes.

One day as I was standing on the doorway of my store, a horse - drawn wagon full of nice white bread loaves passed by. A sergeant stood guard in the rear. He called to me, "Catch it!" and a beautiful loaf came flying into my hands. The same thing happened for the next several days.

Some time later the sergeant came into my store, introduced himself, shook hands with me, and explained that he was the noncom in charge of the RAF bakery. "I was not stealing the bread," he added. "What I gave you was my ration, since once you gave me breakfast."

Nugent Baby Already Has Own Ranch

The President also made it plain he is bestowing one of his Texas ranch properties — formerly the Lewis Ranch, a spread of several hundred acres — on his daughter Luci and her husband, Patrick J. Nugent, now that they have produced their first son and his first grandchild.

Luci already is heiress to about $500,000. Her father often has said he had two ranch properties set aside for his daughters, Luci and Lynda. But he never said outright that he had made them a gift of the properties.

At the White House Thursday, however, the President made public a telegram sent to Nugent expressing his happiness at the birth of their son and announcing "our best Hereford heifer is being curried for delivery to the Lewis-Nugent Ranch consigned to your 9-pound son."

That made it plain the Lewis ranch was to belong to the Nugents.

Johnson, kept busy with the most pressing of international concerns including a meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in New Jersey today, has yet to see his grandson.

But there was little question at Seton Hospital here that Johnson probably would get here by Sunday to see Luci's baby.

Luci's Roman Catholic parish priest, the Rev. Harold G. Zink, rector of St. Mary's Cathedral in Austin, said he tried to see Luci at the hospital Thursday but "she was preoccupied."

He said he wanted to discuss christening of the Nugent baby. Father Zink said the Nugents had not yet decided who would do the baptizing.

The third-floor hospital chapel was decorated Thursday with pink peonies-some of the scores of floral bouquets being sent to the President's daughter.

Luci asked a family friend to distribute some to other patients at Seton.

An elderly woman, her leg in a cast and traction, was among the delighted recipients of Luci's flowers. She got a bouquet of yellow roses to brighten her hospital room.

Everything still was going perfectly, with Luci in "high spirits" and up and walking about her hospital room, and little Patrick Lyndon reported crying lustily and progressing normally.

Mrs. Johnson, in an interview in the hospital parking lot, said she and the President were "just beginning to stand tentatively on the edge of finding out what fun this can be and what new furrows it will open up."

Asked who the new baby looked like, Mrs. Johnson said with a smile, "not a soul has said he looks like Lyndon." She said he probably was more like his father, Pat, because "what little hair he has is blond fuzz."

Nugent has short - cropped blond hair while his wife has shining black hair, now worn shoulder-length.

When it came to being called grandma, though, Mrs. Johnson admitted, "Frankly, I'm not very partial to the word."

"I'm looking forward to the experience," said the 54-year-old First Lady with a smile. "But I don't know that I like the name."

Farm Labor Surplus In Southeast Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY - Surplus labor in Southeast Missouri is available for work in the Great Lakes states, according to the Missouri Employment Service, division of employment security.

Seasonal job demands for the Sikeston office area are considered to be non-existent. Earnings of labor for the cotton chopping were low. Despite no work conditions only a few youth and family groups are available for out-of-town work. The most promising supply of labor is high school and college students in search of summer work.

The farm labor information station and rest camp, route two, Sikeston, served 511 migrants last week with 117 en route to Illinois, 74 going to Indiana, 162 on their way to Michigan and 158 listing Ohio as their destination.

Hot days and warm nights have been beneficial to cotton in the Caruthersville area. Cotton is looking good although some stands at skimpy. Several acres of cotton have been sprayed for apids. Cotton chopping is at a minimum. Wheat harvest is approximately 80 per cent complete and the land has been replanted in soybeans. One hundred workers are available for referral to other areas for either cannery or factory work.

Labor demands in the Cape Girardeau area continue light, especially for seasonal hay jobs. There is a surplus of youths available for unskilled farm work - aged 16 and 17. Employers are being urged to utilize this source. Recruitment continues for workers, 18 and over, for cannery work in Illinois and Wisconsin. There will be a continuing need from now until July 10. Twenty one youths, ages 18 to 21, were referred to cannery work in Illinois.

The wheat harvest in the Kennett area is 90 per cent completed with the estimated average yield of 30 bushels per acre. The estimated average price this week is $1.40 per bushel. The harvesting of early varieties of peaches is near completion, with the harvest of other varieties to begin in July. Some of the soybeans planted after wheat are already up to a good stand. Cotton chopping activity has been going on throughout the week. Supply of labor is meeting the demand.

DON'T PUT 'EM UP

TYRONE, N.M. (AP) - Days of the wild west were relived when two masked horsemen halted their mounts on the new Burro Mountain-to-Tyrone spur railroad line. They were attemping to slow a train which carried a passenger car.

The horsemen fired their guns into the air and one of them boarded the passenger car and accosted the startled passengers.

The mounted gunmen were area ranchers Jack Hamilton and Jerry Billings. They said they thought up the holdup scheme "on the spur of the moment."

State Tax Dollar Bites Get Bigger

CHICAGO (AP) — State legislatures are taking bigger and bigger tax bites either through tapping new sources of funds or by increasing rates, a survey showed today.

The survey was made by Commerce Clearing House, a private agency that reports to its subscribers on tax and business law. It summarized major tax changes enacted so far in 1967 thus:

Nebraska has levied both a corporate and personal income tax, effective for income earned or received on or after Jan. 1, 1968, with rates to be set annually by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

Corporate income taxes have been boosted in three states— in Maryland from 5 per cent to 5¼ per cent, in Montana from 5¼ per cent to 5½ per cent, and in Tennessee from 4 per cent to 5 per cent.

Minnesota has hiked the basic income tax rates on corporations from 7½ per cent to 8½ per cent, and on banks from 9½ per cent to 10½ per cent. North Dakota also boosted the tax on banks from 4 per cent to 5 per cent. Vermont levied a 5 per cent franchise tax on financial institutions.

Vermont now levies its personal income tax as a percentage of federal tax liability, with adjustments, and in Montana a combination of increased personal income tax rates and a 5 per cent tax credit carries the effect of boosting the tax in the lower and highest brackets and decreasing the tax in some intermediate brackets.

While Kansas has lowered its personal income tax on the first $2,000 of taxable income, from 2½ to 2 per cent, Minnesota has extended its boosted individual income tax rates presently in effect as well as the additional taxes and surtaxes on banks and corporations.

With enactment of two new sales and use taxes so far this year, 44 states and the District of Columbia now levy these revenue producers.

Nebraska's 2½ per cent tax became effective June 1. Minnesota will begin imposing a 3 per cent tax to replace the expired 2¼ per cent sales tax and former 2¼ per cent use tax.

Sales and use tax increases were enacted in Rhode Island— 4 per cent to 5 per cent; Washington— 4.2 per cent to 4½ per cent; and in Wyoming— 2½ per cent to 3 per cent.

Texas has authorized local sales and use taxes of 1 per cent which would apply to the same property and allow the same exemptions as the 2 per cent state tax. Nevada has also imposed a mandatory 1 per cent county sales and use tax similar to the 2 per cent tax.

In our parish a retired priest was called in to help out on Sundays in the absence of the pastor. Everything is up to date in our church, so the assistant pastor and the lay reader had to give a complicated explanation of how the old priest should celebrate Mass here.

As the instructions got longer and longer, th old priest reddened. Finally, he could contain himself no longer.

"Gentlemen, please!" he said. "Leave the Consecration to me."

Dorothy Barron

Little Betty lived in the city and this was her first visit to her uncle's farm. Everything about it interested her. When she saw the men spreading out a cock of hay to dry she could contain her curiosity no longer.

"Are you gentlemen looking for a needle?" she asked politely.

A friend and I were riding a train to London, England, and met a very pleasant English gentleman. When we arrived in London, he invited us to lunch at his club.

He said, "No, no. I don't smoke. I tried it once and didn't like it."

We were seated and my friend asked if the gentleman would care for a drink.

He replied, "No, no, I don't drink. I tried it once and didn't like it. However, my son will arrive in a few minutes and he will join you."

My friend commented, "Your only child, I presume?"

Lightning Out of Israel Prepared by AP Writers

NEW YORK - That's the title of a handsome, hard cover, profusely illustrated book on the six-day war between Israel and the Arab states, now being prepared for you by a task force of The Associated Press, world's largest news gathering organization, of which this newspaper is a member.

The task force, headed by Saul Pett, Hugh Mulligan and other widely known byline writers, and by Max Desfor, Pulitzer prize winning photographer and picture editor, is tapping all available sources in the Middle East to tell you what really happened, not only in terms of military movements but of the common people and the leaders involved.

Scores of news pictures and maps in color and black and white, most of them previously unpublished, will help make this 160-page volume memorable in the tradition of "The Torch is Passed," AP's classic account of the Kennedy assassination.

To reserve your copy of the Middle East war book while the supply lasts, fill out the coupon and mail at once with $2 for each book desired. Checks can be made out to this newspaper. Books will be ready in about five weeks.

Rep. Tony Heckemeyer Reports

JEFFERSON CITY-- This week the Missouri general assembly finally came up with a feasible plan for the redistricing of the 10 congressional districts in Missouri. This plan is acceptable to me and I believe will protect the interests of the people of the district. One regrettable feature of the plan is that perhaps we shall have to expand again very shortly as the census of 1970 will show a population loss for the district.

It appears that the 10th District will probably be composed of the following counties: Howell, Shannon, Reynolds, Iron, St. Francois, Ste. Genevieve, Perry, Cape Girardeau, Madison, Wayne, Carter, Oregon, Ripley, Butler, Bollinger, Stoddard, Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

House bill 727 was passed by the House with Senate amendments which would extend accident and health insurance policies over children who are retarded or have a physical handicap and must stay at home as long as they are incapable of self-sustaining employment by reason of their handicap and are dependent upon the policy holder for support and maintenance. At the present this coverage expires in most policies at either 18 or 21.

House Bill 458 was passed, giving our Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, State Auditor, State Treasurer and Attorney General pay increases. These are much needed increases as most of these men do not make as much as a college professor at the present time and to me, this is positively ridiculous when the burden that these men carry is weighed in the present salary structure of our society.

Senate Bill 73 was passed which will allow employers under Workmen's Compensation a bit of a break in computing their rate of payments into the fund. It would allow a new employer to adjust his rate without waiting the present required three years. This is very good legislation and at the present time this fund has a surplus of 280 Million Dollars, and at the present time this fund has a surplus of 280 Million Dollars, which would tend to indicate we have some breathing room for adjustment.

Senate Bill 224 was passed which creates a governmental emergency fund committee which will have some money available to it which may be used for emergencies which pop up in the running of our state government. One case in point was the explosion of the heating system ine one of our state hospitals. It was necessary to spend $16,000 immediately to repair the heating system but the money was not available, as the law requires that only the Assembly could appropriate funds for this type of thing.

Senate Bill 6, after almost nine hours of debate, was finally passed. This provides for annual automobile inspection. The fee will be $2.50 and the inspection must be made prior to the licensing of a vehicle each year. It was felt by the proponents of this bill that this would be a wonderful safety measure for the motorists in the State of Missouri. I tend to agree but I feel it is going to be quite a pain in the neck as the years go by.

If you have any questions, please feel free to write me.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Wil Rose discovered his life's work in the middle 1950's while on a nine month trip documenting with film, tapes and artifacts the cultures of 22 countries in Europe and Asia for Los Angeles State College. He saw people in each country facing simple technical problems in agriculture, construction, medicine, etc. He also knew there were people in the United States who had the solutions. It was a matter of communications.

In 1958 Rose founded DATA (stands for Development and Technical Assistance) International which is dedicated to the precept that practical, usable information transmitted from qualified, concerned individual Americans to citizens in underdeveloped lands can alleviate human misery and create greater understanding among world's peoples.

Except for the administrative staff of a half-dozen people, DATA is comprised of volunteers, 2000 technical assistants in the U.S. and 10,000 Amercians living overseas who report problems. In the past nine years over 7,000 problems and solutions have been processed through DATA. It is supported by contributions from private individuals, companies, organizations, and foundations. Wil Rose says, "I expose my faith, I don't impose it."

Islanders Want Adam To Go Home

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — There are no "Adam Go Home" signs in Bimini, and with the praise that flows every time representative-elect Adam Clayton Powell's name is mentioned, there aren't likely to be any.

Nonetheless, some Biminians are beginning to ponder the same question being asked in some Harlem circles: Why doesn't he go home, at least for a visit?

"Adam Powell is a nice man," said one of the young men who works near the two bars which Powell most often frequents, "But I don't think he's being fair to the people who elected him."

Several groups in Harlem have voiced the same opinion since Powell, a Democrat, won a landslide re-election April 11 to the House of Representatives seat from which the House excluded him March 1.

Powell has said he is afraid there will be civil disturbances if he returns to Harlem and is arrested. Two contempt-of-court arrest warrants still threaten him if he sets foot in New York State.

Several Harlem groups have sent telegrams to Powell urging him to come home. Most point out that even if he is arrested, he would simply be joining the ranks of such Negro leaders as Dr. Martin Luther King and CORE's Floyd McKissick.

A telegram sent last month by a group of Harlem ministers, said "the fight is on the streets of Harlem," not in Bimini. It was liberally quoted in an editorial in the New York Courier, one of Harlem's two weekly newspapers.

Two weeks ago J. Raymond Jones, formerly head of Tammany Hall, a Negro and once a strong Powell supporter, surprised everyone with a statement that Powell, veteran of 22 years in Congress, could never regain the power he once had.

It looked to some like the opening of a "get-Powell" campaign. The Rev. R. M. Kinloch, chairman of Harlem's Protestant Council and a signer of the ministers' telegram, said he knew of several persons who were considering running against the congressman-elect in the next election, a little more than a year away.

"We stood up and fought for him," Kinloch said. "Now the question is, will he stand up and fight for us?"

Some Bimini residents also question what they say is his constant discussion of black power and being black.

"He talks about it all the time," said one of a crew that transports tourists around the two small islands that make up Bimini. "Don't put my name down in no newspapers," he said, in a reaction common among islands when asked about the visiting politician.

Even the Sunday sermons that Powell used to give regularly often dealt with black power, islanders said. One of the four-man instrumental group calling itself Adam's Disciples said Powell had explained in a sermon three weeks ago that "anybody can be black, it's a frame of mind."

A group of a dozen or so young men hang around Powell and usually see him on weekdays when he docks his boat, Adam's Fancy, after a day of fishing in the clear Bahamas waters.

"He talks the same as he's been doing since he came down here," one of the group said. "I just talked to him yesterday, but I still don't understand why he doesn't go back. What would a day in jail mean to him?"

"Maybe there would have been riots Palm Sunday," said another, "but not now."

He referred to a promise Powell had made to return to Harlem in triumph on Palm Sunday, then broke, saying he wanted to avoid possible riots.

A trip across the narrow strait to the almost unpopulated island of South Bimini, where Powell lives in a tiny blue and white house set on a treeless hummock of land, resulted in a brush-off of such questions.

The bus driver refused to go beyond Powell's property line, explaining that the congressman-elect had ordered the bus company to keep away anyone who did not have an appointment, especially reporters.

A tall man rushed out of the house to intercept a visitor about 50 feet from the house.

"The congressman will have nothing to say," he said, as Powell's voice rose in an unintelligible shout from the house.

Bullfights Stir up TV Controversy

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The sword went in half way, but the bull refused to die.

Blood streaming down his lance-fringed shoulders, he charged not his tormentors but the matador's cape. Knifed anew, four minutes after the initial thrust, the beast fell dead — to oles mingled with boos for the botched butchery.

So went the last of four kills Saturday night on local station KHJ-TV's 8 p.m. bullfights filmed in Tijuana and Mexico city — a show that has brought both hisses and bravos.

With the first telecast, a week earlier, KHJ asked viewer comment. Letters included:

"My husband and I were thoroughly shocked. Those fellows take turns torturing an animal."

"Dear sadist: Keep it off TV on a night that most children are up watching."

Some approved: "I thought the program was great." "Thank goodness someone has the courage to put this marvelous national sport on a major channel."

"We are grandparents in our mid-fifties, but aficionados nonetheless. Your program is a dream come true."

The station says mail from the first program was 83.1 per cent in favor and 16.9 per cent against continuance.

Then, it says, a local of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals newsletter to members protesting "death in the living room" and "dramatic exhibitions of torture," brought almost solid opposition in the second week's mail. The cumulative percentages fell to 58 for, 42 against.

Mal Klein, KHJ-TV general manager, says bullfights are shown on about 20 U.S. stations, mostly UHF, and, "We're airing them on an experimental basis. Our community has a strong Latin heritage, and that heritage includes bullfighting."

The American Humane Association, through its president, has "most vehemently" protested the telecasts to the Federal Communications Commission. It called "this activity unlawful in every state" and a "violation of the broadcast industry's own television code."

Will KHJ-TV continue the program? Says Klein: "I don't know."

A legitimate letter received at the State Health Department in Albany, N.Y. requested: "Dear Sir, would you please send my brother-in-law any free booklet on mental health. . ."

Young GOP Group Defies Senior Rule

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — In open revolt against domination by the senior GOP, Young Republicans are selecting a national chairman who may have the future of their organization in his hands.

Senior Republicans reacted quickly to Thursday's rejection by the Young Republican Federation convention of a series of amendments to their constitution which would have strengthened the hand of GOP National Chairman Ray Bliss in dealing with them.

The young GOP first rejected a constitutional amendment that would allow the senior organization to put two observers on the Young Republicans executive board.

Then, perhaps fearful they had gone too far in rebuffing the man who holds the purse strings, they approved a change in bylaws to permit two members of the Republican National Committee to sit with the Young Republicans executive group. The bylaws change could be rescinded at any time by another convention.

To emphasize its departure from routine support of the national party, the convention declined to give unanimous approval of a resolution offered by the moderate Pennsylvania delegation praising Bliss. Instead, this issue was put to a voice vote in which a few conservatives shouted their minority dissent.

Jack McDonald of Nashville, Tenn., considered most likely to be elected national Young Republicans chairman today, said that if he is chosen to head the organization he will cooperate closely with Bliss. This cooperation seemed likely to leave in the hands of the new chairman the issue of whether the national organization might cut off the $21,000 budgeted by the national committee for the Young Republicans during the next year.

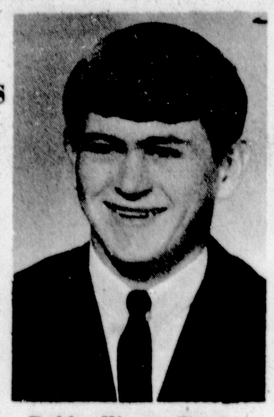

"I don't interpret the action of the convention in voting on constitutional amendment as being any sort of slap at Mr. Bliss," McDonald said.

"It's absolutely necessary that the Young Republicans and the senior party organization work together. We both want winners."

Jack Jordan, Pennsylvania's senior party chairman, said, however, the convention action was a slap at Bliss and the moderates who are supporting Michigan Gov. George Romney for the Republican presidential nomination.

"During most of the last five years, the government has provided a climate generally favorable to business. But it has made some mistakes which threaten to lead us into trouble. One of these is the failure to curb government spending and attempting as well to deal with inflation by interfering, hit or miss, with individual segments of our economy."

'I'll Carry Your Crutches!'

Oh, Let me help you. Let me take your crutches!" This was the sincere though scarcely helpful reaction of a dear friend upon seeing me for the first time trying to navigate on crutches after my accident a few weeks ago. Ever since, my plight has been the object of concern not only to friends, but to total strangers.

Anyone who thinks of New York as a cold, unfriendly city need only to appear on crutches to have people rush to the rescue, even when rescue is not exactly needed!

At first I was inclined to receive such unneeded gestures with a polite but firm refusal. Smiling faces would cloud over and the helpful one would turn away, embarrassed and a little put out. So now I let them help me up and down curbs I am well able to manage alone, and I thank the holders of doors and hailers of taxis with warmth and sincerity.

Perfect strangers will stop dead in their tracks and spend five minutes trying to get a cab for one they feel is "afflicted." These are not always occasions of pure, unalloyed joy. Take the other morning, for instance.

An elderly gentleman was standing outside the coffee shop on the corner. Seeing my attempts to hail a cab, he gallantly sprang to the rescue -- sprang clear out into the middle of the speeding morning traffic, arms waving wildly, white hair blowing in the wind.

Figuratively wringing my hands, and hardly daring to look, I called to him "not to bother." "No trouble," he yelled back, still surrounded by traffic. A taxis turned the corner, and I hailed it gratefully. The old gentleman, beaming, dashed me in. "Knew we'd make it," he said as he slammed the door and waved me off.

Absolute strangers stop one to discourse at great length on the accidents that befell wives, sisters, husbands, grandmothers and great-aunts. They tell me all, never allowing me to get a word in about my fascinating accident and hospital experience. Only he who is first, loudest and firmest stands a chance.

But one of the really nice things about it, apart from the sense of goodwill and kindness they create, is the fact that each person goes out of his way to speak a word of encouragement and hope.

I am under no illusions. If I were being mugged, robbed or murdered, perhaps no one would come to my rescue. But an accident, crutches, apparent helplessness in a mild sort of way, is something people can relate to, especially when the situation is not too challenging or involving.

"Am I my brother's keeper?" More and more the world is saying, "No." Increasingly the answer is that I am my brother's keeper only in a corporate sense, through payment of taxes and contributions to charities.

The concern for one's fellow human beings is more, however, than a desire to fulfill the conditions of Christian discipleship. It seems to me that there is a shy, almost tentative need in the human heart to be needed, and there is also that hardly acknowledged but no one the less urgent need for the fellowship and concern of others. It is through this interaction of human needing and giving that we come closer to the divine.

Michel Quoist says it so simply and clearly:

"Lord, I need others . . .
But I avoid the hands outstretched to help me.
I want to act alone, I want to fight alone,
And yet beside me walk a friend, a spouse,
A brother, a fellow worker.
. . . Too often I ignore them.
And yet it is together that we shall save the world."

It was my first Thanksgiving in the United States, and I had been standing wide-eyed with the crowd in New York City watching the annual Macy's parade. Suddenly I realized that, if I didn't make a break for it, I would miss my train and be late for dinner with friends. I ducked into a subway entrance and went up to the booth to buy a token. The clerk asked, "What country are you from, young lady?"

"Turkey," I answered.

"Turkey!" he exclaimed. "Why turkey and Thanksgiving go together - we can't possibly let you pay on such a day."

With that he opened the gate, then told me what train to take and where to get off. And I quite forgot how far I was away from home.

COON - FUSED

By choice I'm a vegetarian,
Caring little or naught for meat;
Give me turnip greens and cornbread,
Or pastries soft and sweet.

I went to a community supper
(I guess I'm just a goon)
To watch a thousand people

Joy Pasaka Dance Review

CONCENTRATING ON concocting "Love Potion 9" in a modern jazz routine were from left, Claudia Mulcahy, Cyd Mitchell, Sally Mitchell, Terry Mitchell and Vicki Mouchette.

A friend and I were riding a train to London, England, and met a very pleasant English gentleman. When we arrived in London, he invited us to lunch at his club.

He said, "No, no. I don't smoke. I tried it once and didn't like it."

We were seated and my friend asked if the gentleman would care for a drink.

He replied, "No, no, I don't drink. I tried it once and didn't like it. However, my son will arrive in a few minutes and he will join you."

My friend commented, "Your only child, I presume?"

L. B. Bush

WOW! That's all you can say for Cyndi Waters, left, and Vinnie Ralph tap dancing to "Me and My Shadow" at the Dance for Joy (Pasaka That is) review.

Islanders Want Adam To Go Home

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — There are no "Adam Go Home" signs in Bimini, and with the praise that flows every time representative-elect Adam Clayton Powell's name is mentioned, there aren't likely to be any.

Nonetheless, some Biminians are beginning to ponder the same question being asked in some Harlem circles: Why doesn't he go home, at least for a visit?

"Adam Powell is a nice man," said one of the young men who works near the two bars which Powell most often frequents, "But I don't think he's being fair to the people who elected him."

Several groups in Harlem have voiced the same opinion since Powell, a Democrat, won a landslide re-election April 11 to the House of Representatives seat from which the House excluded him March 1.

Powell has said he is afraid there will be civil disturbances if he returns to Harlem and is arrested. Two contempt-of-court arrest warrants still threaten him if he sets foot in New York State.

Several Harlem groups have sent telegrams to Powell urging him to come home. Most point out that even if he is arrested, he would simply be joining the ranks of such Negro leaders as Dr. Martin Luther King and CORE's Floyd McKissick.

A telegram sent last month by a group of Harlem ministers, said "the fight is on the streets of Harlem," not in Bimini. It was liberally quoted in an editorial in the New York Courier, one of Harlem's two weekly newspapers.

Two weeks ago J. Raymond Jones, formerly head of Tammany Hall, a Negro and once a strong Powell supporter, surprised everyone with a statement that Powell, veteran of 22 years in Congress, could never regain the power he once had.

It looked to some like the opening of a "get-Powell" campaign. The Rev. R. M. Kinloch, chairman of Harlem's Protestant Council and a signer of the ministers' telegram, said he knew of several persons who were considering running against the congressman-elect in the next election, a little more than a year away.

"We stood up and fought for him," Kinloch said. "Now the question is, will he stand up and fight for us?"

Jones blamed Powell's downfall on his alliance with "extremist" groups, particularly those supporting black power.

Some Bimini residents also question what they say is his constant discussion of black power and being black.

"He talks about it all the time," said one of a crew that transports tourists around the two small islands that make up Bimini. "Don't put my name down in no newspapers," he said, in a reaction common among islands when asked about the visiting politician.

Even the Sunday sermons that Powell used to give regularly often dealt with black power, islanders said. One of the four-man instrumental group calling itself Adam's Disciples said Powell had explained in a sermon three weeks ago that "anybody can be black, it's a frame of mind."

A group of a dozen or so young men hang around Powell and usually see him on weekdays when he docks his boat, Adam's Fancy, after a day of fishing in the clear Bahamas waters.

"He talks the same as he's been doing since he came down here," one of the group said. "I just talked to him yesterday, but I still don't understand why he doesn't go back. What would a day in jail mean to him?"

"Maybe there would have been riots Palm Sunday," said another, "but not now."

He referred to a promise Powell had made to return to Harlem in triumph on Palm Sunday, then broke, saying he wanted to avoid possible riots.

A trip across the narrow strait to the almost unpopulated island of South Bimini, where Powell lives in a tiny blue and white house set on a treeless hummock of land, resulted in a brush-off of such questions.

The bus driver refused to go beyond Powell's property line, explaining that the congressman-elect had ordered the bus company to keep away anyone who did not have an appointment, especially reporters.

A tall man rushed out of the house to intercept a visitor about 50 feet from the house.

"The congressman will have nothing to say," he said, as Powell's voice rose in an unintelligible shout from the house.

Bullfights Stir up TV Controversy

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The sword went in half way, but the bull refused to die.

Blood streaming down his lance-fringed shoulders, he charged not his tormentors but the matador's cape. Knifed anew, four minutes after the initial thrust, the beast fell dead — to oles mingled with boos for the botched butchery.

So went the last of four kills Saturday night on local station KHJ-TV's 8 p.m. bullfights filmed in Tijuana and Mexico city — a show that has brought both hisses and bravos.

With the first telecast, a week earlier, KHJ asked viewer comment. Letters included:

"My husband and I were thoroughly shocked. Those fellows take turns torturing an animal."

"I turned off the television, absolutely sickened."

"Dear sadist: Keep it off TV on a night that most children are up watching."

Some approved: "I thought the program was great." "Thank goodness someone has the courage to put this marvelous national sport on a major channel."

"We are grandparents in our mid-fifties, but aficionados nonetheless. Your program is a dream come true."

The station says mail from the first program was 83.1 per cent in favor and 16.9 per cent against continuance.

Then, it says, a local of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals newsletter to members protesting "death in the living room" and "dramatic exhibitions of torture," brought almost solid opposition in the second week's mail. The cumulative percentages fell to 58 for, 42 against.

Mal Klein, KHJ-TV general manager, says bullfights are shown on about 20 U.S. stations, mostly UHF, and, "We're airing them on an experimental basis. Our community has a strong Latin heritage, and that heritage includes bullfighting."

The American Humane Association, through its president, has "most vehemently" protested the telecasts to the Federal Communications Commission. It called "this activity unlawful in every state" and a "violation of the broadcast industry's own television code."

Will KHJ-TV continue the program? Says Klein: "I don't know."

A legitimate letter received at the State Health Department in Albany, N.Y. requested: "Dear Sir, would you please send my brother-in-law any free booklet on mental health. . ."

Young GOP Group Defies Senior Rule

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — In open revolt against domination by the senior GOP, Young Republicans are selecting a national chairman who may have the future of their organization in his hands.

Senior Republicans reacted quickly to Thursday's rejection by the Young Republican Federation convention of a series of amendments to their constitution which would have strengthened the hand of GOP National Chairman Ray Bliss in dealing with them.

The young GOP first rejected a constitutional amendment that would allow the senior organization to put two observers on the Young Republicans executive board.

Then, perhaps fearful they had gone too far in rebuffing the man who holds the purse strings, they approved a change in bylaws to permit two members of the Republican National Committee to sit with the Young Republicans executive group. The bylaws change could be rescinded at any time by another convention.

To emphasize its departure from routine support of the national party, the convention declined to give unanimous approval of a resolution offered by the moderate Pennsylvania delegation praising Bliss. Instead, this issue was put to a voice vote in which a few conservatives shouted their minority dissent.

Jack McDonald of Nashville, Tenn., considered most likely to be elected national Young Republicans chairman today, said that if he is chosen to head the organization he will cooperate closely with Bliss. This cooperation seemed likely to leave in the hands of the new chairman the issue of whether the national organization might cut off the $21,000 budgeted by the national committee for the Young Republicans during the next year.

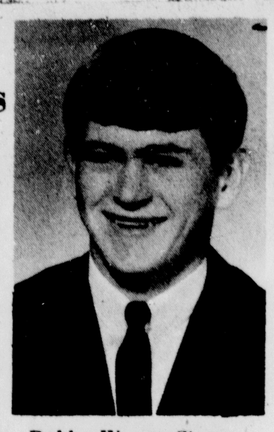

"I don't interpret the action of the convention in voting on constitutional amendment as being any sort of slap at Mr. Bliss," McDonald said.

"It's absolutely necessary that the Young Republicans and the senior party organization work together. We both want winners."

Jack Jordan, Pennsylvania's senior party chairman, said, however, the convention action was a slap at Bliss and the moderates who are supporting Michigan Gov. George Romney for the Republican presidential nomination.

"During most of the last five years, the government has provided a climate generally favorable to business. But it has made some mistakes which threaten to lead us into trouble. One of these is the failure to curb government spending and attempting as well to deal with inflation by interfering, hit or miss, with individual segments of our economy."

Scholar Wins PCA Award

PARMA - Valedictorian of the high school senior class, Bobby Wayne Stone, was awarded one of the three scholarships made available by the Production Credit Associations of Missouri for 1967-68.

The scholarship is for $300.

Stone is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eugene Stone of route one, Malden.

He will enter the University of Missouri college of agriculture to study agriculture education or agriculture engineering.

Stone was a member of a class of 33. He is serving as president of the student council and the Future Farmers of America. He has been a delegate to Future Farmers of America state conventions. His Future Farmer of America enterprise program was swine. He has been secretary-treasurer of the pep club. Stone has participated in baseball three years. He attends the Maple Grove General Baptist church and teaches a Sunday School class.

Stone is employed by the Ford Motor Company in St. Louis.

Thatcher Scism, manager of Sikeston PCA, said that this is the first time a Bootheel boy has received the scholarship.

KY HA, VIETNAM -- Marine Pfc. Charles R. Shipman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Shipman of 728 East Stoddard St., Dexter, Mo., is serving in Vietnam as a member of marine air base squadron 36, a unit of the first marine air wing based near Ky Ha.

Personnel of the squadron maintain and operate camp facilities, and provide perimeter security for the facility in support of the helicopter squadrons of marine aircraft group 36.

'I'll Carry Your Crutches!'

Oh, Let me help you. Let me take your crutches!" This was the sincere though scarcely helpful reaction of a dear friend upon seeing me for the first time trying to navigate on crutches after my accident a few weeks ago. Ever since, my plight has been the object of concern not only to friends, but to total strangers.

Anyone who thinks of New York as a cold, unfriendly city need only to appear on crutches to have people rush to the rescue, even when rescue is not exactly needed!

At first I was inclined to receive such unneeded gestures with a polite but firm refusal. Smiling faces would cloud over and the helpful one would turn away, embarrassed and a little put out. So now I let them help me up and down curbs I am well able to manage alone, and I thank the holders of doors and hailers of taxis with warmth and sincerity.

Perfect strangers will stop dead in their tracks and spend five minutes trying to get a cab for one they feel is "afflicted." These are not always occasions of pure, unalloyed joy. Take the other morning, for instance.

An elderly gentleman was standing outside the coffee shop on the corner. Seeing my attempts to hail a cab, he gallantly sprang to the rescue -- sprang clear out into the middle of the speeding morning traffic, arms waving wildly, white hair blowing in the wind.

Figuratively wringing my hands, and hardly daring to look, I called to him "not to bother." "No trouble," he yelled back, still surrounded by traffic. A taxis turned the corner, and I hailed it gratefully. The old gentleman, beaming, dashed me in. "Knew we'd make it," he said as he slammed the door and waved me off.

Absolute strangers stop one to discourse at great length on the accidents that befell wives, sisters, husbands, grandmothers and great-aunts. They tell me all, never allowing me to get a word in about my fascinating accident and hospital experience. Only he who is first, loudest and firmest stands a chance.

But one of the really nice things about it, apart from the sense of goodwill and kindness they create, is the fact that each person goes out of his way to speak a word of encouragement and hope.

I am under no illusions. If I were being mugged, robbed or murdered, perhaps no one would come to my rescue. But an accident, crutches, apparent helplessness in a mild sort of way, is something people can relate to, especially when the situation is not too challenging or involving.

"Am I my brother's keeper?" More and more the world is saying, "No." Increasingly the answer is that I am my brother's keeper only in a corporate sense, through payment of taxes and contributions to charities.

The concern for one's fellow human beings is more, however, than a desire to fulfill the conditions of Christian discipleship. It seems to me that there is a shy, almost tentative need in the human heart to be needed, and there is also that hardly acknowledged but no one the less urgent need for the fellowship and concern of others. It is through this interaction of human needing and giving that we come closer to the divine.

Michel Quoist says it so simply and clearly:

"Lord, I need others . . .
But I avoid the hands outstretched to help me.
I want to act alone, I want to fight alone,
And yet beside me walk a friend, a spouse,
A brother, a fellow worker.
. . . Too often I ignore them.
And yet it is together that we shall save the world."

It was my first Thanksgiving in the United States, and I had been standing wide-eyed with the crowd in New York City watching the annual Macy's parade. Suddenly I realized that, if I didn't make a break for it, I would miss my train and be late for dinner with friends. I ducked into a subway entrance and went up to the booth to buy a token. The clerk asked, "What country are you from, young lady?"

"Turkey," I answered.

"Turkey!" he exclaimed. "Why turkey and Thanksgiving go together - we can't possibly let you pay on such a day."

With that he opened the gate, then told me what train to take and where to get off. And I quite forgot how far I was away from home.

Ann Landers

Some Fears Are Normal But Others Are Not

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing about the 19-year-old girl who couldn't bring herself to have a physical examination by a male doctor.

We are two 20-year-old girls who have the same problem and we do not feel that we need psychiatric help, as you suggested. We discussed this with our own physican and he says it is perfectly normal for a young woman to be a little frightened and embarrassed under these circumstances.

Generally your advice is good, but we think you are way off the beam this time. Let's hear more from you again -- after you have discussed this with your physician. --- EMBARRASSED AND SANE FROM BILLINGS

Dear E and S: It is indeed perfectly normal for a young woman to be a little frightened and embarrassed under the conditions described, but the girl who wrote was more than a little frightened and embarrassed. She was experiencing severe anxiety symptoms, feelings of depression and guilt, and becoming incapacitated. For six months she had been manufacuring excuses for not taking a job because she was afraid to be examined by a company physician and would not go to her own physician. Got it straight now, girls?

Dear Ann Landers: I think you could have said a lot more in support of the man who complained about the neighbor's dog who consistently messed up their lawn, shrubs and driveway. From your short, shrift answer, it's obvious that you live in an apartment and have no lawn or driveway worries.

I am a home owner who has had to put up with plenty. Our neighborhood dogs have scratched our doors, barked all night, upset our trash cans, ruined our lawn, bit our postman, torn my stocking, jumped on my laundry baskets, knocked our child off his tricycle and attacked our cat.

You hinted gently that dog owners should not allow their pets to run loose. Why didn't you come right out and blast these thoughtless people in the Ann Landers style we are accustomed to? -- DISAPPOINTED

Dear Disappointed: I thought I made it plain when I said "Most cities have dog leash laws and people who love their pets obey the laws. A dog on the loose can be poisoned, stolen, hit by a car or attacked by a wild animal who is rabid."

If you can think of a better way to say it, let me know. I'm open to suggestions.

Dear Ann Landers: I need help with a problem I can't handle alone. Seven months ago our daughter Selma came home with her two little children. Her husband walked out and she can't even find him to prosecute for support money. She has a full-time job and pays us room and board.

Selma acts like she is a house guest. She never washes a dish or makes a bed. She goes out almost every evening and has a grand time. Selma pays very little attention to her children who are the most adorable youngsters in the world.

I would kick her out in five minutes (my husband says I should) but I know she would neglect her children and it would break my heart. Please tell me what to do. - CAN'T DECIDE

Dear Can't: You will be far unhappier if you kick Selma out. at least now you know your grandchildren are being cared for properly. Accept the undesirable aspects of this situation and keep the family under your roof. Good it isn't -- but it's the lesser of the two evils.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Airline Gamble Backfires

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The new advertising campaign, for an airline at least, was a shocker.

"Hey there, you with the sweat on your palms," it started.

"It's about time an airline faced up to something: Most people are scared witless of flying."

The gamble was taken May 28 by Pacific Air Lines at the suggestion of Stan Freberg, Hollywood advertising writer and humorist. Many old-time airline ad men shuddered.

Today it appears the startling frankness has failed.

The Los Angeles Times said Freberg's campaign apparently has been grounded and Pacific Air Lines itself may soon disappear as a corporate entity.

Officials of the airline based in San Francisco confirmed Wednesday that its president, Matthew E. McCarthy, has resigned and that it is being merged into West Coast Airlines Inc. of Seattle. A spokesman for West Coast Airlines said his company will become the survivor.

The newspaper said financial difficulties faced by Pacific Air Lines may have accounted for its advertising gamble.

Freberg's ad campaign included a rabbit's foot given air passengers, along with a cuddling blanket, a copy of the book, "The Power of Positive Thinking," and "surival kits."

Nick Bez Jr., vice president of West Coast Airlines and assistant to his father, the president, said Wednesday he didn't like the "sweaty palms" campaign.

"I find very little in the concept that has merit or fits in with a marketing plan," Bez said.

"No one in the industry liked it, and it was harmful to Pacific. It scared people away from the airline. We don't like to do those things."

No top official of Pacific Air Lines would comment directly on the campaign. A former vice president said the airline has "held up" the advertising and is trying to sell back the rabbits feet and blankets to distributors.

Freberg said he was approached initially by McCarthy who told him the airline needed "a fresh approach."

"If they don't plan to go ahead exactly as I planned, I resign, here and now," Freberg said.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need. (Hebrews 4:16)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy Word and the encouragement it gives us to bring all our needs to Thee. We are grateful for the prayer that Thy Son has taught us: "Our Father who art in heaven .....Amen."

If You Were the Judge

Discharged Cab Driver Entitled to Jobless Pay

THE CASE OF THE ACCIDENT PRONE CABBIE

Amos was a taxi driver with a predeliction for having accidents. In fact, if he had one while sound asleep in bed, it would have surprised no one, not even his nervous boss. And, strange as it may seem, the accidents were never his fault. Nevertheless, Amos was always right smack in the middle of them. And, while he always had presence of mind, absence of body would have been better because Amos never missed getting hurt.

The result? Amos was finally fired.

"You're bright and hard working," his boss conceded ruefully, "but with your knack for getting into accidents, you're going to get killed and I'm going to lose my business. It just can't go on."

So, with a heavy heart, Amos trudged over to the Unemployment Bureau where he applied for unemployment benefits.

"But you were fired," he was told. "Any one who gets fired for cause isn't entitled to unemployment payments."

"That may be so," retorted Amos, "but I didn't get fired because I didn't do my job. I was let go for my boss's convenience and peace of mind. He worried about me. Besides, he didn't like having to maintain a charge account for me at hospitals."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the accident-prone cabbie to collect compensation?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that a person is not disqualified from receiving compensation unless he is unemployed due to wilfulness or misconduct, which does he was accident-prone and not because of any wilful act or misconduct on his part.

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, June 23, the 174th day of 1967. There are 191 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1683, William Penn made a treaty with the Indians that preserved peace in Pennsylvania until 1775.

On this date:

In 1780, the battle of Springfield, N.J., was fought in the American Revolution.

In 1845, Texas agreed to be annexed by the United States.

In 1959, atomic spy Klaus Fuchs was released from prison in England and permitted to fly to Communist East Germany.

Ten years ago— The U.S. State Department circulated a statement affirming the right of free passage in the Gulf of Aqaba.

Five years ago— Flight engineers went on strike against Eastern Air Lines and Pan American World Airways.

One year ago— New York City called off a banquet for King Faisal of Saudi Arabia after he said Jews who support Israel are his enemies.

Ann Landers

Some Fears Are Normal But Others Are Not

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing about the 19-year-old girl who couldn't bring herself to have a physical examination by a male doctor.

We are two 20-year-old girls who have the same problem and we do not feel that we need psychiatric help, as you suggested. We discussed this with our own physican and he says it is perfectly normal for a young woman to be a little frightened and embarrassed under these circumstances.

Generally your advice is good, but we think you are way off the beam this time. Let's hear more from you again -- after you have discussed this with your physician. --- EMBARRASSED AND SANE FROM BILLINGS

Dear E and S: It is indeed perfectly normal for a young woman to be a little frightened and embarrassed under the conditions described, but the girl who wrote was more than a little frightened and embarrassed. She was experiencing severe anxiety symptoms, feelings of depression and guilt, and becoming incapacitated. For six months she had been manufacuring excuses for not taking a job because she was afraid to be examined by a company physician and would not go to her own physician. Got it straight now, girls?

Dear Ann Landers: I think you could have said a lot more in support of the man who complained about the neighbor's dog who consistently messed up their lawn, shrubs and driveway. From your short, shrift answer, it's obvious that you live in an apartment and have no lawn or driveway worries.

I am a home owner who has had to put up with plenty. Our neighborhood dogs have scratched our doors, barked all night, upset our trash cans, ruined our lawn, bit our postman, torn my stocking, jumped on my laundry baskets, knocked our child off his tricycle and attacked our cat.

You hinted gently that dog owners should not allow their pets to run loose. Why didn't you come right out and blast these thoughtless people in the Ann Landers style we are accustomed to? -- DISAPPOINTED

Dear Disappointed: I thought I made it plain when I said "Most cities have dog leash laws and people who love their pets obey the laws. A dog on the loose can be poisoned, stolen, hit by a car or attacked by a wild animal who is rabid."

If you can think of a better way to say it, let me know. I'm open to suggestions.

Dear Ann Landers: I need help with a problem I can't handle alone. Seven months ago our daughter Selma came home with her two little children. Her husband walked out and she can't even find him to prosecute for support money. She has a full-time job and pays us room and board.

Selma acts like she is a house guest. She never washes a dish or makes a bed. She goes out almost every evening and has a grand time. Selma pays very little attention to her children who are the most adorable youngsters in the world.

I would kick her out in five minutes (my husband says I should) but I know she would neglect her children and it would break my heart. Please tell me what to do. - CAN'T DECIDE

Dear Can't: You will be far unhappier if you kick Selma out. at least now you know your grandchildren are being cared for properly. Accept the undesirable aspects of this situation and keep the family under your roof. Good it isn't -- but it's the lesser of the two evils.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were the Judge

Discharged Cab Driver Entitled to Jobless Pay

THE CASE OF THE ACCIDENT PRONE CABBIE

Amos was a taxi driver with a predeliction for having accidents. In fact, if he had one while sound asleep in bed, it would have surprised no one, not even his nervous boss. And, strange as it may seem, the accidents were never his fault. Nevertheless, Amos was always right smack in the middle of them. And, while he always had presence of mind, absence of body would have been better because Amos never missed getting hurt.

The result? Amos was finally fired.

"You're bright and hard working," his boss conceded ruefully, "but with your knack for getting into accidents, you're going to get killed and I'm going to lose my business. It just can't go on."

So, with a heavy heart, Amos trudged over to the Unemployment Bureau where he applied for unemployment benefits.

"But you were fired," he was told. "Any one who gets fired for cause isn't entitled to unemployment payments."

"That may be so," retorted Amos, "but I didn't get fired because I didn't do my job. I was let go for my boss's convenience and peace of mind. He worried about me. Besides, he didn't like having to maintain a charge account for me at hospitals."

Denied compensation, Amos took his claim to court. IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the accident-prone cabbie to collect compensation?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that a person is not disqualified from receiving compensation unless he is unemployed due to wilfulness or misconduct, which does he was accident-prone and not because of any wilful act or misconduct on his part.

(Based upon a 1964 Conn. Superior Court Decision)

Airline Gamble Backfires

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The new advertising campaign, for an airline at least, was a shocker.

"Hey there, you with the sweat on your palms," it started.

"It's about time an airline faced up to something: Most people are scared witless of flying."

The gamble was taken May 28 by Pacific Air Lines at the suggestion of Stan Freberg, Hollywood advertising writer and humorist. Many old-time airline ad men shuddered.

Today it appears the startling frankness has failed.

The Los Angeles Times said Freberg's campaign apparently has been grounded and Pacific Air Lines itself may soon disappear as a corporate entity.

Officials of the airline based in San Francisco confirmed Wednesday that its president, Matthew E. McCarthy, has resigned and that it is being merged into West Coast Airlines Inc. of Seattle. A spokesman for West Coast Airlines said his company will become the survivor.

The newspaper said financial difficulties faced by Pacific Air Lines may have accounted for its advertising gamble.

Freberg's ad campaign included a rabbit's foot given air passengers, along with a cuddling blanket, a copy of the book, "The Power of Positive Thinking," and "surival kits."

Nick Bez Jr., vice president of West Coast Airlines and assistant to his father, the president, said Wednesday he didn't like the "sweaty palms" campaign.

"I find very little in the concept that has merit or fits in with a marketing plan," Bez said.

"No one in the industry liked it, and it was harmful to Pacific. It scared people away from the airline. We don't like to do those things."

No top official of Pacific Air Lines would comment directly on the campaign. A former vice president said the airline has "held up" the advertising and is trying to sell back the rabbits feet and blankets to distributors.

Freberg said he was approached initially by McCarthy who told him the airline needed "a fresh approach."

"If they don't plan to go ahead exactly as I planned, I resign, here and now," Freberg said.

Space Cut Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cut of a quarter billion dollars in space program activities during the next fiscal year was recommended to the Senate today by its space committee.

The panel approved a bill to authorize $4,851,994,000 for the period starting July 1. This was $258 million below the amount asked by President Johnson and some $55 million below funds Congress voted for the current fiscal year.

The Senate committee approved the full $2,546,500,000 asked to push ahead on the Apollo lunar landing program during the next fiscal year. But it slashed $110 million from a follow-on program to come after landing and return of U.S. astronauts from the moon.

The committee also denied $71.5 million asked for the Voyager program, proposed for sending unmanned space vehicles to Mars and other planets.

It also rejected a request for $6.22 million to continue construction of permanent facilities for the Electronics Research Center near Boston. Senators explained that the facilities are being redesigned and construction funds will not be required until the redesign is completed.

As reported to the Senate, the authorization included $4,135,700,000 for research and development, $648,206,000 for administration and $67,100,000 for construction of facilities.

The companion bill pending in the House would authorize $4,992,182,000. Leaders there abandoned efforts to pass it Thursday and delayed action until early next week.

Summit Dickering Quite Involved

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — The decision reached by President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to meet for at least a little while ended one of the most intensive diplomatic tennis games the worried world has seen in several years.

For a week the President and the Soviet leader have batted back and forth the question of when and where they should talk — and whether they should talk at all.

The issue overshadowed the special session of the U.N. General Assembly on the Middle East crisis which brought Kosygin across the Atlantic.

U.S. officials privately agree that if the negotiations had failed to produce a conference, there would have been a bad worldwide reaction except in Communist China and the Arab states.

The Chinese Communists, who frequently charge the Soviet Union with plotting with the United States, and the Arabs, who rely heavily on Soviet opposition to the United States in the Middle East, are expected to react to the Johnson-Kosygin summit with varying degrees of indignation and suspicion. This is believed to have been the major reason underlying Kosygin's refusal to consider Washington as a meeting place; he wanted to minimize his Chinese and Arab problems.

The diplomatic exchange began last weekend when Johnson invited Kosygin, who arrived Saturday, to visit him in Washington during his stay in the United States. The President offered the White House, Camp David, Md., or some nearby mountain resort in Virginia or West Virginia as a site.

Kosygin replied, according to U.S. officials, that he had come to attend the U.N. session rather than to visit the United States and he was therefore unable to accept the invitation. Johnson was reported to regret the rejection, but he considered his invitation still open.

This exchange was handled by the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Lewellyn Thompson, who happened to be in Washington, and the Soviet ambassador to Washington, Anatoly Dobrynin.

The nature of the President's invitation and Kosygin's reply became known publicly last Monday night. The disclosure is reported to have caused a stir among Kosygin's 66-man delegation to the U.N. General Assembly session, and on Tuesday Thompson and Dobrynin were in touch again. The question then arose whether the Soviet premier was opposed to any meeting with the President at this time or whether the problem was of place.

Subsequent exchanges through Dobrynin and Thompson gave the Americans the impression that the site was in Kosygin's view a serious problem. A lesser difficulty was finding a time agreeable to both sides, though the Americans had assumed, it is said, that if there was to be a summit it would be near the end of Kosygin's visit.

The President and his advisers strongly objected to Kosygin's charge that the United States had encouraged Israel in making war on the Arabs. But they noted that he did not attack Johnson personally. His denunciations of the United States as an imperialist power were considered routine, as Soviet speeches go.

Another reservation on which Johnson was determined from the outset was that he would not come to New York to see Kosygin. The United States had opposed the General Assembly session which was called at the Soviets' demand. The President posed the General Assembly session which was called at the Soviets' demand. The President did not want to build it up with his presence.

Since traditional practice has been for foreign officials attending U.N. meetings to visit him in Washington if they wished to do so, Johnson also disliked the idea of reversing protocol and calling on the Soviet leader.

On Tuesday U.S. officials thought the effort to solve the site problem might fail, but by Wednesday U.S. officials were taking the line that "arrangements have not yet been made," implying a belief that eventually they probably would be.

Wednesday night Secretary of State Dean Rusk entertained Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at dinner in his suite on the 35th floor of the Waldorf Towers. For more than three hours they talked over the issues which Kosygin and Johnson might discuss — the Middle East, the war in Vietnam, a treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons, limitation of the antiballistic missile race, the U.S.-Soviet consular convention which the Soviet Union has yet to ratify.

They also talked briefly about summit arrangements but did not make any final decision, which could only be made by Johnson and Kosygin anyway. Gromyko said later the discussion was businesslike. U.S. officials agreed.

Before the final agreement was reached Thursday on Glassboro, N.J., as a site well away from both Washington and New York, Thompson and Dobrynin had a final hectic round of exchanges — their busiest morning of a busy and uncertain week.

Their work was topped off at a noon meeting which Rusk held with Kosygin at the Manhattan headquarters of the Soviet-U.N. delegation. The two men talked for half an hour. When they were through only details of final planning, security arrangements, and the like remained to be cleaned up.

In the final outcome, Kosygin avoided being photographed with the President at the White House, that center of Western "imperialist" power in the Communist lexicon. Johnson avoided being seen anywhere near the U.N. special session on the Middle East. And both men avoided the criticism that failure to meet could have brought down on their heads.

"What is unusual about this diplomatic tennis we've been playing all week," one U.S. official said, "is that it has all been done so much in public. Usually arrangements like this are worked out through embassies before a visitor even gets to this country. But Kosygin's trip was decided on so quickly there was no time for that."

Charles Parker Dies in Columbia
